

Mysterious Food Poisoning Cases Claimed Subsiding

Washington—A mysterious outbreak of food poisoning which caused serious illness in 18 states has apparently "about run its course," a U.S. Public Health Service spokesman said today.

The food poisoning was caused by a rare type of bacteria known as salmonella hartford. Prior to this year, no more than 20 cases of food poisoning by this particular germ had been identified in the whole history of the United States.

95 Cases Confirmed

Since early this year, however, there have been 95 laboratory-confirmed cases of salmonella hartford poisoning and 42 suspected cases which were not definitely confirmed by laboratory tests.

The epidemic seems to have reached a peak in late March, the public health spokesman said. The last confirmed case was reported in April.

Cases were reported in 18 states—Connecticut, Florida, Georgia, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kentucky, Maine, Michigan, Minnesota, New York, North Dakota, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Wisconsin, Missouri, Maryland and Delaware. The heaviest incidence was in the upper Middle West.

Canada also had an outbreak of salmonella hartford poisoning at the same time.

No Clue Turned Up

Intensive investigations by Public Health Service epidemic detectives here so far yielded no clue as to why the rare ailment suddenly broke forth over a wide area.

There were no fatalities, but many of the victims became quite seriously ill with fevers ranging up to 103 degrees and severe diarrhea. Some had to be hospitalized and fed intravenously for periods as long as three weeks.

The majority of the victims were children between the ages of 2 and 10.

Winema Area Roads Reported Improved

Klamath Falls - Road conditions on the Winema National forest continued to improve last week, but some danger spots and mudholes still exist, the forest service announced.

In the Lake of the Woods area the Fish lake road is still closed. Rainbow Campground is free of snow and open for public use. Aspen Point Campground remains closed, as does Spruce Campground, and both garbage dumps at Lake of the Woods.

The road along the west side of Upper Klamath lake from Rocky Point to Ft. Klamath is free of snow, but portions of the road are muddy and rough.

Travel on the Chiloquin district of the Sprague river remains hazardous and is not recommended.

The year 1947 was the post-war baby boom peak in the United States. There were 26.6 babies born for each 1,000 people, marking a new record, according to census studies.

County To Receive $5,916 from State

Jackson county is scheduled to receive $5,916 as its share of Oregon marine boating license fees, according to the Oregon state marine board.

The disbursement was figured at $3 per boat of the 1,972 numbered boats in the county.

Multnomah county received the largest amount of the $130,296 distributed throughout the state—$33,219 for its 11,073 boats.

During recent budget sessions, the Jackson county budget committee approved allocation of $9,132 for two deputies in marine law enforcement and $700 for boating law enforcement equipment. The deputies would have other duties during the off season.

By WALTER TOWNSEND

The staff of the Veterans Administration Domiciliary honored Volunteers with a tea recently. About 175 attended.

Banks I. Paul, acting director, Mrs. L. Dover and other staff members and wives greeted guests as they arrived.

The event was held in the Employee's club.

Blue and lavender pansies, with tapers and other accessories repeating the colors, focused attention on the long serving table. Small bouquets scattered throughout the room carried out the theme.

These eye-catching decorations were arranged by Mrs. E. H. Fomrite, assisted by Mrs. Monroe of dietetics, and the flowers were those which the members had grown on the grounds under the direction of W. K. Snook, the new gardener.

Women Pour

For the first portion of the afternoon Mrs. B. I. Paul and Mrs. C. W. Twinstup poured, followed by Mrs. F. Gionning and Mrs. A. W. Foley; Mrs. V. E. Bryant and Mrs. L. A. Gustafson; Mrs. E. E. Parks, and Mrs. J. W. Love.

VISIT AREA—Several officials of the Allis-Chalmers company from the Midwest arrived in southern Oregon Wednesday evening and spent Thursday visiting the logging and construction operations in the area. Of particular interest was the Bagley Logging operation in Happy Camp, Calif., which uses Allis-Chalmers equipment in its logging operation. The group left Medford Friday morning and are visiting Allis-Chalmers dealers. Shown at the Medford Municipal airport after they arrived by company plane are (left to right) Fred Schick, Springfield, Ill., chief engineer of the Springfield works; E. J. Mercer, Milwaukee, Wis., vice president of the construction machinery division; Garner T. Haupt, owner of the Haupt Tractor company, Medford, and V. M. Holloway, Milwaukee, general sales manager. Others in the party were Frank Crawford, manager Northwest region, and J. A. Scoggin, general service manager, both Milwaukee; and E. D. Blank, branch manager and Robert C. McMillin, sales representative, both Portland. (Knackstedt photo)

THE WEEK IN CALIFORNIA

Assemblyman Goes on Trial on Charges of Falsely Reporting

By United Press International

Charles Edward Chapel, the Assemblyman who said he was only joking, went to trial on charges of falsely reporting explosives aboard an airliner.

