Miss Boyd Is Bride of Lieutenant

A wedding of interest to valley residents was held April 7 in the Long Beach, Calif., Belmont Heights Methodist church, when Miss Valerie Jean Boyd, of that city became the bride of Lt. (jg) Charles E. Cosky, son of Mrs. Otto W. De Jarnett, 618 West Jackson street, Medford.

Dr. George Raun officiated at the two o'clock afternoon rites attended by more than 50 relatives and friends. The bride's parents are Mrs. Jean Boyd, Long Beach, and Kenneth P. Boyd, Lancaster, Calif.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length gown of white organza over tulle, fashioned with fitted bodice, scoop neckline, long sleeves and short train. The bodice was accented with pearls and crystals and a coronet of sequins held her fingertip length veil trimmed with lace. She carried a bouquet of white carnations in the shape of a cross.

Miss Jamie Ackley, Long Beach, served as maid of honor. She wore a pink chiffon over pink satin frock and her small veil was held by a coronet. She carried a bouquet of pink carnations.

Lt. (jg) Duane Stratton, San Diego, was best man. Seated at the head of the table were Mrs. C. Marshall, James Higgins, and Craig McCarther, all lieutenants, junior grade in the Navy stationed at San Diego.

The church was decorated with white calla lilies and white stock for the ceremony. Mrs. John Hondrum was soloist.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Boyd chose a blue print silk dress with blue accessories. Mrs. De Jarnett wore a beige silk suit with matching accessories and floral hat. Their corsages were white orchids.

Mr. and Mrs. John J. Vandemoer, grandparents of the bride, were hosts for the supper and reception which followed the wedding at their Long Beach home.

The couple is at home at Coronado, Calif. The bride wore for traveling a blue suit with white orchid corsage.

The bride attended San Pedro High school in Long Beach, and Long Beach State college. The bridegroom, a Navy pilot is a graduate of Medford High school and the U.S. Naval academy. He is stationed at the Naval Air station, North Island, San Diego, Calif.

Thursday, May 3, she will speak at a mother-daughter dinner at Kim's restaurant at 6:15 p.m. sponsored by the local council. Mothers will be honored at the event.

Mrs. Keith Hockersmith, Medford High school home economics teacher, will present her pupils who will model the garments they have made. A group of accordeons will play.

Reservations for this event should be made by Tuesday, May 1.

Miss Clark will speak Friday, May 4, at the Christian Women's club at the Rogue Valley Country club at 12:30 p.m.

Mrs. Charles Kuhnmar will demonstrate the making of corsages using wood fiber. Mrs. H. H. Bessie will be the vocal soloist.

Couple To Live In Rogue Valley

Newcomers to the valley are Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Dean Barnhardt who arrived Saturday to make their home at 640 Fifth street, Gold Hill. Until arriving here they had made their home in Reno, Nev. Mr. Barnhardt is a son of Mr. and Mrs. R. Barnhardt, 1361 Spring street, in Medford.

Both of the newcomers are active Masonic lodge and Order of the Eastern Star and Mrs. Barnhardt also is a member of the Soroptimist club. They are members of the Episcopal church.

Hundreds Attend Benefit Jewelerama

Approximately 600 men and women stood in line Thursday afternoon and evening to view a jewel display in the Starlight room of the Rogue Valley Country club. The valuable collection was brought to Medford by Oscar Heyman and company, manufacturing jewelers of New York City, with the cooperation of Brophy's Jewelers of Medford and Skeie's Jewelers of Eugene, and at the request of the annual Hillcrest tea committee, a part of the Jackson County unit of the American Cancer society.

Mark Taylor, manager of Brophy's Jewelers, and Rex Hammacker, manager of Skeie's Jewelers, were on hand to tell the guests about the jewels, and a stoical but friendly Medford policeman maintained a long vigil beside the display tables.

Members of the committee dressed in suitable attire to model the jewels, mingled with the guests to give them a close look at some fabulous pieces.

