'The Rebels' Presented At College

"The Rebels", a monologue dedicated to the responsible non-conformists who created our American heritage, was presented on Wednesday at Southern Oregon college by Philip Hanson.

Hanson cleverly pieced together quotations and excerpts of historical speeches, in the characters of those who originally spoke them, thus creating a dramatic background of our Revolutionary thought.

Starting with Jefferson's "A little rebellion now and then is a good thing," Olis' "taxation with representation", and Franklin's "We must all hang together, gentlemen, or we shall hang separately", Hanson continued with Edmund Burke's "Reconciliation", Philip Freneau, William Pitt, Patrick Henry, "The Declaration of Independence" and "The Ride of Paul Revere."

Mr. Hanson interspersed his selections with stanzas from "The New Colossus", the poem appearing on the base of the Statue of Liberty. These stanzas acted as a thread, binding the presentation together into a whole.

After tipping his hat to the restless ladies of the different periods, such as Mollie Pitcher, Susan B. Anthony, Carry Nation and Lizzie Border, Hanson ended his program with Walt Whitman. He included in this last portion a fairly unknown quotation from Lincoln to McCallan: "If you don't want to use the army, I should like to borrow it."

The actor appeared on a sparsely furnished stage, looking very dramatic in a red jacket and black trousers (the red jacket was probably a reminder to the audience of the British origins of our institutions). The audience was enthusiastic in welcoming Mr. Hanson back from his New York engagement with "Moby Dick."

Williams Unit Installs Officers

Williams—Installation of officers was held by the Williams Home Extension Unit at the home of Mrs. A. D. Fitzpatrick, Williams. Mrs. A. J. Lindquist was the co-hostess to the 33 members attending the Friday meeting. Mrs. Jerry Stone, Provoit and Miss Marlene Findley of Williams were guests.

Mrs. Percy Sowell was installed chairman. Other new officers include Mrs. John LaThrop, vice-chairman and Mrs. Emil Voss, secretary-treasurer.

Mrs. Fitzpatrick, chairman, presided and arrangements were made for the group to attend Homemakers' Day in Grants Pass, May 17.

Mrs. Percy Sowell and Mrs. James McIntyre attended the May 2, 3, and 4 training meeting at Corvallis.

The unit held a "Barrel of Fun" public event April 29 with Mrs. Lynn Stone and Mrs. John Katzenbach, chairmen. It was held at the Williams school gymnasium with local talent participating.

Following the business meeting, the newly elected officers were installed by Mrs. Jerry Stone, county committee member. Mrs. Stone explained how home extension units were organized to help those who have finished their formal education to keep abreast of the times and improvements. This information is compiled at the Oregon State university, Corvallis, and distributed by the local county extension agents. The team of installing officers was Mrs. Fitzpatrick, Mrs. Dorothy Rippee and Mrs. Omar Lytle.

Each of the officers was presented a corsage. Mrs. Stone presented Mrs. Fitzpatrick with a past chairman's pin, after which Mrs. McIntyre read the Homemakers' Creed at the end of the ceremonies.

The program was on grooming, presented by project leaders, Mrs. Voss and Mrs. Jack Collier, following the potluck lunch. They were assisted by Mrs. Sowell and Mrs. W. W. Claypool for the demonstration of skin care and make-up.

Secret pals were announced and new ones drawn.
