Try and Stop Me

CLIP AMORY, sauve Boswell of what's left of the Society Set in this country, often prefaces his lectures to ladies' clubs with the reminder that most exclusive clubs are formed to keep people out, rather than to take people in. "I am sure," simpered one club president, as she served Amory a post-lecture cup of lukewarm coffee, "that you didn't include this wonderful Green Valley Club of ours." "Oh, no," Amory answered her. "I had always thought the Green Valley Club was a motel."

Who says great thinkers are forgetful folk? Viscount Hailsham recalls the morning Philosopher Immanuel Kant suddenly remembered he had proposed marriage to a lovely neighbor and been accepted. He hastily donned his best clothes and rushed over to his prospective bride's home—where he found to his intense disappointment she had left town—some 20 years before.

"You Bostonians are always so loyal," taunted another midwestern matron, "yet I notice that neither your father, your brother, your sister, nor you yourself married a Bostonian." "Of course not," answered Amory smoothly, "We feel we have to spread the culture."

Southern Oregon College Receives $10,500 NSF Grant

Ashland – Notice of a National Science Foundation grant of more than $10,500 which will be used to support a number of Southern Oregon college students in an undergraduate research participation program has been received by Dr. Elmo N. Stevenson, SOC president.

One of the purposes of the grant is to provide students time in which to perform research activities in association with college faculty members on a junior partnership basis -time which would ordinarily be used in working at various jobs to get through school.

According to Dr. F. W. Sturges, who will serve as general director for the grant, almost half the sum provided is for such support. The remainder will be spent for supplies, travel, faculty salaries, and other expenses incidental to the program.

Student recipients of the grant will spend 10 full weeks during the summer and several hours each week during the regular school year on a general research topic, the ecological reconnaissance of the Bear creek drainage.

Supervising Students

Two other faculty members, Dr. Irene Hollenbeck, professor of science, and Dr. Marvin D. Coffey, assistant professor of science, will assist in supervising the students. Student teams of two each will be assigned to one of three specific research topics: vegetation, flies, or mammals.

Students selected to begin their participation this June include Leanne Williams, Ashland, junior in biology; Larry Waite, North Bend, junior in secondary teaching, social science; Bruce Witters, junior in science-mathematics, secondary teaching, Grants Pass; Richard Reiling, sophomore in secondary teaching, science-mathematics, Klamath Falls; James Long, sophomore in secondary education, Malin; and George Gilman, junior in general studies, science-mathematics, Medford.

Dr. Sturges said one of the main functions of the NSF undergraduate research program is to allow students the opportunity of finding out by personal experience what actual research in the sciences is like to determine if they are interested in further studies in that area. He explained that it is difficult for a student to appreciate the real excitement of research in normal classroom participation.

FIRST WITNESS – Roland Ballou, assistant deputy administrator for commodity operations of the Agriculture Department, left, was the first witness as the House Government Operations subcommittee began hearings on the Billie Sol Estes case. He said there is reason to believe that Estes is guilty of a criminal violation in his grain storage dealings with the government. At right is C. H. Moseley an Agriculture Department official from Dallas, Texas. (UPI)

4-H Club News

Crazy Stichers

The Eight Crazy Stichers 4-H club meeting was recently held at Mrs. Vandagrifts' home. The meeting was called to order by Barbara Wood, president. Sharon Hugdahl, secretary, read the minutes and gave roll call. There were five present and five absent. The two guests were Mrs. Velma Wood and Mrs. Vandagrift.

During the discussion we planned to have everybody bring their project for the fair and if possible, have it cut out. The meeting was adjourned and refreshments served.

Smart Cookies

On May 15 a Mothers day tea was held at Myrna Young's home by the Smart Cookies 4-H club. Eleven mothers and five brothers and sisters were present and among our honored guests was Miss Phyliss Kirtland, our 4-H agent.

Members modeled dresses and outfits they had created out of newspapers.

Alice Minger won first prize for her newspaper creation of a peddle pusher outfit. Jeri Parrish won second prize.

Refreshments were served by the members and leaders Darlene Florey and LaVelle Ricks.

Experimenteers

The Experimenteers 4-H sewing club met Monday, May 14 at their leader's home, Mrs. E. C. Duggan.

Four members were present and we welcomed three new members, Janice Mason, Delsy Dibble and Linda Denbo.

Our leader demonstrated irregularities in materials to watch for in buying. Refreshments were served by Donna Shafer.

Preparation Program Slated at University

Eugene – A preparation program for teaching mentally retarded children in Oregon will be offered at the University of Oregon this summer.

The 12-credit hour program will meet for eight weeks. Teachers prepared in elementary or secondary education who have had classroom teaching experience may enroll. The program includes 12 of the 18 required hours for certification.

Director of the program will be James R. Lent, associate professor of education at the university.

History of Ballpoint Pen Reviewed at Lunch

A 15-minute film describing the operation of a modern ballpoint pen factory was shown at the Monday noon meeting of the Medford Chamber of Commerce Roundtable.

Bob Ford of Marco Advertising, assisted by Mike Alesko of Weisfield's Jewelers, told the group that when the ballpoint pen was first introduced by a New York City store in 1945, some 50 policemen were needed to restrain a crowd of about 5,000 people who were jammed outside the doors waiting to get in.

By that afternoon, Ford said, the store's supply of 5,000 pens, selling at $12.50 each, was gone, and by the end of the month an additional 45,000 had been sold.

