

'Great Need' Visualized For Boardman Location

Portland—UPI—The acting director of Oregon's Department of Planning and Development said Sunday he visualizes a "great need" on the part of Boeing Airplane Co. for Oregon's Boardman site because Boeing is a giant in America's space program.

Samuel H. Mallicoat said Boeing's future is tied into federal contracts and rocketry is getting bigger all the time. The Seattle firm is looking ahead to the day when it will be "putting enormous rockets into space," he said.

Boeing has proposed an 80-year lease for the 100,000-acre site in Northeast Oregon. Billings as Oregon's space age industrial park, the barren-tract has frontage on the Columbia river and is an ideal testing area for big industry.

In Salem, the Oregon Legislative Ways and Means Committee prepared for what the co-chairmen hoped would be approval of the legislation closing the Boardman transaction with Boeing.

State Sen. Daniel Thiel (D-Astoria) Sunday joined the other co-chairman, Rep. Clarence Barton (D-Coquille) in expressing hope the committee will approve the lease at a 4 p.m. meeting today.

The committee will hear a report from Oregon legislators, including Thiel and Barton, who toured Boeing Friday.

Thiel said the Seattle conference satisfied him and he sees no necessity for asking Boeing representatives to appear before the committee to testify. "Now we must act with dispatch," he said.

Two bills submitted by Gov. Mark Hatfield are involved. One authorizes the State Land Board to finalize the $60,000 a year rental and the other carries a state appropriation of $900,000 to cover such costs as moving the Navy's bombing range at Boardman to Southeast Oregon.

House Committee To Hear Report On Boeing Meet

Salem—UPI—State Rep. Clarence Barton said Saturday the Legislative Ways and Means committee will hear a full report Monday on a conference with Boeing officials and he hopes to see the Boardman Industrial Park lease approved by the committee at that time.

He is chairman of the committee.

The Coquille Democrat and five other members of the Oregon legislature spent the day Friday in Seattle touring the Boeing Airplane company operations and conferring with Boeing officials.

The legislators said they were very impressed.

Lease Pending

Boeing and the State of Oregon have an 80-year lease pending for the Boardman tract—100,000 acres of mostly sagebrush in northwest Oregon fronting on the Columbia river.

The site is only one of the few such areas in the nation and highly suitable for testing of rocket engines and other space age activities.

The proposed lease and a $900,000 state appropriation to cinch the deal are pending in the Ways and Means committee.

Great Thing

Barton said he was satisfied with the contract before the trip to Seattle. Boeing's entry into Oregon "will be a great thing for the state," he said, adding he doesn't want to see any more delays in approval of the necessary legislation.

The legislator who asked for a three week delay in approval of the bills, Sen. Alfred Corbett (D-Portland), was one of the six who visited Boeing Friday.

Corbett said yesterday he was "impressed by the fact that Boeing wants the tract because Boardman ties in with their plans for the future."

Polish Government, Roman Catholics Increase Friction

Warsaw—UPI—Friction between Poland's Communist government and the Roman Catholic church appeared to be growing today in the last month before national parliamentary elections.

Communist party leader Wladyslaw Gomulka and Stefan Cardinal Wyszynski set the tone of the battle in separate speeches over the week end.

Gomulka, speaking at a pre-election party meeting Saturday night, said that the souls of the Roman Catholic bishops in Poland "belong to the Vatican."

Cardinal Wyszynski quickly retorted in a sermon Sunday that "the struggle against the church is continuing."

He said that in his 13 years as Polish primate no one in the Vatican "has attempted to give me instructions on the way Polish bishops should run the affairs of the church in Poland."

"There are some who hope, on the eve of the millennium of Christianity, that no trace of the church will be left here in Poland," the Cardinal said. "But I can assure you that Jesus Christ will be the master of the coming century."

Duncan, Boivin Looking Toward Legislature Windup by April 20

Salem—UPI—House Speaker Robert Duncan said today he will shoot for a 102-day session for the 1961 Legislature, throwing his weight behind Senate President Harry Boivin in aiming for adjournment by April 20.

The announcement put the spur to priority measures which both want to see enacted.

Duncan said April 20 was a realistic target date, and added he certainly expected to see the assembly complete its work within a few days of that time.

That would leave a meager four weeks and three days for the lawmakers to wind up the business of the biennial session.

Both Boivin and Duncan issued speed-up orders to their committees to bring key legislation to the floor for action, including school, tax, labor and government reorganization measures.

Few major bills have been shipped to the governor so far, bringing protests from GOP minority leaders that the legislature, and its Democratic leaders, have been shirking challenges and dragging their heels.

Both Boivin and Duncan vigorously denied this, and praised their committees for painstaking groundwork to cull out bad bills and okay only high quality ones.

Actually, most strictly party bills, in spite of Democratic control in both houses, have been quietly dumped by the wayside because of a total lack of party cohesion.

Pear Bud Advice Given by Agent

Prepink spray should be applied as soon as the pear tree buds are separated in the cluster, according to County Horticultural Agent Clifford B. Cordy.

Cordy and L. G. Gentner, entomologist of the Southern Oregon Branch Experiment station, recommended the following spray applications:

On Bartlett and Bosc used eight gallons of liquid lime sulfur or 12 pounds polysulphide per acre. On D'Anjou, Comice, Nellis and Seckel use seven pounds of Ziramor Ferbam per acre. If mildew is a problem on D'Anjou, use 24 pounds of Kolofog per acre.

In hose rigs use 2 1/2 gallons of lime sulfur or four pounds of polysulphide or 1 1/2 pounds of Ferbam or Ziram or six pounds of Kolofog per 100 gallons.

Add six pounds of Parathion per acre or one pound per 100 gallons to the above mixtures on all varieties. Eight pounds of Trithion per acre or 1 1/2 pound per 100 gallons could be used with more safety but it is more expensive.

Do not allow lime sulfur and Parathion to stand after being mixed in the tank, Cordy and Gentner cautioned.
