

Monday the southern Oregon women who thronged Rogue Valley Country club for the annual Easter Monday luncheon of St. Anne's Altar society wore smart spring frocks and suits with fashionable hats. Tuesday the scene changed, and the Oregon Women's Golf association held a sweepstakes tournament. Shorts, sweaters and spiked golf shoes replaced the elegant attire of the day before. Pictured above are Mrs. Robert Wells (at left) and Mrs. Leonard T. Anderson, both of Gold Key estates, during the Monday luncheon.

Mrs. Thomas Montgomery (center), Portland, is president of the Oregon Women's Golf association and played in the sweepstakes tournament held Tuesday at Rogue Valley Country club. Mrs. Lloyd Brooks (at left) of Rogue Valley held low net score in Class A, and Mrs. Robert Palmer was low gross player in the Class B section.

MEDFORD TRIBUNE

MEDFORD, OREGON, SUNDAY, APRIL 29, 1962

At The Club

These three judges selected 10 "Fairest Women" among the more than 400 who attended the annual Easter Monday luncheon at Rogue Valley Country club Monday. The judges, as madishly turned out as any of the 10 they chose, were (left to right), Mrs. Fred Spiegelberg, Mrs. Frank Van Dyke and Mrs. Edward C. Kelly.

Over the coffee cups Tuesday at the end of the OWGA tournament at Rogue Valley club here, three players compared notes. Mrs. Helen Davies (at left) of the home club was one of three tying for second low net in the championship class; Mrs. R. L. Borst (center) of Portland Golf club, took best gross score in the championship class, shooting an 82, and Mrs. Hal Bosserman not only played but reported the event as well since she writes Tee Talk, golf column carried in The Oregonian, Portland.

The threesome pictured here had just come off the course after the last round in the Oregon Women's Golf association tournament Tuesday. Mrs. Richard Finch (at left) is a member of Rogue Valley Country club here, Mrs. Elmer Erland (center) belongs at Riverside Country club, Portland, and Mrs. Jerry Blum is a member of Salem Golf and Country club.

Each carrying a nosegay of purple violets and little pink rosebuds, the 10 "Fairest Women" chosen at the annual Easter Monday luncheon of St. Anne's Altar society stood on the Rogue Valley Country club terrace for pictures. Chosen were (left to right), Mrs. David Legg, Mrs. Paul R. McCulloch, Portland; Mrs. James Mullaney, Mrs. Ernest Flakus, Mrs. Dan Hull, Mrs. Jerry Olson, Mrs. Bessie Riley, Mrs. E. D. Davis, Mrs. Michael Popow, Phoenix, and Mrs. Lewis Ulrich. The traditional party attracted more than 450 women this year, and from all sides came the comment: Women look prettier this year—clothes are more flattering and feminine and hats are more becoming.