A prototype ballpoint was first patented in 1895 by G. A. Werner and A. W. Askew, who used an ink made from lampblack and castor oil. The product was marketed, but failed to sell.

First Practical Pen

It remained for an Hungarian, Lazlow Birro, to make the first practical ballpoint pen. It was produced largely in Argentina, where it was found useful for marking leather.

A U.S. Air Force pilot spotted the pen in Argentina and saw in it the answer to a pilot's prayer: a pen that would not leak under altitude pressure. The officer told the Pentagon about it and the Air Force, in turn, made attempts to interest several manufacturers in the innovation.

In the meantime, however, an American, Milton Reynolds, also saw the pen while on a trip to Argentina, and he immediately took steps to produce a re-designed model of the pen under his own patent.

Banks $3 Million

An industry journal reports that Reynolds, who supplied the pen to the New York City store that experienced the first day sell-out, personally banked about $3 million in a few short months on an original investment of $26,000.

The Ritepoint company, producers of the film shown to the Roundtable, is housed in a combination office-factory building with a total floor space of about 70,000 square feet. It employs 300 craftsmen and technicians, and its products are sold in 30 foreign countries as well as the United States.

Despite some initial setbacks, which developed when the first pens put on the market failed to live up to advertising claims, the ballpoint pen market is now flourishing. About 900 million of them were sold last year, and manufacturers anticipated total sales this year of about 1 billion, or some $240 million in retail sales, Ford said.

Play Equipment Being Installed

Four pieces of play equipment for pre-school children, purchased with $1,500 donated by the Crater Lake Post 1833 of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, are being readied for installation in Jackson park, according to Robert L. Haworth, Medford park and recreation director.

The play apparatus will be installed in time for the summer opening of the park June 8, Haworth said.

A fifth piece, a free form object known as "Snavely," which was designed by Charles Forrester, Ashland, still needs additional work, but it should be ready for use within a few days after the opening, Haworth said. Snavely, too, was paid for from the VFW donation.

The VFW has also donated a flagpole for Jackson park. The park and recreation department will prepare a concrete base for the pole, on which a marble plaque will be mounted, dedicating the pole in memory of war dead.

Following installation of the flagpole in the near future, the VFW will hold a formal ceremony.

HYMNS RECORDED – As his wife joins in religious services at Brookings, Nobou Fujita, only man to bomb the United States in World War II, tape records the hymns. His 26-year-old son, holding a movie camera, stands next to him. With his son interpreting, Fujita told newsmen, "War is foolish." However he later remarked that this foolishness led him to his chosen field of international law and relationships. (UPI)

Grange News

Hornbrook

Hornbrook – Pinochle and whist will provide the entertainment on June 1 when the Home Economics group of Hornbrook Grange sponsors a card party at the Grange hall, starting at 8 p.m.

Prizes will be awarded and refreshments will be served. The public is invited.

On June 4, beginning at 1 p.m., open house will be held at the Grange hall. Hostesses will be Mrs. E. E. (Pete) Fisher and Mrs. Frank Bear, chairman and vice chairman respectively of the Home Economics group.

On June 6, a large number of new members will be initiated into the local grange. A potluck supper at 6:30 p.m. will precede the ceremony, scheduled to start at 8:30 p.m. Vayne O. Ralston, district deputy, and the drill team from Greenhorn Garage in Yreka will conduct the initiation.

Grange members from here who attended the district meeting of the Grange Home Economics committees of Siskiyou county were Grange Master Mrs. George Michels, Home Economics chairman, Mrs. Fisher, Mrs. Bear and Mrs. John Sylvia.

The meeting was held on May 18 at the Gazelle Grange hall.

Chairmen of the various Home Economics groups throughout the county gave their annual reports, and a program was presented.

Scout News

Silvertip District

Yreka – The Siskiyou Silvertip District camporee held near McCloud Saturday and Sunday experienced every type of weather to be found during winter. Blustery winds, snow squalls, sunshine and light showers hit the area where 226 scouts and scouters held training Saturday.

Sunday morning the tents were covered with frost and the temperature was in the low 20s making it necessary to have many camp fires in the early morning hours.

Each scout was scored on his physical fitness in tests conducted by scouters. Broad-jumping, pushups, timed 50-yard dashes and other tests of stamina were held by the scouts. William Hefflin, in charge of the camporee, said emphasis was placed on physical fitness.

Food provided by the McCloud Community Recreation council and prepared by Allen Carter and McCloud Explorers was served Saturday evening.

Areas represented were McCloud Troop 42; Dunsmuir, Troop 26 and 91; Klamath River Troop 63; Yreka Troops 50 and 57; Weed Troop 31 and 34; Mt. Shasta troop 97 and 34.

Rattlesnake Patrol, Troop 26 of Dunsmuir led in points on scout requirement grading.

Lester Fasig, district executive of Yreka, attended the two day camporee.

MUSICAL EXIT

Los Angeles (UPI) Tympanist Charles L. White's retirement speech Monday after 42 years with the Los Angeles Philharmonic orchestra was brief. "Old soldiers just fade away," he said. "But not tympanists–they beat it."

Knoxville, Tenn. (UPI) Mrs. Gertrude Perry has been ordered to appear in federal court here June 5 on charges of slugging a woman agent for the Internal Revenue Service who was checking her tax return.
