

TIME OUT—M. Scott Carpenter, one of the seven Mercury 7 astronauts, takes time out from his training to talk about Savings Bonds. The Mercury 7 model capsule and savings bond he holds are closely related. "Our explorations in space over the years will require substantial sums of money," Scott notes. "The extent and success of this program ultimately rests upon a strong and growing economy. The continued sale of savings bonds and extra sales during the Freedom bond drive, is an essential ingredient of a healthy economy. There's no better investment on earth, or perhaps in space, either, than United States Savings Bonds."

Wheat Cargoes Down From April Amounts

Salem — (UPI) — The Oregon Agriculture department said May wheat cargoes moving out of Portland to overseas markets totaled 5.3 million bushels. This was a million bushels down from April, but about a million ahead of May, 1961.

T. Ralph Berry, state grain division chief, said grain receipts in Portland from east of the Rockies totaled 818 carloads in May, up more than 100 cars over April, but down about 100 cars from May last year.

Plans were also made for an overnight ride and camp-out early this summer. No date was set.
