

Medford, CP Legion Teams Vie Tonight

Medford American Legion junior baseball aggregation makes its season debut this evening.

Opposing the Medfords will be the Central Point Cheney Studs. Game time is set for 7:30 p.m. and Memorial field, White City, will be the scene of action.

The tussle will be the second of the season for the Studs who on Wednesday defeated Grants Pass 9 to 5. Medford and Central Point are members of the southern division of Area 4 but tonight's game will be a non-countdown.

Players from the Medford high school varsity baseball team will predominate in the Legion lineup. Coach Cliff McLean has listed the following probable lineup in likely batting order:

McLean reported a turnout of 22 players. Among others on hand are Scott Eaton, first base and outfield; Jack Forde and Larry Sander, pitchers; Ken Phipps, catcher, and Bill Enyart and Jim Hill, who are being groomed as pitchers.

Eaton has been a trackman at Medford high. He was with the Legion nine late last season after recuperating from a broken ankle. He played in past summers with the Central Point Crater Cubs. Forde and Sander saw some varsity pitching service for the Black Tornado and Phipps was jayvee catcher. Hill was on the MHS varsity track squad this spring. Enyart is up from McLoughlin Junior high where there is no baseball program.

For Central Point, Coach and Manager Bill Askwith has named Larry Mason starting pitcher. Gary Burns and Pat Pepper also may see hill service.

Studs Lineup

Central Point will play at Roseburg on Sunday in a non-league twinbill. Roseburg will meet Central Point on White City on Wednesday. Medford has no further action slated until another tussle with Central Point next Friday.

Asland is to go to Grants Pass this Sunday for a division starter.

Lage Takes 1st In Drag Class

Medford powerboat racer, Howard Lage and Lon Skinner, will race this week end at Lake Spanaway at Tacoma, Wash.

Lage took first place in the SK class in Memorial day boat drags held on the Willamette river at Portland. The races were sponsored by Cascade Inboard Racing association and Oaks Amusement park.

Skinner was eliminated from competition when his engine overheated because of a blocked water passage.

THIRD FOR MEDFORD—Dick Deffley, above, is slated for third base duty tonight for Medford against Central Point in an American Legion junior baseball tangle set for 7:30 o'clock at Memorial field, White City. Deffley was the leading hitter for Medford this spring with a .333 average.

PAT BARRON Pitches For Maids

Dairy Maids Tussle Salem on Saturday

Rogue Valley Dairy Maids and the Salem Shamrocks, who "left off" in the 1961 Oregon state softball tourney here, "take up" again on Saturday night.

The two strong women's softball teams clash at Memorial field, White City, in the Northwest Women's Major Softball league. A doubleheader is planned with the first game about 7 p.m.

Caliber of the two clubs is shown by the fact that the women's state crown has been worn by either one or the other of the two teams during the past four seasons. The Maids were champs in 1958 and 1961. Salem won the state tourney in 1959 and 1960. Rogue Valley was northwest regional tournament runner-up last year.

The Maids wrested the mantle from the Shamrocks last year by winning two of three games against them in the double elimination tourney. RV took the first game 2 to 1 and Salem the second 1 to 0. Then in the deciding contest, which went a marathon 14 innings, the Maids nipped the Capital city crew 1 to 0.

Personnel of the Shamrocks, as is the Maids, is expected to be much the same as it has been. Pearl Pinion, ex-Lind Florist pitcher, is still with the Salem crew. Fern Wilgus, formerly with the American Linen team of Portland, has been added.

Pat Barron and Ellen Callaghan are the probable pitchers for the Dairy Maids who are under the sponsorship of Coordinated Milk Sales.

Original plans were for Salem and Rogue Valley to play single games Saturday night and Sunday afternoon. The doubleheader was set up at the request of the Shamrocks. They reportedly have lost their sponsor and do not wish to make an overnight stay.

Grants Pass, from Josephine county, moved to the top of the standings last night, as the lone unbeaten team in the Jackson County Softball association.

The Climate city club, victor in three tilts, bounced Keith Schulz garage 7 to 3. It was the first loss in five loop games for the Garage-men. Butte Falls thumped Communications Workers of America 13 to 1 in last night's other league brush. It was the first victory in three frays for Butte Falls. CWA is winless in four.

A five-run sixth panel turned the trick for Grants Pass. Frank Morrison, George Stavros and Bill Ferguson each had two hits for GP and John Browns chucked fourth ball, walking one and striking out five.

Mort McIntyre got two of the Schultz hits, with one a homer, and scored all three runs. KSG pitcher Don Cain allowed nine hits and two walks. He struck out one.

