

Beavers Top Hawaii 5-3 In Pacific Coast Action

By United Press International. If Spokane appeared to be a little frustrated today, it was understandable after a long and maddening ninth inning at Vancouver.

The Indians were leading 2-1 and had two down at the ninth when they almost got the final out several different times, but just could not make it.

With two down, Vancouver's Bob Welsner walked and Al Negal singled. Vancouver

Duden Shoots 67 To Take Lead in Oregon Open Golf Tourney

Tualatin — (UPI) — Three-time winner Bob Duden shot a four under par 67 at the Tualatin Country club here Monday to take a three-stroke lead in the first round of the 1962 Oregon Open Golf Tournament.

Tied for second place at 70 were Larry Holland from Portland's and Chuck Congdon, head professional at Tacoma Country and Golf club.

Four more pros equaled par. Tied at 71 were Jerry Mowlds of Portland's Riverside, Jim Warner of Reamse Golf and Country club at Klammath Falls, Larry Lamberger Sr. of Portland Golf club and Bob Rosburg of Portland's new Meriwether club.

A field of 171 golfers opened the tourney on a water-soaked course under frequently overcast skies.

Oregon Milers Will Shoot For Record At Fresno Saturday

Eugene — (UPI) — Hurdler Jerry Tarr and possibly sprinter Harry Jerome will join four Oregon distances aces at the West Coast Relays in Fresno Saturday, track coach Bill Bowerman said today.

The Oregon mile foursome of Deyrol Burleson, Keith Forman, Vic Reeve and Archie San Romani will shoot for the world record in the four-mile relay. The current mark is 18:23.8.

The rest of the Oregon track team will take on Washington in Seattle. Bowerman will accompany the team to Seattle with freshman coach Chuck Bowles handling the entries at Fresno.

Candidates Statements

The Mail Tribune, as in past years, is again offering space to candidates for public office in which there is more than one candidate.

These statements may provide biographical information, the candidate's view on issues, and a review of the program he plans to carry out if elected.

The statements were prepared by the candidate himself, or a committee directing his campaign with the candidate's knowledge.

At the end of each statement are the answers to questions asked by the League of Women Voters of Oregon. If no answers appear, the questionnaire was not returned. The questions for state office candidates were:

1. What legislative program would you propose to meet the financial needs of the state, such as those of education at all levels, state institutions, welfare?
2. Are you in agreement with present constitutional provisions for legislative reapportionment? If not, what method do you favor?
3. What action do you propose taking in regard to constitutional revision?
4. Do you favor reorganization of the executive branch of the government? If so, how?
5. To what specific areas of interest would you plan to direct your major efforts at the next legislative session?

The answers following the candidates' statements are numbered according to the question.

Democrats for Representative

Al Bradford

Alva N. (Al) Bradford, 42, Medford city councilman, candidate in the Democratic primary for the Oregon House of Representatives, is starting his sixth year on the city council.

He and his wife, Joyce, and three daughters, Cathy 13, Cindy 10, and Carol 8, live at 1023 Mt. Pitt ave.

"I believe we must recognize the problems facing our growing, changing state and attempt to find solutions to them. We must expand our higher education facilities in order to prepare for the huge number of graduates coming from our high schools. Thirty to 35 per cent more students are expected to be asking admittance to Oregon's colleges and universities during the 63-65 biennium. We must see that they have the opportunity to continue their education. We must explore more fully the practicality of the community or junior college as a partial answer to this pressing problem. We must maintain Oregon's excellent record that has been made by our outstanding public school systems.

Additional State Aid
"Additional state aid to schools will be necessary to help hold down increase in the property tax rates.

"We must search for ways to encourage the expansion and diversification of the Oregon economy. By greater growth in industry, agriculture, the business world and the tourist industry, we will not only have additional tax revenues for essential governmental services and schools but would open new job opportunities, which are so badly needed in Oregon today.

"Another challenge facing the 1963 legislature will be the presentation of the findings of the Constitutional Revision committee. Whatever the legislature adopts of the committee's recommendations will be referred to the voters in 1964 for a yes or no vote by the people of the state. I can assure the voters that I would work to retain the features that have made our constitution outstanding among the states of the nation, the initiative, the referendum, and the people's right to vote on major tax proposals.

Work Within Policy
"I feel we must work within our present, basic taxing policy, the state income tax, for major state revenue and the property tax for local government and schools. Reworking of the state income tax statutes will perhaps become necessary, as we face the next biennium budget. A stepped up growth in Oregon's economy could bring in most or all of the needed revenue under present laws. I feel we must never spend more than needed, but too, we must never do too little to meet our major problems.

"I believe we must attempt to find new answers to the new problems facing us today. Our county, our state and our nation are changing, and we must be willing to meet that challenge.

"I invite all to look at my record as city councilman for the last five years, to watch my decisions in the months to come and I feel that you will believe that I would bring to the office of Representative an intelligent, sound, responsible voice for the people of Jackson county."

James A. Redden, 33-year-old attorney of Medford, is one of the Democratic candidates for State Representative from Jackson county.

