

Missile, Nuclear Warhead Destroyed in Unsuccessful Pacific Launch

Honolulu—UPI—U.S. scientists destroyed a Thor missile and its nuclear warhead two minutes after they were launched Tuesday night in an unsuccessful attempt to explode the highest nuclear device in history. Parts of the missile fell back onto Johnston Island and nearby Sand Island 800 miles south of Hawaii. But officials said no personnel was injured, nor was there any damage or danger of radioactivity. It was the second failure in U.S. efforts to explode a rocket-borne, high-altitude nuclear device. Plans called for it to have been detonated at between 100 and 500 miles above the earth. The nuclear warhead was in the one megaton range—equivalent to about one million tons of TNT. As in the previous high-altitude failure, June 3, scientists were able to destroy the device without causing a nuclear explosion.

Officials of Joint Task Force 8 gave no reason for Tuesday night's failure. In the June 3 attempt, the failure was attributed to a malfunction in the tracking system. Moscow Radio commented: "There are now two American nuclear bombs resting on the ocean bed, threatening shipping in the area and the health of the populations of the Pacific Ocean islands."

President Kennedy ordered the current Pacific test series three months ago, disclosing that Russia had got the jump on the West by testing nuclear weapons at an altitude of more than 100 miles.

Three or four high altitude tests had been scheduled in the Pacific. But officials did not say what effect the two failures would have on this schedule.

An official announcement from JTF8 headquarters in Hawaii said: "A Thor booster was vice was purposely destroyed without a nuclear detonation. The debris fell into the open sea well within the safety area which was previously designated. There was no danger to test personnel. There will be no danger to human life or hazardous levels of radioactivity in the ocean." The failure was nearly a duplicate of the first attempt on June 3. However, the latest one apparently was in trouble from the start and was destroyed in less than 120 seconds after launching. JTF8 had cleared out a danger area 2,342 miles wide at 40,000 feet, extending above the Hawaiian Islands, but said there would be no danger to ground-level viewers who had headed to high vantage points in Hawaii to witness the blast.

Rusk Resumes Talks With French Leaders

Paris—UPI—Secretary of State Dean Rusk conferred anew with French government leaders today amid reports that President Kennedy and President Charles de Gaulle might meet later this year to try to resolve differences between France and the United States.

Kennedy and de Gaulle might meet later this year but French officials said such speculation was "premature." The Americans said nothing had been set up yet but such a development would be a "logical" result of the talks here between Rusk and high French officials.

Tuesday and the secretary of state later said it was "most interesting." Other American officials described it as "animated and friendly."

Rusk, who conferred with de Gaulle Tuesday night, met at the Quai d'Orsay with French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville this afternoon.

Rusk and de Gaulle talked for an hour and 15 minutes between Rusk and de Gaulle. An official spokesman refused to comment, but the sources said Tuesday Katangese authorities feared such a center would be "looted within a matter of hours" because of anti-American feeling here.

Stockpile Target Claimed Juggled
Washington—UPI—A deputy director in the Office of Emergency Planning testified today that former President Dwight D. Eisenhower's defense mobilizer juggled stockpile target objectives merely to boost the price of zinc.

William N. Lawrence told Senate investigators that a four-year, $117.3 million zinc purchase program was "nothing more than a price support program."

He testified, he began in 1954 under directives issued by the former president.

In 1956, Lawrence said, Defense Mobilizer Arthur S. Fleming instructed him to find another way to hike the zinc objective when targets set under the president's directive proved insufficient.

"We changed the established procedure to set target figures in order to find a basis for continuing the procurement of zinc," Lawrence told Sen. Stuart Symington's armed services investigating subcommittee.

Symington branded Fleming's action a clear violation of the stockpile law. The stockpile law never was intended—and did not authorize—minerals purchases for the purpose of stabilizing prices, the Missouri Democrat said.

Symington asked Lawrence: "You say regardless of any defense requirements, instructions were given by Dr. Fleming to buy more zinc. Is that your testimony?"

"Yes, sir," Lawrence replied.

Probe Continues in Property Shortage
Salem—UPI—Investigation continued today into the disappearance of some $6,000 worth of property at the National Guard's Camp Withcombe in Clatsamas county.

The probe was ordered Tuesday by Gov. Mark Hatfield after an audit disclosed irregularities in the inventory.

A spokesman said items missing involve equipment and household goods left by the Navy when it shut down the Tongue Point facility near Astoria last year.

State Police Supt. H. G. Mason said his agency was "starting from scratch."

It was indicated interrogation had been launched before Tuesday's disclosure.
