

Club Holds Spring Tea; Janet Miller Is Honored

Ashland - Six Ashland High school senior girls and their mothers were honored Saturday afternoon at a spring tea given by the Ashland Business and Professional Women's club. Other invited guests were senior girls and their mothers who joined in congratulating the winner of the first BPWC "Girl of the Year" award.

Announcement that Janet Miller had been named for the title and will wear the club insignia was made by Mrs. Marjorie Peterson, chairman of the award committee and first president of the Ashland club.

Miss Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Miller, 2120 East Main road, has maintained a grade point average of 4 during her high school years and as a result is to be class valedictorian at the June 7 graduating exercises. She recently received a scholarship with honors at entrance to Willamette university, Salem.

Last summer the BPWC Girl of the Year made the American Heritage tour; she was named Girls State representative; has been a member of the student council and of the National Honor society. She has been president of both the Girls League and the Girls Athletic Association; has served on the inter-club council and placed ninth in the state contest conducted by the Elks lodge for "Most Valuable Student." She was also a candidate for state DeMolay "Sweetheart," and is active in the Congregational church.

Following the announcement by Mrs. Peterson, Miss Miller was presented with a $25 U.S. Savings bond. Mrs. Jacqueline Lewis, club president, made the presentation and congratulated the winner and her mother.

Refreshments were served from a candlelit tea table centered with pink carnations. Those who poured were Mrs. Peterson, Mrs. Viola Squire, Mrs. Louise Myers and Mrs. Lewis, past presidents of the club.

In addition to Miss Miller the other five girls who won six-week term title were Joy Fahrenhurst, Margie Moore, Judy Benson, Joy Hinkson and Karen Felter.

'Memories' Flower Show Given by Ashland Group

Ashland - "Memories" was the timely theme for the Ashland Garden club's spring flower show held Saturday, May 26, in the Civic clubhouse on Winburn way. Gardens of the entire valley contributed to the spectacular display that attracted more than 300 visitors, who admired and asked questions of exhibitors and judges.

Iris of every type and hue predominated, with roses the popular second place favorite. Rare lilies, lupine, vines and shrubs filled every table in the clubhouse. A total of 275 entries was reported in the horticultural specimen division. Arrangements keyed to the show subject included classes for amateurs and clubs, juniors and adults, and varied from a blue ribbon winner in "Childhood Memories" for a miniature waffle iron flower setting to a first award in the Travel section for a simple Grecian statuette surrounded by pastel pink peonies.

There were engagement luncheon centerpieces, corsages in memory of social triumphs, humorous reminders of "Mother's Busy Years," and simple mantelpiece arrangements for "Sacred Memories." An interesting division was the "Bloom Cycle" - an artistic display of named variety flowers in three stages of bloom. A number of junior gardeners tried their hand at gay breakfast table settings and in designs of florals imbedded in sand, as well as display of their own growing plants and flower specimens.

Fragrance vied with color in the 1962 Garden of Memories spring show with originality playing an important part in its success. The stage in the main auditorium was a focal point of interest with its nostalgic reminder of Grandmother's sitting room. Antique and mid-Victorian furnishings were loaned for the occasion by Mrs. Reba Whittle and presided over by Mrs. Dale Hoover, in pioneer dress. Mrs. Hoover was in charge of the entire staging of the show.

Judges of the entries were unanimous in declaring the Ashland exhibit one of excellent quality and surprising quantity in spite of the late spring and recent rains. The three judges of the standard show were Mrs. Arnold Bohnert, Mrs. L. C. Gorden and Mrs. R. D. Kay, all are from Central Point and are accredited judges.

Mrs. W. W. Hendrixson is president of the Ashland Garden club and Mrs. E. A. Bay was general chairman of the annual springtime event. Other chairmen were: Mrs. O. V. Poe, entries and classification; Mrs. R. H. Westerfield, publicity; Mrs. C. H. Pendleton, junior division; Mrs. Verne Templer, conservation display; Mrs. Ralph Foster, birds; Mrs. R. D. Lamb, educational exhibits; Mrs. Clarence Mathews, judges and awards; Mrs. Frances Thompson, hospitality; Mrs. W. A. Polenz, door prizes; Mrs. W. K. Harnden, plant sale, and Mrs. E. N. Terrell, merchant's noon luncheon, P.M.

