Day of Wreck-oning

Today I hold my head up high,
Today my spirits soar.
Today I kicked my complex out
And picked my ego off the floor.

Today will live in history,
A triumph for the female gender;
Today the worm has finally turned—
Today my husband creased the fender!
—Suzanne Douglass

A father who wants his children to get an education these days may have to pull a few wires—the television wire, the hi-fi wire, and the radio wire. —Lavonne Mathison

The suburbs are where everything is farther away except the first of the month.
—Franklin P. Jones

Much against his better judgment, Father loaned his teen-age daughter his new sports car. An hour later, he got a call from her. "The car isn't working, Daddy," she said.

"What happened?" he asked with sinking heart.

"It's very curious," she explained. "I met two fellows from school, and they wanted to race. I said I would, and I looked down at the gearshift. There was one marked 'L,' which I thought was 'Leap,' so I shifted into that. But I didn't get much pickup, so I looked again and tried 'D,' which I thought meant 'Drag.' But the boys still outdistanced me. So then I spotted 'R,' and I just knew that meant 'Race,'' so I shoved that and—Daddy! Daddy! Speak to me, Daddy!"

Hi, Rube!

The only guys really sweating out baseball training this season are the teams' press agents. It's up to them to maintain baseball's hallowed image of the typical rookie—a semiliterate hick just up from the farm. Here's how things are working out as the leagues swing into the 1961 season:

High Cy Belden: Outfielder. Bats left-handed. Hit .345 for Cornopolis last year. Noted for tall-tale telling. Master's degree, Dartmouth, '59; plans for Columbia doctorate by '64.

Long Pants Patty Norman: Left-handed pitcher. Went 35 scoreless innings with Highacres last year. Favorite of TV-radio interviewers because of

4 Exotic Dressings

INSPIRED BY FARAWAY PLACES AND BLENDED FOR YOU BY KRAFT

Kraft Italian Dressing—true Italian style, tangy and tantalizing. Sunny oil and vinegar, vividly seasoned with herbs, spices and garlic to brighten your salad bowl.

Roka Blue Cheese Dressing—the mellow Old World flavor of aged blue cheese in a new dressing that pours like thick country cream. Try it on head lettuce or pears.

Casino Dressing—a sophisticated blend of herbs and spices spiked with garlic and tomato—as high-spirited and delicious as the Continental recipe that inspired it.

Catalina Dressing—with a bow to the salad genius of our own adventuresome West, comes Catalina. It has a sweet, tomato-and-spice tang, and clings thick and flavorfully.
