

Senior Selected To Teach in Winston

Miss Nadine Brood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Brood, Dark Hollow rd., Medford, is among 26 graduating Linfield college seniors who have signed public school teaching contracts for this fall, according to the Linfield Education department.

Miss Brood will teach girls' physical education at Douglas High school, Winston.

AFS Students This Fall To Be From Denmark; Malaya

This fall Denmark and the Federation of Malaya will be represented at Medford High school under the American Field service program.

Mrs. R. E. Mencke, local chapter president, recently announced that Jans Hasfeldt, Lyngby, Denmark, and Miss Nik Azizah Binti Haji Nik Yahya, Kota Bharu, Kelantan, Malaya will attend the local school as seniors.

As in the past the students will have American foster families during their 10-month stay. Young Hasfeldt will be living with Mr. and Mrs. James P. Rowan, 828 Minnesota ave. Miss Nik Yahya will be the "daughter" of Dr. and Mrs. Robert H. Riechers, 2218 East Main st.

James Rowan Jr., a sophomore this year at Medford High, and Peggy Riechers, a junior, will be the AFS brother and sister for the exchange students during the coming year.

Background Noted

In announcing the placement, Mrs. Mencke explained some of the background concerning the two students. More complete information will be available periodically from now until the two arrive in August or September.

Jans will be 17 when he arrives in Medford. He plays handball, football, and badminton, and the clarinet, bass, cello, and coronet. He presently attends Bagshaw Boarding school, and hopes to become an engineer.

Miss Nik Yahya, or Azizan as she will be known in the United States, also is interested in sports. She is a girl guide and a member of the debating society. As a result of her ability in Malayan folk dancing, she has performed for the King of Malaya. She will be 18 when she arrives in America, and is a student at Zainab Secondary school.

June 15 will be the departure date for the two students presently in Medford under the auspices of AFS. Miss Sussi Bergholm, Orsa, Sweden, and Claudio Paterlini, Mantoba, Italy, will leave for a bus tour of the United States preceding their trip back to Europe.

HOLDS CHECK—Betty Hatzi holds the $125 award check which she received for her participation during the past several years in the public information program of the Medford social security district office. She assisted district manager Edward B. Jacobson in planning, preparing and appearing on the office television programs. Her contributions to the public information program were in addition to her regularly assigned duties which she performed with a high degree of efficiency. A native of Klamath Falls, she moved to Medford in 1957, and joined the staff of the Medford social security office in 1959.

MURDER TRIAL SET

Portland - The first degree murder trial of Richard B. Schwensen has been set for May 31 by Circuit Judge James Crawford. He is charged in the death of Mrs. Jean Rosaria Bussey, 29, last September.

COSTLY PINT

Swindon, England—Laborer Malcolm Hambridge, 22, was sentenced Monday to six months in jail for dousing Detective W. Dodge with a pint of beer. He also was ordered to pay the constable's cleaning bill.

The Family Council

Editor's Note: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, three editors and a woman's editor. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counselors. (Copyright by General Features Corp.)

Mrs. D. L. - She's too conscious of her height.

Carol L. - I have six feet of it to be conscious of.

Mrs. D. L. - I have a beautiful daughter, 23 years old, who's bright and smart except when it comes to one thing - men. Whenever we ask her to meet someone nice we've heard of, she only asks one question about him. "How tall is he?" Nothing about his brains, looks, character, disposition or income. Not even his weight. Just his height is all that interests her. As a result, she sits around home, envying her friends who are shorter or who don't care about such superficial things.

It's true she's taller than average. But why must she insist that her escorts be even taller than she? That narrows the field for her around here. Her attitude seems all wrong. She should either see a psychiatrist, I think, or move to Texas. They're all tall there I hear.

Carol L. - What's really got Mother down is that I refused to go out with the son of her best friend. He's in town for a luggage dealers' convention, and the two mothers have been plotting for us to meet for years. He lives down South.

Well, he called her and he's a nice enough chap. But I can't walk out with him. It's not that he's short. He's average height. It's me. I'm so tall I have to bend down to talk to him. I feel like a mother telling him he's a good boy. I just don't get that "protected" feeling a girls wants. And even though Ray was polite enough to ask me out, I know he wouldn't relish getting a stiff neck from looking up at me. And to whisper, he'd have to stand on tiptoe.

Mother needn't worry. I'm sure there's a big guy I can be comfortable with, who'll also have the virtues she mentioned.

The Council - We've heard alas, of "dying by inches," but here's Carol who lives by inches and lets them keep her miles away from the important things in life. These, including a varied and stimulating social life, seem to be passing her by. And all because she has never come to terms with, never accepted, her physical "differentness." Instead, she lets it block her.

Since self-acceptance is the first law of good mental health, Carol may require psychological counseling to achieve this. But if she's as bright as her mother claims, maybe she can revise her cockeyed scale of values by herself. What she needs is some of the philosophy of Popeye (fancy our quoting him to a smart girl) who states: "I am what I am 'cause dat's what I am" - and then goes on to other matters.

Once Carol is at peace about herself, she'll realize that going out with men is a person-to-person proposition, not a public service. How things "look" should not govern her decisions. It's how things are that counts. Thus, while making small concessions to the aesthetics of appearance (wearing flats, perhaps, and skipping the beehive coiffure), she'll concentrate upon the fun, interest and camaraderie which can accrue from a date, rather than upon what sort of figure the pair will cut along Main st. After all, in the long hard stretches of a marriage, it doesn't matter who's taller, because both will have to do lots of bending. Thus the frame becomes unimportant. It's what's inside the frame which Carol, as well as her suitors, must check up on.

This is not to say that we do not sympathize with Carol. Her problem is an outgrowth of today's emphasis upon stereotypes, including the hackneyed tall-boy tiny-girl perfect couple prototype. But she needs the clear vision and common sense to note the millions of exceptions who, regardless of footage, pair up devotedly for life. Face to face, they see eye to eye.

Ashland Cancer Donations Reach New High, $1,947

Ashland - "The Ashland area's American Cancer Society's 1962 Crusade has reached an all-time high and we hope to go even higher," said Mrs. Phil Selby, co-chairman for the Ashland General crusade.

As of May 17, the Ashland residents have contributed $1,947.47. The Spring Fever card party netted $224.50. Ashland's share of the national Bowl Down Cancer week brought in $134.75.

The residential crusade reached more people than ever before with its life-saving literature this year. In Area A, Mrs. Raoul Maddox, chairman, $81.01 was collected. Area B, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Robert Flynn and Mrs. James Sinclair, turned in $460. Area C received $478.84 under the guidance of Mrs. Howard Pierce.

In commenting on the funds raised, Mr. Howard Pierce, general Crusade chairman, said, "Sixty cents on each dollar given us will stay in Oregon. This money is used for local and regional cancer control programs of research, education, and service to the cancer patient. The 40 per cent going to the national crusade is used primarily for research. Research is necessary to find the causes, cures, and ways to prevent cancer."

Mrs. Selby said that she and Mr. Pierce were highly pleased with the work done by the 190 volunteers. She also urged that people who were unable to contribute on "C Day" use their mail-in envelopes.

"Every nickel, every dime brings us that much closer to finding a cure for cancer. In the meantime, we need money to continue our service program and finance our educational program which will help prevent the thousands of needless, wasteful cancer deaths now occurring."