Past Supervisor Of Toastmistress Club Is Guest

Mrs. A. I. Prugh, immediate past regional supervisor of the North West region, was a guest of the Medford Toastmistress club May 23rd. Mrs. Prugh and family recently moved to Medford from Coos Bay.

Mrs. Thomas Lorenz was toastmistress for the evening. A debate was held on the topic "Be it resolved that a woman would make a good president of the United States." Affirmative speakers were Mrs. Claude Goodwin and Mrs. C. A. Thatcher. Negative speakers were Mrs. James L. Beams and Mrs. Elmer Ness.

Speech evaluator was Mrs. J. D. Brummond and program evaluator was Mrs. C. A. Thatcher.

Mrs. Wes Pearson was a guest. Mrs. Pearson was a former member of the Boise, Idaho Toastmistress club.

Saturday, June 9, is the date of a council meeting at the home of Mrs. Ruth Roush in Grants Pass. The meeting will begin at 4 p.m. and a potluck dinner will be held at 6 p.m. "Sparkling Programs" will be the theme.

Kansas Family Visits Ashland

Ashland - Mrs. Ray Guise, 109 High street, returned Friday from Kansas where she has spent the past several months. Accompanying her were her sisters, Mrs. Doris Williams, Wakefield, Kan., Mrs. Lulu Fowler, White City, Kan., and Mr. and Mrs. August Young, Bala, Kan.

All were guests at the homes of Mr. and Mrs. Guise and their mother, Mrs. Laura Chamberlain, and sisters, Miss Nora Chamberlain, and Mrs. Charles Gosha and her husband, 131 Church street.

The Kansas guests have been to Crater lake and the Oregon coast since their arrival. Mr. and Mrs. Young expect to return home this week but Mrs. Williams and Mrs. Fowler will remain for most of the summer.

In Ashland

Ashland - Guests this week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elmon Wilson, 822 Harmony lane, have been Mr. Wilson's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Scott, Long Beach, Calif., who stopped in Ashland on their way to the Century 21 exposition in Seattle.

Former Teacher And Pupil Meet After 50 Years

Central Point - Back in the early 1900's, J. W. Shirley taught school in Crawfordville, Ore., and one of his pupils was John Green. Mr. Shirley left Crawfordville in 1909, and John Green dropped out of his life.

Last Saturday the Central Point man, who lives at 247 South Second street, had some callers. One turned out to be his former pupil, now an engineer living in southern California. The two had not met in more than 50 years.

Reminiscing with Mr. Green and his brother, Ralph, who lives on Wagner Creek road out of Talent, the men recalled early school days and the host took from his library shelves a book which John Green had helped to make when he was in the fourth grade, and Mr. Shirley was his teacher.

Officials preparing for the Lewis and Clark Exposition, in Portland, asked the school children and teachers of Oregon to submit material compiled from their daily school work for one of the exposition exhibits. Principal Shirley's classes did so, and John Green was one of those who helped put together the samples of writing, arithmetic and other classroom lessons.

Talking about the visit last Saturday, Mr. Shirley reported that Mr. Green spent about an hour going over the pages and recalling classroom incidents. They remembered that the superintendent of Linn county schools at that time was William L. Jackson, father of Glenn L. Jackson of Medford.

The visitor, who was in Jackson county to spend some time with his brother and sister-in-law, returned south over the week end. In his capacity as an engineer, he helped to build the famous bridge across San Francisco bay.

Banquet Held By Teachers

Ashland - More than a hundred members of the Ashland Education association attended the closing meeting and banquet held May 24 in the junior high school cafeteria.

A musical program was presented by a teacher quartet composed of Frank Koch, Vyman Pruitt, Pierre Roberts and Noel Deets. At its conclusion a business session was conducted by Paul Wright, retiring president, and new officers were installed.

David Deller, junior high school science teacher, becomes the new president. Others elected to office were: Mrs. Lucy Sue, vice president; Noel Deets, secretary; Mrs. David Deller, treasurer. The installation ceremonies were conducted by Mrs. Maxine Smith of Medford, a past president of the Oregon Education association.

