Assembly Elects Officers, Receives Grand Visitors

Jacksonville - Miss Gloria Johnson was elected worthy advisor of Warren assembly, International Order of Rainbow for Girls, at a meeting May 7 in the Jacksonville Masonic temple. Other officers elected are Miss Melba Graham, worthy associate advisor; Miss Diana Nordstrom, charity; Miss Margaret Atkinson, hope, and Miss Darcy Johnson, faith. Installation is set for Sunday, May 20 at 2 p.m., in the temple. Miss Marilyn Smith, retiring worthy advisor, gave her farewell message to the assembly. Miss Donna Hodson, Newberg, grand worthy advisor of the Oregon Grand assembly, and Mrs. Hazel Graham, Tillamook, supreme deputy of the order for Oregon, made their official visits to Warren assembly May 8; initiation was held. The new members are Miss Ann Ashton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Ashton, and Miss Carol Glenn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Neil Glenn, Medford. Escorted and introduced were Miss Hodson and Mrs. Graham. Miss Smith presented them corsages of red roses. Also escorted and introduced were Miss Susan Ritchey, grand page of the Grand Assembly; Miss Beth Chappell, Canyonville, grand patriotism; John Pond, commander general of Knights Templar; George Redhead, worshipful master of Warren Masonic lodge; Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Crawford, worthy matron and patron of Adair chapter, Order of the Eastern Star; and past worthy advisors of Warren assembly, Miss Janice Armstrong, Miss Mary Housel, Miss Lona Buffington and Miss Cora Ravenel. Other guests introduced were Miss Judith Ellison, worthy advisor-elect; Miss Janet Cuswell, past worthy advisor and past grand representative to Australia; Miss Camille Ellison; Miss Mary Connor and Mrs. Betty Wooley, past mother advisor, all Canyonville; Mrs. Gerald McKezie, Oregon chapter, OES, Canyonville, and Miss Eleanor Wright, Gold Beach assembly. Mrs. Graham commended the members of Warren assembly on their growth since her first visit in July, 1961 when she assisted in instituting the organization. Miss Hodson spoke to the group conveying a similar message.

Miss Karen Culbertson

Student Is Tapped By Group

Miss Karen Culbertson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Culbertson, Jr., 2615 Hillcrest drive, was one of 20 Oregon State university coeds tapped for the 1962-63 membership in Mortar Board, campus scholastic-service organization for senior women on campus, it was announced last week from the university.

The selections were made during the 39th annual Associated Women students convocation on the campus May 2. Miss Diane Tower, president of the Associated students, presided. Miss Culbertson, completing her junior year at the university, has been active in many student projects and endeavors. She was district chairman for Beaver Invitation to Education; was general secretary in 1961 for Mothers week end and worked on Homecoming, Beaver Preview and New Student week committees. She also was co-chairman for Principals' week end that year.

In 1962 Miss Culbertson was housing chairman for Beaver preview and "Phi of the Month" in January. The honored student also has been a member of the Business Technology Student council, is acting president of Alpha Phi sorority; listed on the Dean's honor roll; was secretary vice president of Phi Chi Theta, national honor society for women in commerce; member of Kappa Delta Pi, national education honor group; a member of Angel Flight, service honorary group for the Air Force; and luncheon ticket chairman for Mothers week end in 1960.

Instead of the customary half-hour selected subject the time was given to current news and personal comments after which the hostess served refreshments. Mrs. R. Drew Lamb conducted the business meeting and Mrs. Frances Hardy introduced the program speaker. DeVries, known to the reading public as a humorist of the cynical school, departs from his accustomed style to lay bare his personal philosophy as he searches for the meaning of life. It is the story of a man in rebellion against his Calvinist parents and a strict religious upbringing. Repeatedly tragedy strikes Peter as he loses a beloved brother and finally his only daughter. It is then that he finds a measure of faith and courage to survive.

DeVries Novel Is Reviewed. Ashland - When members of Ashland Study club met April 30 at the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Sommer, the program was presented by Mrs. Len Osgood, who reviewed "Blood of the Lamb" by Peter DeVries. The honored guest is the former Miss Donna Lynn Illingworth, Medford.

Methodist Women To Attend Quadrennial

Methodist women from all states of the union and several foreign countries will be in Atlantic City, N.J., May 15 through May 20 to attend a quadrennial Assembly of the Woman's Society of Christian service and the Wesleyan Service guild week end. About 8,000 are expected to attend the WSCS assembly and about 1,200 at the guild week end. Five major addresses, a mass communion service, the commissioning of new missionaries and deaconesses, a new play and an exhibit representative of the mission work of Methodist women will be on the program. "The Church of the World," will be the theme of both meetings. Major addresses will be given at the assembly by Mrs. J. Fount Tillman, Lewisburg, Tenn., president of the Woman's division; Bishop James K. Mathews of the Boston

Miss Eri

Protocol Chief, Former Editor Wed in Capital

Washington - The State Department's chief of protocol, Angier Biddle Duke, and a former New York fashion editor and commentator, Robin Chandler Lynn, were married Saturday. Mr. Duke, grandson of one of the founders of Duke university, Durham, N.C., and the American Tobacco company, is a multimillionaire and the father of three children. His wife, Lulu, was killed in a plane crash in New York last year. Mrs. Lynn, former fashion editor of the New York Journal American and radio and television fashion commentator, has two children by a previous marriage to actor Jeffrey Lynn. President Kennedy, busy with important conferences on the Laos crisis, did not attend the wedding but did go to a reception afterwards.

