Cancer Society Schedules Two Films at Craterian Theater Friday Morning

The American Cancer society will present two films "Man Alive" and "The Other City" at the Craterian theater in Medford at 10 a.m. Friday, April 27 as a free educational program for both men and women of Jackson county. A panel of local physicians will answer questions at the close of the program.

"Man Alive" is an animated color film designed to stimulate the initial interest of the layman and to influence his attitude toward cancer. It deals primarily with the psychology of fear, particularly as it relates to cancer, and attempts to show lack of good sense behind the wrong reactions to the fear of cancer. "The Other City" is a dramatization of an imaginary ghost town caused by the 75,000 needless cancer deaths each year. It shows how cancer cells grow, spread and kill and why delay makes the difference between life and death.

Panel of Doctors

A panel of doctors will speak on all phases of cancer detection and treatment and will invite questions from the audience following the film showings. Dr. Thomas Tinsley will be chairman and moderator with a panel consisting of Dr. Laurel Case, Dr. Ralph Odell, Dr. Alan Markee, Dr. John McLaughlin and Dr. Richard Saul.

Mrs. E. S. Wentjar is chairman of the film showings and hostesses will be Mrs. Fred Coleman, Mrs. T. C. Groomes, Mrs. Robert Hamilton, Mrs. John S. Day, Mrs. Warren Bayliss, Mrs. Ray L. Casterline and Mrs. Odell.

MEMO

From: R. E. Johnson, President

To: All Rock Island personnel

Subject: Improved services in 1962 and the future through damage-free shipments

At the beginning of 1962, President R. E. Johnson issued a special directive to all Rock Island railroad personnel relative to the damage-free handling of freight.

Excerpts from that memorandum are reproduced here in the belief shippers will find it of interest, for it demonstrates that the Rock Island is making a conscientious effort to provide ever-improving service.

In citing improved service measures already initiated, Mr. Johnson listed electronically controlled yards, special device cars, new types of dunnage, improved freight stations, new types of shock-absorbing devices, faster freight train schedules, new piggyback and container devices, and new approaches to competitive rate making.

"Now," he writes, "we should center our attention on an additional, and vital, ingredient: Damage-Free Handling. I'm asking all of you for special effort in 1962 and succeeding years."

Emphasizing that safe handling is a cooperative effort, Mr. Johnson listed the following:

Local switching crews save freight from injury by using the "soft touch" in picking up, setting out, and spotting cars.

Road crews help by their effort to prevent excessive slack action and care in picking up and setting out cars.

Yard clerks help by calling attention to unusually fragile or valuable loads and other types of shipments needing special care.

Car inspectors help by making sure that empties are fit for their loads and open top loads are securely anchored.

Maintenance-of-way forces help by their care in correcting faulty switches, serious track defects and other conditions that might lead to derailment and damage.

Yardmasters help by preventing the switching of excessively long cuts of cars or any other practice that causes undue slack action, hard impact and freight damage.

Freight house personnel help by their care in trucking, stowing and bracing freight.

Freight clerks help by their care in routing shipments accurately to prevent unnecessary hauling, interchanging and switching.

Freight agents and representatives help by helping shippers improve their loading methods.

"It's clear," Mr. Johnson concludes, "that this must be a team effort. Every Rock Islander's help is needed to insure the best possible service to our customers."
