Home Comfort Booth To Offer Exhibit

Homeowners attending the Crater Lions Sportsfair and Home and Garden Show this week end will see a demonstration of an "Automatic Housekeeper" in the "home comfort headquarters" booth.

An electric air cleaner demonstration will show dust and smoke removed from the air. Removal of pollen dust from the air gives relief to sufferers of chronic asthma, sinus condition, hayfever and allergies caused by airborne particles.

Most bacteria and other germs are removed with the air cleaner to give more healthful living, according to the booth sponsors, Western Oil and Burner company, Medford.

Land, Water Boat To Be Displayed

One of the special interest items at the Crater Lions Sportsfair and Home and Garden Show this week end will be a land and water cruiser manufactured by the Trail-It Coach Manufacturing company, Inc., Des Moines, Iowa.

The combination trailer and boat is designed with the owner in mind while the vehicle is on land, and the water cruiser features comfortable "under deck sleeping."

The dinette area converts into sleeping for two persons.

Appliance Exhibits Planned at Event

Appliance exhibits at the Crater Lions sponsored Home and Garden show in connection with the Sportsfair will be of special interest to housewives attending the fair.

A complete model kitchen using Hotpoint appliances is planned by Williams Appliance store of Medford. Cooking demonstrations are also planned by the company throughout the three-day fair.

Crosier Appliance store will have a continuous ironing demonstration on the Ironite automatic ironer, working demonstrations of kitchen aid dishwasher, Hamilton dryer and Nutone built-in food preparation center.

The Monarch Range store and Siskiyou Electric booth will have appliances displayed, along with a demonstration of baking and cooking methods. The Jackson County Cowbells will be in this booth.

Home Builders Can Benefit From Architect's Plan

New home builders can benefit from the services of an architect in planning, constructing and decorating a new home.

Not too many people, however, retain an architect for individual homes.

Among reasons why they do not are that there are many well-designed house plans printed in various publications, and the fact that architects fees are about 10 per cent of the construction costs.

But should the new home builder retain an architect, the architect can design a house for the family, taking into consideration the location and position of the lot and family's desires.

However, the architect works best when the family does not have any preconceived ideas as to how the house should look.

Once house plans are approved by the home owner, the architect will supervise construction in case any changes in plans seem apparent.

SKILLED, UNSKILLED

One reason for the universal use of lumber in home building and repair is the fact that it is the only material having such ease of workability and such a wide latitude of use as to satisfy the trained artisan as well as the amateur carpenter.

The architect's chief interest throughout is to help his client achieve the kind of house he wants, fitted to his needs, his taste, and his budget.

There are several members of the American Institute of Architects in the Rogue valley who have designed homes in the Medford area.

WANT PRIVACY?

Owners of homes on narrow lots where their houses are jammed up against their neighbors, who want privacy for a backyard sunbeach, can have it at low cost. Use western red cedar tongue and groove boards set in cedar frames.
