The Family Council

Editor's Note: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, three editors and a women's editor. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counselors.

Bella H. - Rather than raising a finger for help, she's destroying her marriage.

Roslyn A. - I can't stand having my husband around. My feeling for him is dead.

Bella H. - My sister is so cold to her husband it's a wonder he shows up at all. We're heartbroken at what's happened to a beautiful love affair. The family is trying to persuade Ros to go to a clinic or do something to save her marriage, but she refuses.

They're 4, 3, and 2 years old, and the fourth is an infant. Because of constant quarreling, either Ros or Jack is always running out. When it's Ros, the kids are parceled out to me and other relatives.

Separately, Ros and Jack are charming people. Surely someone can get to the bottom of this trouble and help them stay together.

Roslyn A. - I admit that Jack's running off the way he does may be my fault. I can't stand having him touch me and he knows it. So we quarrel and then there's some peace after one of us has cleared out. That's why I think a separation is best.

The Council: Roslyn is mistaken if she thinks the quarreling will "soon" affect her children. It has already affected them. They know mamma doesn't love papa, and that's bad enough.