The Palos Verdes Estates Republican admitted remarking his briefcase contained nitroglycerine and a gun. But Chapel testified he made the remark to a seatmate. Stewardess Judy Churchill, however, said the statement was made to her—twice.

The Sacramento to Los Angeles flight March 15 was held up 53 minutes while airline officials and police examined Chapel's briefcase, and interrogated the veteran lawmaker.

Former Gov. Goodwin J. Knight appeared as a "character" witness in Chapel's behalf. He termed the assemblyman's reputation as "excellent."

Despite Chapel's claim the whole incident was a joke, prosecutor G. N. Tocher emphasized that a 1961 state statute, for which the lawmaker voted, fails to provide for such humor.

Elsewhere, there were these developments:

Siamese: Siamese twin girls were born to a San Francisco woman during April, it was announced. Doctors at Children's hospital said they would attempt to separate the baby's bodies during June. The infants, named Patricia and Prudence, were "very well formed, beautiful little Chinese girls," the hospital reported. They were the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Lowe of San Francisco. They had one placenta and umbilical cord at birth, but completely separate circulation systems, separate hearts and separate intestinal tracts.

Construction: A federal mediator expressed hope that a settlement would soon be reached in the $3.5 billion northern California construction dispute. The massive shutdown had idled nearly all major projects in the 46-county area. Mediator Eugene Barry said the attitude between the northern California construction employers and Laborers Union seemed "conducive to a settlement."

Judge: Alameda County Superior Court Judge Marvin Sherwin, a former Republican leader in the state Legislature, was convicted on six counts of Federal income tax evasion. He was found guilty by a jury of seven women and five men of failing to report $37,007 in income for 1954-56, on which the government asserted taxes of $16,394 were due.

Sherwin, 60, also was found guilty of perjury for signing his tax returns when he knew the contents were false. He faced a possible maximum penalty of 24 years in prison and $45,000 in fines and suspension from the Superior Court bench.

Cohen: Former gambler Mickey Cohen bid for his old job as a prison haberdasher in a firm whose customers do not complain too much about fit or style. Cohen, 48, was back in Alcatraz after being one of the few persons ever to get a vacation from the island federal prison in San Francisco Bay. He was returned to resume serving a 15-year sentence for income tax evasion. He had been free on $100,000 bail since Feb. 17 pending a ruling on his appeal.

Carmel: A Carmel couple joyfully announced they were expecting their first child—making a grand total of 19. Mr. and Mrs. Francis L. Beardsley were married last Sept. 9. He had 10 children at the time and she had eight. The present family includes 11 girls and seven boys. The father, a chief warrant officer at the Monterey Navy post graduate school, said they were hoping for a boy.

Divorces: An attractive divorcee, who charged arresting officers handcuffed her and paraded her to jail wearing only "a silk nightgown" was convicted of resisting arrest and failing to appear on a traffic violation. But Mrs. Dorothy Makray, 28, said she still intended to go ahead with her $1 million suit against arresting officers. She said she could not keep her nightgown together when taken from her home by police on a warrant charging her with driving with an expired driver's license.

Poppy Sale Set in Medford May 25, 26

Buddy Poppies will be sold by Veterans of Foreign Wars, Crater Lake Post 1833, in Medford May 25 and 26, the post has announced.

"In the hospital wards and hobby rooms of Veterans' Administration homes and hospitals over the country, men in pajamas and bathrobes have been busy for many months making artificial memorial flowers symbolic of the disabled veterans," a spokesman said.

For many years Veterans Administration hospitals have recognized the therapeutic value in making Buddy Poppies. Each veteran is paid a nominal amount for each flower he makes. The remainder of the money collected from the sale goes to aid the disabled veterans, and for financing welfare work among widows, orphans and dependents of deceased veterans.
