Hanson's One-Man Show Opening in New York Soon

Philip Hanson, well known West coast actor from Ashland, will open in his one-man show "Moby Dick" April 30 in the Madison Avenue Playhouse in New York City. "This show is being produced by John Lotos, who will be remembered as the man who arranged Hal Holbrook's one-man show called "Mark Twain Tonight." This enjoyed considerable success, ran for some time on Broadway, and was featured on television networks.

In addition to the prestige which Lotos lends, Lee Watson is arranging the sets and lighting. Watson's recent work has included "View From a Bridge," "The Diary of Anne Frank," "Dorothy Stuckney's 'Lovely Light,' and the current 'Importance of Being Oscar' which is exciting comment.

Conrad Suss has been engaged to arrange complementary music for the dramatic program. Hanson is widely known in this area for his acting and directing with the Oregon Shakespearean festival company, Ashland. He both studied and taught at Washington State University, Pullman, was abroad for two years working with the Armed Services, and after his return

Duties of U.S. Treasurer Listed as Administrative

By ROSE McKEE Washington-Mrs. Elizabeth Rudel Smith, appointed by President Kennedy as the new Treasurer of the United States, oversees probably the biggest checking account of any woman in the world.

Few realize that her office operates a banking service for all branches of the Government except the military. It issues about 450 million checks a year.

The bank balance of public money for which Mrs. Smith is responsible amounted on a recent day to $6,014,679,013.31.

However, Mrs. Smith is better known to most people because her signature is on all the paper money issued by the Treasury Department since Jan. 30, the date she took office. Her name seldom appears on the check, which usually bears the signature of a disbursing officer.

Administrative Work

Mrs. Smith, an attractive brunette of 50, said she and the public money "never get very close together." The work of her office is administrative and, she said, "I am slowly catching on to it, with an enormous amount of help from other people."

Asked if she ever had any trouble with her own checking account, Mrs. Smith thought she was "no better and no worse than any woman with her personal checking account."

But, she stressed, "I give much, much more attention to this, for this is public money and must be handled with great care." She added, with a shrug, "My money is only mine."

Among decisions in which the California Democrat has participated since becoming Treasurer of the United States, was to install a new electronic computer. It records checks at the rate of 6,000 a minute.

The woman who keeps track of so many checks, at least theoretically, has, of all things, a bachelor of arts de-appeared with both the Oregon and San Diego Shakespearean festivals. For the past two years he has toured several states with a one-man show "Kings and Clowns," featuring Shakespearean characters, and in "Moby Dick" based on the famous novel by Melville.

Mrs. Hanson left for New York in November to visit the locale of the Melville novel, and made a few appearances before beginning plans for the Broadway opening.

Mrs. Hanson left Ashland a few weeks ago to join her husband.

Dance Planned At Derby Hall

Square dance news this week includes announcement of an "open hoedown" Friday, April 7, at Derby Community hall. Edwin Cavin and Jacob Toews will call the squares and dancing will begin at 8:30 p.m. All square dancers are invited.

Those attending are asked to take cake, cookies or sandwiches for refreshments.

Buckles and Bows Square Dance club of Ashland announces that April dances are canceled due to conflicting events. The next Saturday night dance will be May 13.

However, the club plans workshops every Friday night for square dancers wishing to attend. Floyd Workman will be caller; the workshops will be held at Bellview Grange hall south of Ashland.