Woods, Water, Wildlife

By Hank DeVoss

There are a fair number of frustrated anglers in the state who wish they had picked some spot other than Diamond lake for a season starter. Not only were the fish in an uncooperative mood, but the air was filled with bugs that crawled any place that was crawlable, including the mouth, nose and ears. The opening week end was so unpleasant and unproductive that there were less than two dozen boats on the lake by Monday.

Why weren't the fish in a biting mood as is customary on opening day? (No, Sorehead, it wasn't because the game commission fed the fish on Wednesday or Thursday). According to reports from those who were at the lake during the week preceding opening day, a hatch of midges came out on Wednesday and started the fish on a feeding spree that lasted until Friday night. By Saturday morning the fish definitely were not in a taking mood, and it was a lucky angler who had a strike or a fish. It is estimated that about 300 fish were taken, but other estimates place the catch at much less than that. Other factors that may have had some influence would be the coldness of the water and the accompanying delay in the beginning of the spawning cycle.

BUGS, BUGS, BUGS

For the information of those who were impressed with the tremendous numbers of midges that spoiled all that is left when the fishing is lousy, this insect is also called "mosquito killer" because of its activities during its very short life span. This is an aquatic insect in that it spends the first part of its life on the bottom of the lake. It is then in larval form and eventually rises to the surface, "hatches" into a winged insect, lives a life of very few hours, lays its eggs and dies.

KAMLOOPS ARE OUT

The game commission has decided that its experiment with the kamloops trout in Diamond is not providing the fishery expected. It appears that the water stays too cold and the fish spawn too late in the season. This year the commission is beginning a program of stocking Diamond with another species of rainbow trout. This is a fall spawning rainbow that it is hoped will fill the gap left by the spawning period of the kamloops. An initial plant of 500,000 will be made this year, 150,000 of which are already in the lake. There is no doubt that Diamond is one of the richest

Judo Will Be Demonstrated To Sportsmen

Medford Judo academy will give a demonstration Monday, June 4, at the regular meeting of Oregon Sportsman Club of Jackson County.

The meeting is set for 8 p.m. at Girls Community club. Demonstration is slated for 9 p.m. Jack L. Wheeler will lecture on "the mental attitude of the judo practitioner."

Main business of the meeting will be discussion of the Oregon state commission proposal to increase license fees for hunting and fishing. Officials of the club maintain that the matter is one of vital importance for all persons interested in outdoor recreation.

Among the proposals is a boost of the combination license from $7.50 to $11.50. The public is invited to both the meeting and demonstration.

Fish Lake—Very good with many limits taken in a short time. The road has been rough, but is supposed to be graded for the week end. Rainbow over two pounds in weight are being taken.

Mr. Pelton of Hollywood plucked out an 18-inch trout weighed in at 2 1/2 pounds. She was trolling a FF&W. Still fishing with eggs or worms is taking most of the fish.

Howa Prairie—is so consistent in providing a good day's fishing that it is the same story every week. Some anglers report picking up half a limit trolling from the dock out to where they wanted to start fishing. Bank fishing is slower than boat fishing, but plenty of fish are being taken. Trolling a 37 is the best.

Hyatt Lake—This little surprise is putting out some of the nicest fish around. They are averaging 12 to 15 inches with 18 inches showing up every once in a while. Standard gear has been doing quite well, but limits are for those who can improvise when the fish get choosy. Woolly worms are taking some nice fish.

Lemola Lake—Has been giving up the usual quota of rainbow, brown and brook trout. Trolling or stillfishing will catch fish in Squaw Lakes—The road is in good shape. The catfishing is tops. Trout fishing is fair with fish averaging 10 inches. Cluster eggs of the bank for trout, or trolling a FF&W does the job. The water is warming up and some hardy souls are trying out the swimming already.

Willow Lake—Plenty of limits still being taken. Wednesday saw a rainbow of over two pounds taken.

Applegate River—Lots of action for hatchery size fish. This is easy to do with flies or single eggs.

Klamath River—The salmon fly hatch is out and things are boiling on the Oregon side.

Rogue River—Trout are being fairly cooperative with even a few cutthroat showing up. The salmon haven't been too easily taken with quite a few anglers holding up the average of 50 hours to catch a fish.

THE OPTIMIST'S CORNER

If the present experiments being carried out by the state of California and Pacific Power and Light on the Klamath river are successful, there ought to be one big fishing hole from Irongate dam down to the mouth of the river. Let's hope so.

GOOD LUCK!
