Party Loaves Suggested For Receptions at Home

By JEANNE LESEM
United Press International
New York - (UPI) - For a small wedding reception at home, few things are easier to prepare or prettier to serve than party loaves. They are cake-style sandwiches, made from whole loaves of bread, sliced horizontally and frosted with cheese, cheese spread, meringue or gelatin.

Here are toppings suggested by the consumer service department of the American Institute of Baking, Chicago. Use any fillings that taste good with the frostings. These could be shrimp or tuna salad, sliced ham, sliced turkey or chicken. Slice and serve for knife and fork eating.

—Beat cottage cheese smooth, thin slightly with lemon juice. Sprinkle frosted loaf with paprika and garnish with silver shot. Or combine cottage cheese with lots of flaked or grated coconut and a few chopped maraschino cherries, thin with dairy sour cream and enough maraschino cherry juice to give a pink tint. Make the flower design garnish with long stems of chives or green onion tops for leaves, mounds of tinted coconut for flowers with colored gumdrop centers.

—Make meringue topping by beating egg whites until stiff. Fold in a dash of salt and enough mayonnaise for creamy lightness. At serving time, brown frosted loaf 10 minutes in preheated 350-degree oven.

—Cream cheese frostings: add a dash of salt and enough sugar to sweeten cheese lightly. Thin to spreading consistency with milk. Add chopped black walnuts and garnish with carrot curls and watercress. Or combine cream cheese with strained cranberry sauce and whip until smooth. For sweeter frosting, mix cream cheese with equal parts of honey and drained, crushed pineapple.

—Give a personalized touch by thinning cream cheese with dairy sour cream and decorating the frosting with arrows, hearts and initials of red piping jelly.

—Cheese spread frostings: Soften pineapple cheese spread with milk and a dash of bitters, and tint with food color pastels. Or soften with dairy sour cream, and season with salt, liquid red pepper seasoning and nutmeg.

Jellied Loaves
—Jellied loaves are made with conventional sandwiches of four layers with bread crusts removed. For gelatin coating, dissolve packaged lime or lemon flavored gelatin in boiling water, using half the amount the package directs. As lime gelatin cools, add sieved cottage cheese and a generous amount of mayonnaise, a few drops of green food coloring and a little lemon juice. Or blend a generous amount of cream cheese softened with evaporated milk into slightly thickened lemon gelatin.

Pour some of either partly-thickened mixture into bottom of a loaf pan. Top with two four-layer sandwiches, center in pan with a small space left around edges. When gelatin base is almost firm, pour over remaining gelatin mixture to fill in sides and cover top. Chill until firm. Unmold by running a spatula around edge of pan.

—Beat cottage cheese smooth, thin slightly with lemon juice. Sprinkle frosted loaf with paprika and garnish with silver shot. Or combine cottage cheese with lots of flaked or grated coconut and a few chopped maraschino cherries, thin with dairy sour cream and enough maraschino cherry juice to give a pink tint. Make the flower design garnish with long stems of chives or green onion tops for leaves, mounds of tinted coconut for flowers with colored gumdrop centers.

—Make meringue topping by beating egg whites until stiff. Fold in a dash of salt and enough mayonnaise for creamy lightness. At serving time, brown frosted loaf 10 minutes in preheated 350-degree oven.

Dancer To Be at UO

Eugene - One of the leading figures in American contemporary dance, Merce Cunningham, will be an artist-in-residence on the University of Oregon campus this summer under the 1962 Summer Academy of Contemporary Arts program.

Mr. Cunningham will give instructions and lectures in contemporary dance during a two-week period of the Academy from June 18 to 29.

A Westerner by birth and early education, Mr. Cunningham was with the Martha Graham dance company from 1938 to 1947. He formed his own company in 1952 and in collaboration with John Cage, pianist - composer, has produced exciting experimental work. He has been described by Time magazine as "the most consistently daring experimenter in the field."

Solo work, beginning in 1947, has taken this dancer from New York across the nation in numerous appearances. The most recent of these was in the Phoenix theater in New York, an appearance which received enthusiastic notices.

In 1960, with Carolyn Brown, dancer, and musicians John Cage and David Tudor, he made appearances at the International Festival of Contemporary Art in Venice and the West Berlin festival.

In 1961, Mr. Cunningham received the Dance Magazine award for outstanding achievement.

The dancer, in addition to his performances, has taught classes, given lecture-demonstrations, and has published a number of articles on dance choreography.

Climax of his two-week session in the Summer academy, will be a public dance recital. The date of the recital will be announced later.

The Summer academy will offer, in addition to the session on dance, sessions on drama, poetry, music, and design, all featuring outstanding contemporary leaders.

A common saying in this country is that one-half of the population never knows how the other half lives. So, Potpourri wasn't too surprised to discover during the recent convention of Odd Fellows and Rebekahs that quite a few Medford residents didn't know anything about those lodges, nor to discover yesterday that others had never heard of Red Men and Pocahontas lodges.

Probably Mrs. James Wicker anticipated the latter, because several weeks ago she sent Potpourri a little folder with information about the Improved Order of Red Men.

The little leaflet points out that the Order is America's oldest patriotic and fraternal order; it was founded by patriots in 1776, is non-sectarian, national in scope and the only fraternal organization operating under a charter granted by the Congress of the United States.

It also says that "the Improved Order of Red Men administers no oaths nor does it bind you to any religious or political creed. As you entered the Tribe so you depart, a free man."

This explanation of the founding is given: "The early patriots, who founded the Sons of Liberty in Colonial times, never knew what real American liberty was, they having lived under kings all their lives and having had no vote or voice in some of the most important matters pertaining to their own government."

"Their first vision of real freedom was caught from the aborigines, who roamed the forests at will, rejoicing in the unrestrained occupation of this great new world; who selected their own Schems and forms of religious worship; and who made their own laws and tribal regulations, which were few and simple, and only such as were suited to primitive tribal life."

"The white men, who came here, were continually followed up and hampered by unreasonable laws and regulations, imposed by a distant king and his local appointees, were denied the right of trial by jury and were burdened by unjust taxes. They began to chafe under their serfdom, which finally resulted in the Boston Tea Party, the Declaration of Independence and the Revolution."

"The children of the forest, having furnished the first inspiration of true liberty, and whose paint and feathers were used to escape detection by British sympathizers, it was but natural that the name of the Sons of Liberty be changed so as to suggest the true cause of its origin, hereby giving honor to whom honor was due, hence 'the Improved Order of Red Men.'" (We seem to remember our grade school history saying the men who took part in the Boston Tea Party were whites wearing Indian clothing and headdresses.)

The women's branch of this organization is known as the Degree of Pocahontas and takes its name from the celebrated Indian princess by that name. The legend of Pocahontas and the virtues of her life have been taken as a basis for the ceremony used by the lodge.

The Red Men and Pocahontas members have as objects patriotism, brotherhood, goodfellowship and mutual help. Their motto is "Freedom, Friendship, Charity."

It is understandable that the members are proud of their heritage. O. S.
