

Children Enrolled For Kindergarten

Ashland - Nearly 50 parents of kindergarten age children lined the main hall of the Administration building at Southern Oregon college Monday in an attempt to pre-register children in the college-sponsored kindergarten beginning in September.

"Though enrollment is on an order of application basis," Donald E. Lewis, assistant to the president and business manager, said, "we do give preference to the children of staff and faculty members."

Lewis pointed out that the college, though interested in kindergarten as well as all other levels of educational instruction, would not attempt the expansion of existing facilities more than was needed for the student teaching program.

"Our interest is in the field of higher education," he said, adding that the responsibility of establishing community kindergartens lies with the local taxpayers and the respective school boards.

The first 40 children registered were given preference and a $5 registration fee was charged which is applied toward tuition. This sum is refunded if the child does not attend - and the next family on the waiting list is notified of the vacancy. Children enrolled must be five on or before Nov. 15, 1961, to qualify.

Dr. Kreisman Named To Advisory Board

Ashland - Dr. Arthur Kreisman, director of general studies at Southern Oregon college, has been appointed to the advisory board of the Summer Teacher Exchange Program sponsored by the International Relations Committee of the Oregon Education association.

Headquarters of the council are in Corvallis, and organizational plans are nearing completion.

Under the program, northwest public school teachers may exchange with teachers from Central and South America.

Council members include Gov. Mark Hatfield; Dr. Leon Minear, Oregon superintendent of public instruction; Monroe Sweetland, state senator; Dr. Frank Bennett, president of Eastern Oregon college; Dr. Cliff Robinson, of the state department of education; and Cecil Posey, executive secretary of the OEA.

Salem May Lose West Coast Airline

Salem - WPA - West Coast Airlines warned city officials Tuesday that Salem may lose its WCA service.

The airline said this may be the case unless the city can convince the Civil Aeronautics Board to make an exception to policy.

West Coast said the CAB will allow government-subsidized local air service only if 150 passengers depart from a given area each month. Since West Coast began service here in August, 1959, boardings have averaged 102 1/2 per month.
