

Teen-Age Traffic Safety Conference Resolutions Noted

Several resolutions were passed during the recent Jackson County Teen-Age Traffic Safety conference.

All secondary schools in the state should offer a standardized, state-approved course in driver education, and this program should be available to more students than at present, according to one resolution.

Another resolution suggested that the Oregon state minimum insurance requirements should be raised from the present policy.

The initial driver's license test, both behind the wheel and written, should be more severe, and more driver improvement schools should be established throughout the state were other resolutions.

Conference members also recommended that parents or the guardian of the juvenile traffic violator should be notified of the violation by the court. The court should require parental attendance in court.

All traffic court judges in the state should be members of the Oregon State Bar association, according to another resolution.

The Jackson County Teen-Age Traffic Safety Conference delegates should establish a Jackson County Teenage Safety Council to carry out the proposed resolutions of the conference. Members of the council would be officers elected at the conference, and include two representatives from all the high schools in the county.

New officers elected for 1962-63 are Dave Force, Gold Hill, president; Jim Hicks, Central Point, vice president; Barbara Schatz, Central Point, secretary.

The first annual conference was held at Medford High school with keynote speaker Vern L. Hill, director of the motor vehicle department, Salem.

A panel discussion on driving problems was held by L. L. Sawyer, district court judge; Alan B. Holmes, district attorney; Hal Carver, driver training instructor at Medford High school; and Ren Taylor, Jackson county association of insurance agents.

Local Girl Reported Lost; Found Asleep

A missing seven-year-old Medford girl was found after an intensive search recently on Fort Dick beach near Crescent City, Calif.

Dellene Wright, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Wright, 1482 Grand ave., Medford, was found asleep in some grass by two men in a jeep, Thomas Mounts, of Fort Dick, and Harold Thomas, Crescent City, part of a search posse.

Wright reported his daughter missing to the sheriff's office after she was going to walk down to the beach to the fire to get warm. However, when it came time to leave, she could not be found.

Mr. and Mrs. Morris Curtis, route 1, Eagle Point, accompanied the Wrights to Crescent City where they visited Morris's parents.

SENATOR NEWBRY OUTSTANDING

In a letter dated May 7, 1962, Anthony Yurri, Senate Republican Minority Leader said: "It was my pleasure to serve with Senator Newbry during the 1961 Legislative Session. I had ample opportunities to observe and work with Lynn Newbry. You may rest assured that Senator Lynn Newbry was a studious, reasonable and OUTSTANDING legislator. He had the interest of his constituents at heart and worked hard on their behalf. They were well and ably represented."

"You may also rest assured that it is not his inclination to waste taxpayers' money and to demand that the objects of expenditures be well justified."