Jim Redden, his wife and two sons live at 513 Barnes ave., Medford. The candidate moved to Medford in 1956, and has participated actively in legal, community and political affairs since that time.

Redden has been a member of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, vice president of the Jackson County chapter of the American Cancer society, vice president of the Jackson County Bar association, and pro-tem Judge for both Medford Municipal and Jackson County District courts.

Veteran of Overseas
A veteran of overseas duty in the United States Army in World War II, and an Oregonian by choice, he took his pre-law training at Boston university college of business administration and graduated from Boston college law school in 1954.

The candidate has an intense interest in governmental affairs, and feels every citizen has a personal and undelagable duty to speak his mind on governmental affairs.

As Democratic Central Committee chairman during the 1958 campaign, Redden concentrated on voter registration and voter education. That year the Democratic party came within a few votes of overtaking the registration bulge of the opposition party. Although an aggressive chairman, Redden resigned from the chairmanship with the respect of fair minded members of both parties.

Important Session
As a candidate for State Representative, Redden feels that the approaching session may well be one of the most important in the state's history. He feels that constitutional revision, whereby the legislature will present a new constitution to its citizens, will be challenging and difficult. In addition, possible reorganization of the executive department and reapportionment of representation will warrant the conscientious attention of all members of the legislature.

Like most relative newcomers to Jackson county, Redden has become one of its strongest boosters. Concerned, however, about seasonal unemployment and recent loss of payrolls in Jackson county, the candidate feels strongly that aggressive leadership on the city, county and state level is needed to attract and build the proper industry in Jackson county.

James Redden, who has earned a reputation in the community for honesty, aggressiveness and fair play warrants one of your three votes for State Representative.

Redden's answers to the League of Women Voters' questionnaire:
1. Adequate.
2. No. This requires far more study than I have been able to devote to date.
3. (No answer).
4. I feel revision and reorganization would be helpful. It would certainly require far more knowledge of the subject than I now possess.
5. Constitutional revision, education and reapportionment.

1. Continuance of our present graduated income tax law as basic policy with amendments from time to time as inequities appear on our changing economy may require.

2. Yes.

3. That will depend upon interim committee recommendations. I have an open mind on the subject and will give conscientious consideration to any proposed revision.

4. It appears that the Oregon State Board of Control has created much controversy in its function. Executive responsibilities could probably be dispatched more promptly under the Governor's authority.

5. Labor and industry.

Republicans for Representative

Al Dumas

The need today in our state legislature is for a sound business approach.

While it is eminently true that fine legal minds are necessary, it is equally important that our huge State of Oregon business be indeed placed on a businesslike basis.

Al Dumas's background qualifies him to aid our county and state in realizing a sound business economy.

It would appear that in view of the difficulties we face today, relative to taxes, the desire for increased social services, education and expansion of our economy we must indeed place our state government on a businesslike basis.

The background and experience of Al Dumas properly makes him a desirable legislative representative.

Born on a farm, he knows agricultural problems; worked as an employee of a large laundry in Portland, he knows the problems of the working man; worked his way up through the ranks to manager of this firm, he knows the problems of employee relationship; purchased his present laundry business. Al Dumas has made it the success it is today by his experience, business ability and consideration for the public and his employees.

Al Dumas has the dedicated interest in public service that is a prerequisite for a good public servant.

Our county will be truly represented in the State Legislature if we elect Al Dumas.

Dumas' answers to the League of Women Voters' questionnaire:
1. Tailored sales tax geared to improve educational programs, state institutions and welfare — to eliminate state withholding taxes and reduce county personal and property taxes.

2. Needs some study.
3. None — without further study.
4. No.
5. To improve the natural growth of our state.

Dellenback's answers to the League of Women Voters' questionnaire:
1. The financial needs of the state should soundly first be met not at the level of devising new taxes or increasing tax rates of present taxes to raise funds, but at the point of deciding what the real financial needs of the state should be. True economy and minimum taxes can be assured only if every justifiable effort is exercised to keep the cost of state government at a minimum compatible with the services we, the people, really wish our state to supply. There can be no expansion of state services without an increase in some form of taxing of the people. Once those basic needs and desires of the people have been established, we ought to make a thorough evaluation of our present tax structure and determine whether, if additional funds are needed, they should most fairly come from increases in present forms of taxation or in modification of the basic tax structure.

Most Important Basis
2. I feel that the most important basis of representation in the legislature should be population, but I do not feel that our present constitutional provisions relying strictly on population soundly represent all of the interests which have helped to make our state what it is and still add great strength thereto. I feel that some revision bringing in some area representation on a permanent basis would be for the best long run welfare of the state and all its people.

3. I intend to devote as much time as possible to a very careful review of the proposal in this field which the Interim Commission will bring to the legislature and then actively to support all proposed revisions which I feel would be for the best long-run good of the state.

4. I feel that we should constantly be striving for such reorganizations of the executive branch as will prune out unnecessary bureaucracy. I have not been convinced to date, however, that a sweeping revision which would wipe out much of our lay participation in government through boards and commissions would be in the best interest of the state.