Astronaut Hairdo Is Latest

United Press International - The "grass" skirt made of materials other than the original promise to be a popular item for beachwear this summer. Or, for that matter, for other leisure-hour occasions.

One copy of the Polynesian skirt is made of grass-like strings of polyethylene and is adjustable to any size. The skirt can be trimmed to the desired length with a pair of scissors, and adjusted to any waist size by moving the fastener to one of the series of loops built into the waistband. The synthetic skirt comes in grass green, turquoise, straw, and black and white.

The other skirt, called hula-gam, is fashioned from layers on layers of ribbon-narrow strips of cotton cut with pinkish sheers from old bed sheets and dyed into a multitude of colors. These are sewn onto a dyed cotton waistband which ties.

Its originators suggest the hula-gam for wear at the beach or over slim jim pants for patio entertaining.

It was bound to happen - the astronaut hairdo. No, not a crew cut for men, but an airy, high-piled coiffure for women. The style comes from Joseph Sano, New York hair stylist for the Hair Fashion Council of America. The sides of the coiffure are lifted upward, while the top locks across the crown of the head. The back is a swirl of waves.

Something new in infants' wear promises a longer wearing span as the child grows. It is called an "extenderall," of dacron and cotton poplin, which is a one-piece garment much like a coverall. It "grows" as the infant grows, because of a rollover tuck above the waistline which can be expanded. The manufacturer said the garment comes with a button lining which can be removed for warm weather wear.

Student From Africa Is Ashland Prom Queen

Ashland - Britt Student Union on Southern Oregon college campus was transformed into a southern plantation scene for the Ashland

High school junior-senior prom Saturday night. In a setting of blossoms and golden lights against a striking rural background, Miss Yvonne Nicolson of Pretoria, South Africa, was crowned 1962 prom queen.

Installation Is Held By Honor Group

Epsilon chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma, international honor society for women teachers, held installation of officers at a recent luncheon at Tally Ho restaurant, Talent. Installed were Mrs. Keith Woodward, president; Mrs. Elsie Turner, first vice-president; Mrs. Edwin Gebhard, second vice-president; Miss Dorothy Dymock, corresponding secretary; Miss Marie Prescott, recording secretary; Miss Vida Scripser, treasurer; Miss Annette Gray, parliamentarian.

Mrs. Melvin Ottis, first vice-president of the state chapter, conducted the ceremony. Mrs. Oscar Bjorlie and Miss Florence Allen sang a duet, accompanied by Mrs. Alice Willits.

Tables were decorated with peonies and golden iris, emphasizing the sorority's colors. Favours were in the form of rockets.

Hostesses for the event were Mrs. Doris Lassen, Miss Allen, Mrs. Floyd Taylor and Miss Prescott. Mrs. Bjorlie led the saying of grace and Miss Gladys Owen, president, conducted a business session.

Reports of the recent state convention, held in Roseburg, were given by Mrs. Willits. Mrs. Turner, Miss Anna Laura Honts, Mrs. Virginia Wait, Mrs. Esther Fliegel, Mrs. W. E. Holmes, Mrs. Melvin Ottis and Miss Owen.

Couples Attend Azalea Festival

Ashland - Dr. and Mrs. Walter Redford, 427 Palm avenue, and Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Maus, 1050 Park street, spent the week end in Brookings attending the annual Azalea festival.

Another Ashlander at the Brookings celebration was Earle M. Swift, 1349 South Tolman Creek road, who drove his Model T Ford to the coast city to participate in the parade as a member of the Old Timers club. His antique car was one of seven featured in the festival ceremonies.

Nursing School Is Surveyed

The annual survey of the Southern Oregon School of Practical Nursing was conducted recently by Miss Virginia Hildebrand, R.N., assistant executive secretary of the Oregon State Board of Nursing, and Miss Margaret Simpson, R.N., supervisor of practical nursing in the Oregon Department of Education.

Conferences were held with the administrators of the Medford school district, the Rogue Valley Memorial hospital, and the Jackson County Farm Home. The nurses visited the class room and clinical facilities at Rogue Valley hospital, as well as the clinical facilities at the County Home.

