

Highlights of Kennedy's Plan

Washington—UPI—Highlights of President Kennedy's message to Congress on aid for Latin America:

Funds: Congress should appropriate immediately the $600 million it authorized last year for general aid to Latin America and relief for earthquake-damaged Chile.

Urgency: Such a program is long overdue. Millions of people throughout Latin America are struggling to free themselves from bonds of poverty, hunger and ignorance.

Choice: Without the aid program, there would be a grave and imminent danger of poverty-stricken peoples turning to communism as their only hope for change.

Type of Aid: The funds will be devoted to social progress because economic growth without social progress would let the majority of the people remain in poverty.

Purpose: To overcome the barriers of geographical and social isolation, illiteracy and lack of educational opportunities, archaic tax and land tenure structures and other obstacles to economic growth.

Self-help: No money will be allocated until the recipient nations give assurances that they will live up to the principles of self-help and domestic reform.

Private Groups: Private organizations and U.S. business concerns should redouble their efforts in Latin America and could play an even greater role in the future.

Chile: Reconstruction of the earthquake-damaged areas in Chile is severely hampered by the lack of funds and the $100 million authorized by Congress last year is needed at once.

Expense Claim Filed With Appling

Salem—UPI—Rep. Stafford Hansell filed a second expense claim Monday with Secretary of State Howell Appling Jr.

The action came on the eve of an Oregon Supreme Court hearing in a test case to determine the constitutionality of legislators' paying themselves for out-of-pocket expenses in addition to their salaries. The hearing was scheduled this afternoon.

Appling said he would hold the second Hansell claim until the court "provides guidance."

Hansell and Sen. Boyd Overhulse filed the first two claims shortly after the legislature approved a resolution calling for up to $75 monthly in expense reimbursements during the session and $150 monthly in the interim.

BIG CLEANUP JOB—Businessmen and land owners start the seemingly endless job of cleaning up the shattered remains of their belongings after a twister swooped down on the Ozarks. # Conflicting Proposals on Timber Tax Argued Before House Tax Committee

Salem—UPI—The Oregon legislature's two chief timber tax architects opened hearings on their conflicting plans here Monday with charges of "sneak attacks" by one and warnings of a $52 million tax shift by the other.

Myron Katz, tax committee consultant, said both bills incorporate a new factor in Oregon timber taxation—tax rates that give some advantage to slower timber cutters in an effort to encourage sustained yield operations.

The IFA bill would do this by reducing taxes slightly for cutters who harvest no more than one-third of their mature trees a year, and by tripling taxes in the year of harvest.

The Barton bill is much more extreme, with a sliding scale of tax rates keyed to each operator's speed of cutting trees. Under the Barton bill, the slower the cutting, the lower the rates would be.

As an alternative, the Barton bill would let operators choose a severance tax, or lump tax on cut trees at the time of harvest.

Most Western Oregon timber operators, fearful of ending up without any change in the present flat value tax, have lined up behind the IFA plan. These include the two giants, Georgia-Pacific Corp., considered a fast cutter, and Weyerhaeuser Timber Co., a slower harvester.

Other Highlights—The House passed 51-9, a bill to let a simple majority of voters in a school district reject reorganization. The Senate Education committee announced a 1 p.m. Thursday hearing on community colleges and vocational training.

Arrest—The House approved a bill to let police arrest a driver of an auto on "probable cause" even if the officer did not actually witness a violation.

Reapportionment—A reapportionment plan that makes few changes in legislative makeup was approved by the House Elections committee.

Billboards—The Senate Highways committee heard some objections from both sides on two compromise bills for regulation of roadside signs.

Sex Deviates—The House Welfare committee was urged to take steps to improve rehabilitation of sex offenders in Oregon.

Expenses—The Oregon Supreme court prepared to hear arguments this afternoon on the constitutionality of a resolution to let legislators repay themselves for out of pocket expenses.

Primary—The House approved a bill under which a person may stay out of primary election races if he so wishes. It would eliminate many a tory candidacies of those whose names are put on the ballot by others.

Plane Sought in Northwest Oregon—Portland—UPI—At least 20 search planes took off today to search for a Seattle physician missing on a flight from Palo Alto, Calif., to Everett, Wash.

The small plane was feared down somewhere between Eugene and Portland but search was going on in both states. Ralph McGinnis, state safety supervisor with the State Board of Aeronautics in Salem, said Oregon planes were hunting from Eugene north with Washington planes taking over at the border.

Aboard was Dr. Phillip Rogers. The plane was last heard from over Eugene, according to Federal Aviation Agency officials.

SHOT COSTS $35,000—Modesto, Calif.—UPI—Dairy farmer Harold J. Schmidt of nearby Hughson told sheriff's deputies Monday that a stray shot from a .22 caliber gun killed his Holstein Friesian named Lavacres Della Dusty Jo, which had three times been judged "best of breed" at the National All-American Awards Competition. The cow, valued at $25,000 carried an unborn calf valued at $10,000. Schmidt said the loss was not covered by insurance.

Pretty Girl on Stand In Britain's Spy Trial

London—UPI—Britain brought to the witness stand today a pretty girl secret agent—identified only as Miss K—in an attempt to prove that an international spy ring that included two Americans stole vital naval secrets and sent them in code to Russia.

There was a buzz of excitement in the No. 1 court of the Old Bailey when the prosecution said:

Through a door and onto the witness stand came a brunette with a hairdo resembling that currently worn by Princess Margaret.

She appeared to be between 25 and 30 years old and wore a powder blue raincoat with a blue scarf at her throat. She was a member of branch No. 5 of British Military Intelligence, a highly secret organization whose agents are never identified to the public and never photographed.

Miss K followed a line of male secret agents—"the nameless men"—who testified about how they shadowed three men and two women being tried on charges of penetrating the security of Britain's vital naval base at Portland.

The parade of "nameless men," members of Branch No. 5 of Military Intelligence, began a march to the witness stand Monday. They were identified only as "Mr. A," "Mr. B" and "Mr. I." Their work is so confidential they report direct to the prime minister when they uncover matters threatening the security of Britain.

They testified that for months they have been on the trail of the accused spies.

This would be a Luxury to millions overseas

A bottle of milk, a loaf of bread, a potato—all the basic foods we take for granted—would be a luxury to millions of people overseas. The problem of food is not one of clothing, shelter, the lack of equipment to build lives anew. These problems touch people of all ages, races, colors—the victims of displacement, earthquake, poverty, flood, famine... war.

How can you help? Give support to the overseas aid program of your religious faith. These programs provide food (yes, even milk), tools, clothing, homes, jobs, farm machinery, education and technical training. When your religious faith makes its appeal—give generously—you give hope to millions!