5. I would devote my major efforts toward the work of those committees to which I am assigned. In the event that I am not assigned to Ways and Means or Taxation committees, however, I plan to utilize every person elected to the legislature to represent all of the people of this county, and in no way ever to consider himself as a spokesman for any special interest or just for those who have voted for him or just for his political party. Rather he should be a representative of and from and for everyone in Jackson county.

During the 1961 session of the legislature, I sought to serve in this capacity. I never ceased to feel that it was a privilege and a responsibility to be one of the spokesmen for what I consider to be one of the finest counties in our state.

There were some 1,400 measures that came before the legislature during the last session, and on all of those which came to a vote I sought first to find out all that I could about the facts on all sides of the measure involved, then to think through from the standpoint of the welfare of our people the decision which would be for their best interest, and then to work hard to have that decision reflected in our law.

Pledges Same Approach
I pledge to the people of Jackson county the same basic approach if I am reelected as one of their representatives to the state legislature.

I know that we will have some vital decisions to make in many fields, including the fields of taxation, of education, and of public welfare. It would be futile at this time to attempt to guess in exactly what form each of these issues will arise.

I pledge to the voters of Jackson county that if I am returned to the legislature I will do my best to apply my experience for their benefit, to work to the maximum of my ability to see that measures which are for the best long-range interests of our people become part of our law and that we do not clutter up our lives and our statute books with other laws which do not meet that test.

Ed Branchfield

Edward Branchfield, candidate for the Republican nomination for election to the office of State Representative from Jackson county, has been a practicing lawyer for almost 16 years. In that time, he has represented workmen, homeowners, farmers, orchardists, loggers, storekeepers, large and small corporations and residents of all sections of the country. His varied practice has given him a keen insight into the needs, desires and problems of the people of Jackson county. He is qualified by training, experience and ability to represent this county.

Branchfield is 47 years old, married, and the father of four children. He is a member of the First Methodist church in Medford, and presently serving as chairman of its board of trustees. He is an honorary lifetime member of the board of directors of the United Crusade and of the Jackson county chapter of the American Red Cross. He was president of the Crusade for one year, and of the Red Cross for two years. He is a member of the Medford Chamber of Commerce and the Elks Lodge. He has served as past commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Disabled American Veterans and the Military Order of the Purple Heart. He is a former state commander of the Disabled American Veterans. He is a past president of the Jackson County Bar Association.

In his 10 years as a member of the Medford school board, including two years as chairman, Branchfield has learned to exercise judgment and discretion in solving public problems. His years of service on the Oregon Technical Institute advisory council and on the advisory committee to the Director of Veterans Affairs, have acquainted him with leaders throughout the state.

A lifelong Republican, Branchfield is opposed to any unnecessary government expenditures. He has, nevertheless, demonstrated his willingness to support and work for progressive measures desired and needed by the voters. He seeks to provide leadership while attending to the wishes of the public. In his years of public service, he has subordinated his personal benefit to the welfare of those whom he has served.

Edward Branchfield will be an able and competent legislator. He is hard working and conscientious. He seeks the office in order to fulfill a longtime desire to serve in the Legislature. He wants to work for the betterment of the state and county, and believes he has the ability and the background to do a good job. He is a successful lawyer and will be a successful legislator.

(Information furnished by Branchfield for State Representative committees, Sam B. Harbison, chairman.)

Branchfield's answers to the League of Women Voters' questionnaire:
1. The needs of the state must be met. Our two major sources of revenue, property taxes and income taxes, are already so high it is not feasible to increase them appreciably. A new source of revenue must be found, if services are not to be curtailed. Under proper safeguards, a sales tax might provide the solution, although more study of these problems is needed.

2. I approve of the present provision for reapportionment, but I would not object to a slight increase in the size of the legislature to permit some assurance to be given to sparsely populated areas that they will continue to have representation.

Favor of Revision
3. Our present Constitution is unwieldy, ambiguous and contains outmoded provisions. I am in favor of revision to create a basic document, leaving details of law to be specified in legislation which can be more easily updated as needs change. Since the Constitutional Revision Commission has not completed its work, it is impossible to say as yet whether I will approve its finished product.

4. Yes, I favor the adoption of a cabinet system for the administration of the executive department. I believe reorganization should come slowly, however, to prevent unnecessary interference with state services.

5. Education. Proposals for changes in substantive and procedural law.

Two Guggenheim Awards Presented
Eugene — Two University of Oregon faculty members have been awarded Guggenheim Fellowships for 1962-63.

Wolfgang A. Leppmann, associate professor of Germanic languages, and Robert W. Morris, assistant professor of biology, are the recipients.

A member of the faculty at Oregon since 1954, Leppmann will study "The Marxist View of Goethe" in Germany. Most of his work will be done in Munich and Berlin. He will do research on how Goethe is represented to the Germans in East Germany.

Morris, an Oregon faculty member since 1955, will travel to New Zealand to study the temperature sensitivity of several species of fishes that have been confined rather exclusively to south temperate latitudes.
