Preliminary Plans For College Work Are Progressing

Asland—Preliminary plans for a $310,000 addition to the Cascade hall dormitory complex at Southern Oregon college and the authorization of expansion of physical education facilities are progressing satisfactorily, according to Dr. Elmo N. Stevenson, Southern Oregon college president, upon returning from the Eugene meeting of the Oregon state system of higher education board meeting last week.

Other agenda items concerning SOC included the listing of $7,696 in gifts to the college for scholarships and fellowships, and the approval of a number of course changes for the academic year 1961-62.

Dr. Stevenson pointed out that the board had originally planned the Cascade hall addition to house 72 more students. However, the project architect, Robert J. Keeney, Medford, reported that because of the sloping terrain it would be possible to have a daylight basement which could provide facilities for 16 additional students, thus raising the housing capacity of the new unit to 88.

Conform to Style

Containing an area of 13,912 square feet, the building will conform to the architectural style of the present dormitory complex, and will be four stories high. Exterior walls, corridor walls, and floor and roof slabs will be of reinforced concrete and the outside finish will feature aluminum painted with ceramic tile and sanded stucco surfaces.

Ceilings in living areas will be acoustically treated and the floors will be covered with asphalt tile with quarry tile specified for all entrances. Toilet and shower rooms will have attractive ceramic tile walls and floors. All furniture will be of the built-in type.

Dr. Stevenson reported that no kitchen or dining facilities are to be incorporated in the structure since the residents will have meals in the central commons.

Costs of the structure will be at no cost to the taxpayer, since the project is self-liquidating, that is, paid for by student fees and rentals—a direct result of voter support during the last election when Measure 6 "Bonds for Higher Education Buildings and Facilities" was carried by an overwhelming margin.

Earmarked in January

From the $145,000 for the expansion of physical education facilities, $28,000 was earmarked at the January meeting for the construction of five new tennis courts and track runways.

The balance of the fund will be held in reserve for additional classrooms and equipment until a later date. Bids for this project, which is also self-liquidating, were submitted Wednesday at the college business office.

Gifts were received from Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Brewer, Medford; Klamath County Retired Teachers association, Unit 5, Klamath Falls; Red Raider Booster club, Asland; Victor Mills Memorial Award through Mrs. Horace Badger, Asland; Zonta club, Coos Bay; Associated Teachers, District 6; Klamath Indian Educational program, Chiloquin; Eks lodge, Asland; Rotary club, Port Orford; Rotary club, Ashland; Oregon Coast Veneer, Brookings; Oregon State Grange, Portland; American Legion auxiliary, Coos Bay; Parent-Teacher association, Coburg; Soroptimist club, Ashland; Oregon Congress of Parents and Teachers, Inc., Portland; and Southern Oregon College Dads' club.

Oregon Almanac Now Available

The first complete Oregon Almanac, "Oregon Almanac and Books of Facts," 1961-62 edition, has just been published, according to Binford and Mort, Portland, publishers.

The book contains 600 pages with maps, charts, graphs and photographs. Eight specialists on the Portland State college staff headed by Dr. James Brooks helped write the almanac.

It contains 28 chapters of basic information on Oregon, covering everything from aviation to zoning laws. It is a guide to Oregon's land, resources, people, industry, commerce, transportation and recreation.
