Bill Would Alter State Constitution

Salem—(UPI)—Rep. Richard Eymann (D-Mohawk) Tuesday introduced a constitutional amendment which would repeal article 4 of the present Oregon constitution if approved by voters in 1962.

Among its provisions is one that the two presiding officers of the legislature, as well as the governor, would call special 30-day sessions on concurrence of 10 per cent of members.

The amendment also would provide for impeachment proceedings under which the Senate would impeach and the House conduct the trial. It could include the governor, secretary of state and other state officials.

Other provisions include: The governor could adjourn both houses if they could not agree on their own adjournment, the governor could cut appropriation bills without having to veto the whole bill, and emergency legislation would require a two-thirds vote instead of simple majority.

Loans for Small Farmers Eased

Washington—(UPI)—Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman has eased the regulations which apply to government farm operating loans for small farmers.

The effect of the move is to make loans available to a number of farmers who could not qualify for this type of government credit in the past.

The loans involved are made by the Farmers Home administration to pay farm operating expenses. They can be used to buy livestock and equipment, fertilizer, tractor fuel and other farm and home operating needs. The loans are approved only for farmers who can't get credit from normal commercial or co-operative agencies.