Marsdens Return

Gold Hill - Mr. and Mrs. Lee Marsden have returned to their home here after a vacation in Utah. At Ogden they were guests of their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Marsden, Jr. and son, Elmer Lee and Brenda Jo. In Salt Lake City the Marsdens visited Mr. and Mrs. Otto Hansen and in Nephi they called upon Mrs. Thomas Stephenson.

Episcopal area and a former executive of the Methodist Board of Missions; the Rev. Roswell P. Barnes of New York, executive secretary of the United States conference of the World Council of Churches; Dr. Robert Oxnam, president of Drew university, Madison, N.J., and Sir Hugh Foot, British diplomat who is currently serving as a member of the British delegation at the United Nations. It is not expected that representatives from this area will attend.

Miss Camille Eri was elected honored queen at a recent meeting of Bethel 69, International Order of Job's Daughters. Also elected were the Misses Denna Taylor, senior princess; Charlotte Martin, junior princess; Linda North, guide; and Karen Smith, marshal. Installation of the new officers will be held June 18. Preceding the meeting, members of the Bethel entertained their secret dads at dinner. Mrs. Lorene Babecek, chairman of the serving committee, was assisted by the Misses Lynn Boughner, Carolyn Bailey, Lynda Bayliss, Karen Corneel, Day Lynch and their mothers. During the meeting Miss Linda Nash, past queen of 69; Wallace Eri, past associate guardian of 69; Fred Purdin and Ralph Lue, 33rd degree Scottish Rite Masons were introduced by Queen Lynn Boughner. Mr. Purdin introduced Scottish Rite rulers, Roger Westerfield, master of the Lodge of Perfection; Wyles Berry, master of Rose Croix and John C. Smith, master of Consistory. Miss Boughner reminded members of the slumber party on May 19 and to save rummage for a sale June 9. An amusing style show addendum was held in honor of the guests. Brother Visits At O'Brien Home. O'Brien-Kenneth Franklin, a brother of Mrs. Sam Menard, is a guest of the Menards and of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Misker this week. Mrs. Franklin is expected to arrive soon from Gonzales, Calif., to join her husband for a week's stay in the valley.

Veni - Vidi

Rome - Like the little girl returning from a day's visit to the country, who said, "Well, I see you have the same old cat," I am tempted to say, "Well, I see you have the same old coliseum." Three years ago I was here and nothing seems changed - the waiters at Doney's, the handsome bartender at the Excelsior, the librarian, the girl at Cook's in the post office. Nothing seems changed - but there is plenty more of everything, buildings, tourists, and cars. Millions and trillions more cars, little cars, all racing in and out of streets, squealing around corners, with nouveau drivers, bright eyed and avid to get there first. Never let Italians say again that the United States is noisy. Even Florence, city of culture, museums and the Medici, has bowed to the inevitable - progress, which has reared its head there too in the guise of the automobile. Noise rages and surges and rises in terrifying waves through the narrow streets, as the little cars plow through, bumper to bumper, chockablock. It is estimated that there will be added 50,000 more of the same this year. Venice has something new - a stop light. A stop light on a canal. In Venice at the custom house, the taxi stands are in the water, and the taxis are motor and ferry boats and gondolas. Depending on what the hotel to which you are going gives you, you ride in that up to the entrance to disembark. It so happened that I was the only one of my shipmates booked at the Royal Donielli, and I climbed unsuspectingly into a gondola. I am glad that no one I knew saw me and the more or less romantic picture I made, sitting in the middle of the gondola, hanging on to my hat, while I bounced up and down in the grand canal on the waves created by busy ferry and motor boats. Gondoliers don't have meters, but they know tourists when they taxi them. And it was a strenuous trip for me. Nothing changes in Venice - no cars, plenty of Murano glass, jewelry and Venetian embroidery in the shop windows; pigeons and people taking pictures of pigeon in San Marcos square. The Royal Donielli is a charming hotel, much more European in atmosphere than the Bauer Grunwald. I have come to the conclusion that April is the month to travel the Atlantic, and April is the month to travel Europe. Apparently, thousands of other Americans think so too. As I sit writing at one of Doney's outdoor coffee tables, all about me - in front, beside and walking - are Americans. Husbands and wives for the most part, who are taking advantage of the pre-tourist period. Americans and Germans. Scores and scores of Germans. Several American acquaintances have telephoned me in the four days I've been here, and just in case - here's my number. Just dial Rome 802-033.

Sorority Elections Announced

Xi Beta Kappa chapter of Beta Sigma Phi sorority elected Mrs. Floyd Eastwood as president for the coming season of the chapter. Others elected were Mrs. Richard Knoll, first vice president; Mrs. Robert Lammert, second vice president; Mrs. Don Nelson, recording secretary; Mrs. Ronald Hall, treasurer; Mrs. Wayne Turpin, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Thomas Shoop and Mrs. Irving Thompson, city council representatives. A recent "Rags to Riches" rusche party was held for nine guests that have completed their four years in a ritual chapter and are eligible for the exemplar degree. Those present were Mrs. Walter Smith, Mrs. Gerald McGrew, Mrs. Alan Sterton, Mrs. Richard Frey, Mrs. L. H. Guy, Mrs. Robert Hereher, Mrs. Willard Chinn, Mrs. Harold Ames, and Miss Florence Robison. Two transfers were guests. They are Mrs. Grady Mankins and Mrs. John Corey. Ernest Miller from Victoria, Australia, who is a Fulbright exchange teacher at Medford High school, gave the cultural program at the last meeting held at the home of Mrs. Robert Lanumers.
