Freedom 7 Mercury Capsule Duplicate To Be Displayed

A duplicate Freedom 7 Mercury spacecraft will be displayed here June 1, according to Russ Heysell, volunteer chairman of the treasury's savings bonds committee. The craft will be located at Main st. and Central ave. between 5 and 8 p.m. for inspection. The capsule is a part of a savings bond exhibit that is touring the country during the Freedom bond drive in May and June. Residents have been asked to purchase an extra savings bond during this period. The capsule is identical to the one that carried America's first astronauts into space. It is mounted on a red, white and blue trailer, flanked by two flags. The public will be able to examine the spacecraft at close hand. The McDonnell Aircraft corporation, which designed and built the Mercury capsules for the national aeronautics and space administration, donated the capsule to the treasury department for the drive. The Chevrolet Motor division of General Motors is providing as a public service the truck and trailer on which the capsule is mounted, as well as drivers, display signs, and public serv-
