

Paris—(UPI)—The French government announced Thursday the length of compulsory military service will be reduced to 18 months beginning next May 1. Present term of service is 27 months and 27 days.

Market Downfall Attributed To Investors' Fears

New York—(UPI)—Wall Street explaining what has happened to the stock market sometimes attribute part of the slump to investors' fears that government is in the price picture. This is not the only reason, but these attitudes would put a lid on undue rises of either the wage curve or the price curve. Hence they would weaken some of the pressures which have helped to push the market up through buying by investors who could expect rising corporate incomes to be reflected in rising earnings and increasing stock values; by some of those who regarded common stocks as a hedge against inflation. As a result, they either do not buy any more stocks for the present, or may sell some of what they have and perhaps go into other fields of investment.

The Miracle of the Rain.

It has occurred so frequently over such a long period of time, and is apparently so very simple that no one would credit it with magical properties. Few realize it is actually a miracle that occurs not in spite of us but for us, and the lives of all living things—the magic of rain.

If you are going on a picnic or have a day planned to shoot a game of golf, a steady rain may make you angry. If you have flowers or crops that are suffering for water, then rain becomes a blessing. But regardless, rain is magic. Seeping into the earth it awakens sleeping seeds, filling their dry tissues and activating their ability to grow and prosper. It soaks into the bark of trees, softening and feeding the unfeeling wood. It revives the wilting plant. It cleans the very air. It brings life itself to man and all the humbler animals.

Small Worlds Around Us

the man or woman, all beautifully dressed, trying to get to a car or across the street. At the time one may be partly protected by an awning or an overhang of a building while he waits with varying degrees of impatience. Perhaps while he waits there, the rain stops. But the water from the awning or the roof-overhang still drips and will continue to drip for some time. Impatient at the delay, he finally decides to make a dash for it out through the drip from above. Some will figure out the regularity of the drip... take the scientific or statistical angle of the imagined problem. They may even become so serious they will count the seconds between drips, preparing themselves to dash out in between them. It's a good trick if you can do it. He counts off five seconds, or whatever he figures it is, dashes out, and gets a drip right down the back of his neck. Let him try again. He watches carefully. As soon as the drip ends, he tries again. He gets it again, right in the same place. Watch the silly thing yourself some time. The regularity of it is provoking, but try walking in between drips, and you find it can hardly be done. Some scheming little gremlin up there on the roof has his sensitive little finger on the drip-lever. Rain is magic in about everything it does.

This concept has its dissenters. The Shields survey this week commented that with elections coming up in November, it seemed likely the administration would do whatever it could to support and stimulate business.

Lost Youth Found By Search Party

Clatskanie—(UPI)—A 19-year-old youth lost in the Scout Lake area near here for almost 24 hours was safe today. Michael George, Clatskanie, was found Thursday afternoon after being the object of an intensive search. About 150 men searched for the boy. His car was found near the lake Wednesday night. The Columbia county sheriff's office said George was
