

The One Mystery That Defies Man's Genius

Man invents a rocket that can hit the moon. He splits the atom... breaks the sound barrier... invents mechanisms more efficient than skilled human hands and trained human minds.

He pumps oil from wells drilled into the ocean floor... turns deserts into lush fields and vineyards... cruises under the Polar Ice Cap in cold Arctic seas in atomic-powered submarines. In his challenging drive to uncover the secrets of the vast universe, he proposes now to bore a hole through the crust of the earth to see what's inside.

By his own genius, man has opened a veritable Pandora's box of long-held secrets of his physical world. And some people... impressed by this progress... seem to think that science will ultimately discover the answer even to the mystery of life itself.

This, we believe, is a futile, presumptuous and unworthy hope. For here the secret is held not in the physical matter of the universe... not in things that can be measured, weighed and physically analyzed... but in the divine and invisible hands of the Supreme Being Who created all that is and Who, by obvious design, permits us to see some things only through "dark glasses."

The slide rules and test tubes of science offer no hope of answering life's most important questions: Is there a God? What is God like? Whence have we come... why are we here?... what is our final destiny? If we are the chosen of God... the only creature gifted with the promise of eternal life... why are our lives so often plagued by misfortune?

These questions, some people say, are impossible to answer. Nobody, they contend, knows what God is like. Having no material proof, all we can do is to have faith—to hope, pray and live righteously. Catholics, however, are convinced that God has clearly and plainly told us what He is like, why we are here, how we must live, what is our ultimate destiny. Science cannot tell us these things, but religion does.

Whether you are Catholic or not... believer or unbeliever... you will find a rich spiritual reward by reading the evidence which provides Catholics with a satisfying answer to life's most vital and, to some, its most frightening questions.

What a Blunder!

Good heaven's dear, there's something wrong!
We must have goofed concerning
The night the party is. Just look—
Their porch light isn't burning.

The cars of other guests aren't here,
Not even one. Say, I'm Convinced that—wait! I get it now:
It's just that we're on time.

—Hal Chadwick

Quips and Quotes

The young couple hadn't been too successful in their first months of marriage, so they went to a counselor. "Here is one rule you have to follow," the marriage expert told them. "Never fall asleep without saying good night to each other, and begin each day by saying good morning."

A month later, the couple was back for a second session. "And how are things working out?" the counselor asked.

"Well," said the young husband, "we've got it down to where I say 'good morning,' and she says, 'good night!'" —Charles Ruffing

It takes a heap to keep a boy in school these days—not to mention the money.

—S. S. Biddle

The eye doctor patiently tried lens after lens on an elderly lady who wanted to buy some glasses. Nothing seemed to bring things into the right focus for her.

"Now don't become discouraged," the doctor reassured her. "It's not easy to get just the right glasses, you know."

"It certainly isn't," the lady replied, "especially when you're shopping for a friend." —Oren Arnold

A vacationing family hit the high spot of their tour—the Grand Canyon. Mother, father, and 12-year-old son descended into its depths by mule just in time to see the sun paint it in vivid colors.

"Son," the father said in tones of awe, "Isn't this a wondrous work of nature?"

"I guess so," the boy replied, frowning, "but I'll bet the TV reception down here is terrible." —Terry Edler