Last year's graduates from the practical nursing school were in the upper percentage of the state board licensing examination, with two of the students earning the highest scores in the state.

Applications are being accepted for the next year's class. Anyone wishing further information regarding the practical nurse training program may contact the adult education office of the Medford High school, call 773-7220.

College Honors Linda Miller

A release from California State Polytechnic college in San Luis Obispo states that Linda R. Miller, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Miller, 322 South Riverside avenue, is one of the students cited for outstanding scholastic achievement for the 1961-62 academic winter quarter.

Miss Miller, a graduate of Medford High school, is a sophomore in electronic engineering and last year won a scholarship in that field, the first woman ever to do so at the college. She will work this summer at an electronics plant in El Segundo, Calif., and has been assigned to calculator department. In September the student will be home briefly on a vacation, and later that month will return south to school for her junior year.

While on vacation, Miss Miller and her parents plan to travel north to Tacoma and Seattle to visit relatives and attend the Seattle World Fair.

Reunion Planners To Meet Tonight

Chairmen of committees planning the reunion which the 1947 graduating class of Medford High school will hold in June will hold the final meeting tonight. It is set for 8 p.m. at the home of Richard L. Henselman, 2108 Woodlawn drive.

The reunion is set for June 30.

Any member of the class is welcome to attend the meeting tonight.

There was laughter—pretty wry, though, among our group at the Philadelphia orchestra concert in Eugene Sunday when a spokesman for the Eugene Civic Music association gave a little talk about how great is the need in that city for a civic auditorium. For what he was saying is exactly what is being said here. A city the size of Eugene—or Medford—should have a proper auditorium in which programs of music, drama and dancing can be presented.

It should be large enough to care for present and immediate future needs, it should have a suitable stage and accommodations for musicians and performers, and it should have reasonably comfortable seats for those in the audience. Very important, too—it should be planned and constructed so that the audience can hear, with as little distortion as possible, the voices and the music from the stage.

There are other necessities and niceties, of course, but these are the ones which first come to mind. The spokesman in Eugene Sunday said committees have prepared facts and figures, after months of work, and he gave the impression that the Eugene project has a good start. We hope so—we also hope that Medford will do likewise.

Half a loaf, of course, is better than none and although the Eugene Civic association speaker apologized for the fact that McArthur court is not the best place in the world for a concert, it is better than not having the concert. To watch Eugene Ormandy conduct his 120-piece symphonic orchestra, and to hear the glorious music which the combination produces, is an unforgettable experience.

Just before leaving Eugene our group walked past the court en route to the car. Two huge motor vans were being loaded with music instruments and equipment—and believe it or not, that equipment included baseballs and bats. A heap of the bats and balls were on the sidewalk, along with huge cases for the big bass viol, etc.

We had heard that the men of the Philadelphia orchestra play ball for recreation and exercise and the sight of the bats recalled a little story we heard over the radio last week. The announcer said that the Philadelphia orchestra, in Seattle to play for the World Fair audiences, had also played ball with a group of Seattle musicians as opponents.

"Who played first base?" asked the announcer. And then he answered himself. "Why, the first bass player, of course." O.S.

Bell Choir To Present Concert Here on June 2

The world's largest bell choir system, with 105 English handbells at their command, will present a concert in Medford Methodist church, 607 West Main street, Saturday evening, June 2, at 8 p.m.

The Cathedral Bell choir of Boise Methodist cathedral of the Rockies of Boise, Idaho, presents a spectacular sight and sound event unequalled in spirit-lifting entertainment, it is said.

The Cathedral Bell choir has performed on both CBS and NBC television, and before many large audiences in the West. Their 33 1/3 record, "Moments of Inspiration," has had a large sale. The choir will present Memorial day concerts at the Seattle World Fair.

David A. Wehr, Cathedral music director, is the author of the bell choir music volume "Bellstrations," and he and his wife have been pioneers in the bell choir movement across the nation. The earliest bell choir system was the inspiration of Dr. Herbert E. Richards, Methodist Cathedral minister in Boise, and the choir travels under the auspices of Inspiration, Inc., a
