Dedication of New Church Is Slated; Services Planned

Dedication services of First Church of Christ, Scientist, Medford, will be held Sunday, June 10, in the church edifice at 100 Windsor ave. Two services will be held, one at the regular church hour of 11 a.m. and one at 4 p.m. The services will be identical, and will follow the established order of Christian Science services, with the addition that a brief synopsis of the church history will be read. The public is invited to attend the services. The first Christian Science services in Medford were held in May, 1906, in the music studio of a member of The Mother church, with six persons present. Informal services continued to be held from that date until Sept. 14, 1908, when Christian Science Society of Medford was organized with 19 charter members and a Sunday School was instituted. Meetings were held in various locations as attendance increased and in September, 1909, two lots on North Oakdale ave. were purchased and a church building fund was started.

In January, 1911, the society received a charter from the state, incorporated as First Church of Christ, Scientist, of Medford, and was recognized as a branch of The Mother church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist in Boston, Mass. Meantime, the church building had been completed, and Jan. 15, 1911, the first service was held in the new church. A Reading Room was opened on Jan. 27, 1911, and has continued to serve the community since that time, being now located at 228 West Sixth st. The church edifice was dedicated, debt-free, in May, 1912. It is always a re-

Telephone Official Discusses Satellites

"The infiniteness of outer space cannot be bridged even in wildest dreams," C. E. Seavey, public demonstration supervisor for Pacific Northwest Bell said in a luncheon address here Tuesday. "We have seen in our own generation greater progress in technology and science than has been made since the stone age," Seavey told members of the Medford Rotary club at the Rogue Valley Country club. "Despite recent achievements we haven't seen anything yet," he predicted.

Seavey, who has made five trips to the Bell Laboratories in recent months and has made extensive studies in new techniques in the telephone field, pointed out that the U.S. has placed 76 satellites, 48 of these are still circling the globe and 36 still send signals.

Russia, on the other hand, has sent but 16 satellites in orbit, only three still remain there and none are "active." An actual size "Vanguard" was shown. Actual recordings of the initial Russian Sputnik and the U.S. Explorer and Vanguard satellites were played by Seavey for Rotarians. Among the revelations of the orbiting satellites is the knowledge that the world is pear-shaped, the speaker said.

A new satellite developed by the telephone industry will make possible world-wide television and telephone dialing. Because of the new avenues for longer long-distance, the new seven digit numbers have been adopted and area code numbers introduced, the Pacific Northwest Bell official said.
