

Seat Belts in Evidence at Automobile Show

New York — (UPI) — Amid the shiny cars strewn about the coliseum today at the sixth annual international automobile show is one fixture in greater evidence than ever before here: the seat belt.

In part, its appearance is a reflection of legislation passed by the New York legislature to require seat belt anchorage units on 1962 cars sold in this state. Another bill in the legislature would require seat belts as standard equipment on 1965 models.

Producers Agree

General Motors, Chrysler, Ford, American Motors, Studebaker-Packard and such foreign car producers as Volkswagen, Mercedes-Benz and Renault, announced before the show that they would go along with the suggestion from Sen. Edward J. Speno, chairman of the Joint Legislative Committee on Motor Vehicles and Traffic Safety, to put seat belts in cars on exhibit at the show, Speno said.

Some of the auto-making firms had previous plans for this action, their representatives here said.

A show official said that the appearance of the belts had stirred numerous inquiries among "car shoppers" and other spectators at the show, which appears headed for a record attendance of perhaps 400,000 persons before it is ended.

Questions Asked

"People have noticed that so many of the cars have the belts this year," he said. "They ask a lot of questions about them."

One exhibitor said that people comment but "don't seem surprised" at the number of cars with belts.

Safety officials — traffic bureaus, state police groups, research units — long have campaigned for use of the belts, at least in the front seats of automobiles, and have urged motorists to add them to an automobile's original equipment.

Southern Oregon Hearings Impossible

Eugene — (UPI) — Sen. Warren Magnuson (D-Wash.) has advised that his committee probing problems of the lumber industry can not schedule a hearing at this time in Roseburg, Eugene or Medford.

State Rep. Carl Fisher of Eugene, Republican candidate for Congress in the fourth district, said Magnuson advised him of this by letter.

Last week Fisher asked Magnuson to schedule at least one of the three Western Oregon cities because health of the lumber industry is vital to Southern Oregon, the coast and the mid-Willamette valley.

Fisher quoted Magnuson as saying "because of the heavy press of work here in Washington, D.C., it is unfortunately not possible for me to schedule at this time the additional hearings you request."
