

Tokyo Governor Would Beautify Japanese City

By CHARLES R. SMITH
United Press International
Tokyo — (UPI) — The quest for peace, disarmament and other global matters aside, the man with one of the most difficult tasks in 1962 is Tokyo Gov. Ryutaro Azuma.

He's going to try to "beautify Tokyo."

In a recent interview with a leading Japanese newspaper, Azuma was asked to name the one project he wanted most to carry out in 1962. "There are many things which should be done and which I would like to do," he said. "But as I am called upon to talk about one I would like to see the fruition of the 'let's beautify Tokyo' drive."

"In a nutshell, my plan involves the elimination of dirt and filth, removal of the garbage and trash and planting of flowers so that the city will not become bleak."

Azuma played a key role in getting the 1964 Olympic games for Tokyo, has a number of other accomplishments to his credit and generally is known as a man who can get things done. But there are some who believe he may be taking on a bit too much by planning to "beautify" Tokyo. One of these is a newspaper critic, Tatsuo Mitani, who has indicated that Azuma is not reckoning with the attitude of the citizens. In a recent article lambasting Tokyoites for their "lack of public morals," Mitani said: "In all the civilized countries of the world, there is no big city dirtier than Tokyo. Our streets and our parks are a disgrace to our capital."

He lamented that the "beautifully paved streets of Marunouchi and Ginza are littered with waste paper and fallen leaves. Garbage boxes overflowing with trash and covered with filth and maggots attract the stench line the streets side by side with the trees."

"The Tokyo Governor should take a look at what they can find under the elevated tracks at Yurakucho and Shimbashi. Canals flowing through the city have become trash dumps and garbage disposal areas for those just living in them."

The reason, said Mitani, is simple: "There are tens of thousands of Tokyoites who are more degraded than a dog."

Azuma said he recognized he was talking on a difficult chore. "This may sound simple," he said, "but it is not easy to do all this. When the citizens and the Metropolitan Government should be cooperating, I occasionally get the impression that they are like enemies."
