Open Hearth Cooking Easy in Living Room

New York—Old-fashioned open hearth cooking can be done in your living room fireplace the modern way, with the main course cooked in individual foil packages.

Fireplace ham supper should be put on to cook half an hour after the fire is started. At least 3 hours before mealtime, cut three 1/4-inch thick slices of hickory smoked canned ham into bite-sized pieces. Marinate ham in 1/2 cup of sherry, along with 1 cup of fresh blueberries (or 1/2 package of frozen berries, thawed and drained) and one 13 1/2-ounce can of pineapple chunks, drained.

Cut 6 double thick, 14-inch squares of heavy-duty aluminum foil. Drain ham and fruit, reserving sherry. Divide ham and fruit onto squares, add 1 canned drained sweet potato to each. Sprinkle lightly with brown sugar, using 1/4 cup in all, and spoon a little sherry over each. Fold foil into sealed packages, and use fireplace tongs to place them on glowing coals. Cook about 30 minutes, or until heated through.

Peace Not Just Utopian Dream Minister Tells Medford Group

Disarmament and peace are not just utopian dreams—they are actually within the realm of possibility and the only practical and sensible ideas for survival in an age of nuclear warfare which could destroy the world. These are the beliefs of the Rev. Stephen Fritchman, pastor of the Los Angeles Unitarian church who spoke Tuesday night in Medford at a meeting sponsored by the local chapter of the Oregon United Nations association, and the Ashland Unitarian fellowship.

The Rev. Mr. Fritchman, a former university professor and one-time editor of the Christian Register, now the Unitarian Register, is considered one of the nation's outstanding clergymen and is identified with various groups working towards international peace and settlement of the world's pressing problems.

Speaking on the title, "Survival Is Not Enough" the minister said "I am interested only in America's positive contribution to peace; I am not interested in a defensive contribution. The world has been too offensive in its attitudes. I am not interested in merely keeping what we have, in maintaining the status quo. This is not enough as a main position."

The minister continued by saying that "I am a believer in a growing world. What we have is not good enough as long as it is not shared with the rest of the world."

Wrong Attitudes
"There is no room today in the world for inextinguishable, hatred or intolerance. These attitudes are not only un-Christian and un-moral, they are not practical or workable today. Unfortunately, there are forces in this country today encouraging hatred and practicing intolerance."

"The speaker quotes Dr. Willard Libby, atomic scientist and Nobel prize winner as having said that since the invention of nuclear weapons, there "is no choice between war and peace. . . . the Christian rationale for war is no longer tenable."

"Dr. Fritchman added that "in the name of religion we cannot continue to make a tribal god, waging tribal wars, into the image of the real God. Christians must not countenance the manufacture and stockpiling of nuclear weapons. This is beginning to be realized by Christians, humanists and scientists."

Girl Scouts

Tour Hospital
Brownie Troop 35, made up of second graders from Washington school, with the leader, Mrs. Paul Leaverton and assistant, Mrs. Paul Kurovsky, toured Rogue Valley Memorial hospital recently after presenting Easter trays for all the patients in the hospital.

It is reported that the troop members were particularly impressed with the laundry at the hospital, and with the kitchens. Following the tour the girls were given an ice-cream treat in the cafeteria.

Mrs. James Grigsby and Peggy Leaverton also accompanied the Brownies on the tour.

Wednesday, April 5, the troop took a "litterbug hike" around the Washington school and Medford Senior High school area. One of the troop projects for the year has been making litterbags.

Taking part in the hospital tour and the litterbug hike were Carol Bradford, Hope Ferguson, Cindy Finnell, Janine Grigsby, Pamela Kurovsky, Cheryl Leaverton, Lorle Mattson, Diana Ragsdill, Kathy Rix, and Susan Tweedle.

Tour Hatchery
Brownie Troop 96, second grade students from Hoover elementary school in Medford, toured Hart's Hatchery recently. The girls watched chickens and turkeys hatching, and were shown the hatchery procedures from the care of the egg to the shipping of the young birds.

In March, the Brownies made napkin rings for Saint Patrick's day trays at the Rogue Valley Memorial hospital. The troop toured the hospital several weeks earlier, and decided at that time to make the holiday for the patients in the hospital.

Troop 96 has twelve members: Sally Bars, Teresa Bayliss, Joyce Casterline, Deanne Chapman, Tricia Fasel, Jackie Sue Fitzgerald, Pamela Graber, Janice Hart, Vicki Hassmann, Cynthia Heidemann, Debbie Raapke, and Barbara Seiffert. The leaders are Mrs. Robert M. Fasel and Mrs. Ray L. Casterline.

the definite and considered objective of the United States; 2—Establishment of a strong heavily-armed international police force; 3—Establishment of an impartial, judicial, conciliatory system for settlement of international disputes; 4—Establishment of a world legislative body and system with representation fair to all nations; 5—Establishment of a world executive body free from control by any nation or group of nations.

"These are not utopian ideas; they are practical means for peace," Dr. Fritchman stressed. "They could work if we are to survive," he closed with Dr. Pauling's statement "We must think of the whole world community if we are to survive. We must cooperate, or perish."

During the discussion period which followed Dr. Fritchman was asked first about adequate inspection as a basis for disarmament and said "this problem is looking more hopeful on both sides of the iron curtain," he added that the meetings of the world powers give encouragement, said he is hopeful that hysteria will decrease and added "we are finding grounds for communication."

Asked to state his position about China entering the United Nations, Dr. Fritchman said "six hundred million humans cannot be disregarded. Africa is an example of what happens when one tries to disregard millions of humans." He added that with the admission of the African countries to the United Nations, the balance has been changed and said "The Africans will bring in the Asians. The United Nations is now ruled by the neutral countries of Africa. Control is no longer a matter of the two giants, the United States and Russia—the two giants better look at David and see what he has in his sling-shot."

The question of how the economy of the United States could be realigned if the nation ceased to make arms or prepare for war, Dr. Fritchman said there was no question that this would require the most careful and widespread "governmental planning, whether we want it or not" and added "it could not be left as a matter of cutthroat competition. We would be forced to have planning, or we would have anarchy."

The speaker was introduced by Dr. William M. McKinney, Southern Oregon college faculty member.

He urged his listeners to support President Kennedy's proposition for a nuclear test treaty and said "let's not wait for official action; let's make this a public campaign. We must work for world support for stopping the spread of nuclear armaments. Action for peace is of the greatest urgency." He added that the noted nuclear scientist, Dr. Linus Pauling, and Mrs. Pauling are circulating petitions of this nature.

Points Outlined
In closing, the speaker told of the New York attorney, Grenville Clark, who outlined and sent to President Kennedy his proposals for working towards international peace. They call for: 1—Unequivocal and complete disarmament with effective inspection as