Refreshments were served both afternoon and evening, and valley women presided at the two feasts. The tables were centered with artistic flower arrangements, one a triple-tiered arrangement of lilacs, tulips, violets, and daphne, and the other a wide bowl filled with lilac and tree peonies. Both tables were done in pink and purple, and both used antique gold and crystal containers and candlesticks and candelabra.

Tall baskets and small table bouquets decorated the room. Mrs. L. G. Gentner arranged the baskets of tree peonies, varied shades of lilacs and branches of pink blossoms, and many of the flowers were brought by Mrs. Hanley Hefernan from Hanleylands. Four Medford florists donated bouquets: Ginn's Flowers, Leonard's Flowers, Hoppe's Greenhouse and Florist, and the Medford Flower shop.

An unusual bouquet of tree peonies, pink tulips and lilacs on a large gold-framed mirror with antique brass candlesticks decorated a table at the entrance to the Starlight room. This arrangement was made by Mrs. Raymond Miksche, who also did the centerpieces for the feasts.

Background music was played by Blaine E. Trickett through courtesy of Purucker's Music house.

Mrs. Ida Wharton catered some of the refreshments, and donated her time in the afternoon and evening as she took charge of the tea trays.

Jewels valued at more than a million dollars were on display, and all types of jewelry were shown - rings, earrings, bracelets, lapel-pins, necklaces, brooches, and bejeweled watches. Oriental pearls were represented in necklaces, bracelets and earrings. Yellow, white and pink diamonds were shown, as were sapphires in blue, green, yellow, lavender and pink. There were many pieces set with diamonds and emeralds, and rubies were featured in the emerald-cut and cabochon. Star sapphires and star rubies were favorites with the women guests.

A genuine alexandrite was set with diamonds to make a glamorous dinner ring. Alexandrites are rare and costly, and the viewers were fascinated with the huge stone which changes color in different lights and with different colored dresses, as it is worn.

One favorite with the guests was an oriental pearl and diamond necklace, which was modeled in the evening by Mrs. Russell Barnes. Worn with the necklace were diamond and pearl drop earrings, one drop a white pearl and the other a black pearl.

Mrs. Fred Spiegelberg wore a necklace and matching bracelet and ring of cabochon rubies combined with diamonds. The deep wine-rose shading of the rubies was effective with her white chiffon cocktail dress.

Yellow sapphires and diamonds combined with white diamonds to make many lovely pieces, and blue sapphires, emerald-cut rubies, and emeralds were set with white diamonds to advantage in rings, bracelets and brooches.

A conversation piece was a duck lapel pin of diamonds and rubies. The body of the duck was a 400 years old rose-cut diamond of 5 carats. The rest of the duck was set with diamonds, and the eyes, bill and webbed feet were rubies. Proceeds from the silver tea and jewelerama will be donated to the American Cancer society by the tea committee, and committee members were reported to be pleased with the enthusiasm of the guests.

Wives of Elks To Be Guests

Wives of the new officers of the Medford Elks lodge will be honored guests at the next Ladies of Elks meeting, Tuesday, May 1, in the Elks temple downstairs party room.

Dessert will be served at 1:30 p.m. followed by bridge, canasta and pinocle. Hostesses will be Mrs. John W. Henson, Mrs. Merton S. Lyster and Mrs. H. U. Mitchell. Mrs. Claude W. Hoover, Ladies of Elks chairman, advises that prearranged foursoomes are not necessary, as other entertainment as well as cards, is being planned for these parties.

Wives and widows of all Elks, whether local or out of town members, are invited. A special invitation is extended to wives of new members.

Notice is again made of the earlier starting time of these parties.

Piano Students Present Recital

Piano students of Mrs. Gaynor Huck were presented in recital at Purucker's Piano house Saturday evening, April 28.

Participating were the Misses Toby Barnes, Gaila Perkins, Donna Smith, Nanette Guber, Kay Smith, Cynthia Spaulding, Margaret McKee, and Katherine Haeffle.

Following the program, refreshments were served. Assisting Mrs. Huck were the Misses Susan and Linda Schopert.
