

Subcommittee Tackles Measure To Aid Colleges

Washington—UPI—A House education subcommittee today planned to begin writing its version of the administration's $2.4 billion bill to aid colleges.

The subcommittee expected to work behind closed doors for two days on the bill, to provide scholarships and classrooms for the nation's colleges.

It was expected to make only minor changes in the bill. Many educators urged the committee to add a program of state-federal grants, along with the loans Kennedy suggested. However, the subcommittee members did not appear enthusiastic about the proposal.

Construction Loans—The bill would authorize a five-year, $1.5 billion program of construction loans and a system of four-year scholarships costing up to $900 million during an eight-year period.

Other congressional news: Sugar: The Senate Finance Committee was expected to vote on a 21-month extension of the sugar law, which is due to expire at midnight Friday. The House-approved bill would give President Kennedy power to cut off the preferential treatment which has been accorded the Dominican Republic under the present quotas.

Social Security: The House Ways and Means Committee passed, 22-2, Monday a toned-down version of President Kennedy's plan to boost Social Security benefits. The bill the committee approved would cut in half the payroll tax increase the President proposed to finance his version. The bill would increase by 10 percent cash benefits for widows, raise the minimum monthly benefit from $33 to $40, and allow men to begin getting payments on a reduced scale—at age 62 instead of 65, as women have been entitled to do.

Council Elects Seven to Board At Recent Meet

Seven persons were elected to the board of directors of the Medford Human Rights Council at its meeting recently.

Elected to two year terms were Mrs. William T. Hodson, Capt. William Ricken, Mrs. Carl Licht, Mrs. Robert Duncan, Dr. George G. Roseberry, Omar Bacon and Mrs. Roy Gilbertson.

At the meeting a panel, composed of the Rev. Robert Downy, the Rev. Thomas McCamant, and Chief of Police Charles P. Champlin, reviewed the council's work during the past year.

Dr. Joel Berreman, professor of sociology at the University of Oregon, spoke on human rights in Oregon. He said that we are too prone to point an accusing finger at the South, when in reality racial prejudice was evident for many years even in the Oregon constitution.

Different Rights—Human rights differ from civil rights, the speaker said, in that they are outside the law, and yet an individual may be cruelly hurt by the violation of common courtesy. Human as well as civil rights are violated when a person is denied the opportunity to find proper housing for his family in a community, he added.

The most important thing the Human Rights council does is to create the climate in which laws may be made and put into force. An example of such a law is now pending in the senate. This bill would extend public accommodations to include goods and services to all persons regardless of color or creed.

Mark Smith and Russell Payton spoke on efforts at the state level that are attempting to make this state a better place in which to live.

Paul Garibaldi, accompanied by Mrs. Richard Schuchard, sang two selections.

Flight Engineers May Renew Strike

Washington—UPI—Flight engineers threatened today to renew a wildcat strike against six major airlines in a "week or 10 days" unless engineers on Western Airlines are reinstated in their jobs.

The threat was made at a news conference by Al Kiburis, a flight engineer for Trans World Airlines and chairman of a group which calls itself the flight engineers coordinating assembly. Kiburis and other representatives of the airline flight engineers planned to meet with Labor Secretary Arthur J. Goldberg over their claim that a presidential order is being violated.

Newbury's Picketing Measure Debated

Salem—UPI—"The forgotten people" of Oregon would be the victims of a bill to curb farm picketing, Portland Attorney Don Willener told the Senate Labor and Industries Committee Monday.

The bill, sponsored by Sen. Lyndel Newbury (R-Talent), would prohibit farm workers from picketing farms during harvests.

Willener, a former state representative, said the bill would single out Oregon's 50,000 migrant workers and deny them rights granted to other workers.

Newbury said the bill was needed to protect farmers and to guard against sudden crop losses caused by picketing.

GOP Lacking Votes To Derail Program

Washington—UPI—Republicans appeared to be losing ground today in their attempts to use a substitute bill to derail President Kennedy's program to aid depressed areas.

House Republicans, without the backing of much of the GOP-Southern Democrat coalition that employed the same tactics to hand the administration its first setback today, apparently lacked the votes to push their measure through.

Debate on the Senate-passed, $394 million bill was expected to begin late today, with voting Wednesday.

On the theory that you can't lick something with nothing, Republicans decided to try to try to knock out the administration bill with a substitute carrying a cheaper price tag.

Stanford Alumni To Hold Luncheon

Oregon's athlete of the year for 1960, John Frohnmayer, will be guest speaker at the Jefferson - Stanford Alumni club luncheon scheduled April 1 at the Jackson hotel.

Frohnmayer, who was featured in Look Magazine as an outstanding young American, is currently president of his class at Stanford university.

The Jefferson - Stanford club, so named because its members all reside in the fabled "State of Jefferson" comprised of northern California and southern Oregon counties, has only recently been formed. One of its chief aims is to help provide information for students interested in attending Stanford university.

The April 1 luncheon is open to parents and students interested in Stanford. Reservations may be made by contacting Bill Warren at the California Oregon Power company, Medford, or Bill Patton at the Oregon Shakespearean Festival office, Ashland before Thursday.

In addition to Frohnmayer's talk, a new color newsreel recently filmed at Stanford will be shown.
