113 Persons Perish In Crash of Airliner

Air France Craft Making Island Landing Approach

Authorities Find No Survivors

Pointe-R-Pitre, Guadeloupe French West Indies—An Air France 707 Boeing jetliner en route from Paris to Santiago, Chile, crashed on a mountainside on this Caribbean island today in a pre-dawn storm, killing all 113 persons aboard.

The plane was attempting to make a scheduled landing at Le Raizet Airport here but smashed into a 2,500-foot mountain slope about 17 1/2 miles west of the airport as it was making a final turn for the approach.

The French Ministry of Overseas Territories announced late today that there were no survivors among the 103 passengers, including four infants and seven other children, and 10 crew members.

The tragedy was the second fatal crash involving an Air France Boeing 707 in 19 days. On June 3 one of its 707s crashed on takeoff in Paris, killing 130 persons including many prominent persons from Atlanta, Ga.

One of the first pilots to fly over the scene of today's crash said "it will take days to find all the bodies—they are spread all over the place."

Included in the goal are funds for uncollectibles and designations to neighboring United Funds, 2.93 per cent; campaign expenses, 4.5 per cent; and year-round administration, 5.05 per cent. Gordonier pointed out that campaign and administration expenses were in the lower third of the average expense for United Funds of similar size.

Allocations for the Family and Child Guidance clinic and the Rogue Valley Council on Aging were not increased this year because their requests were the same as last year's allocation. Other member agencies were given increases ranging from $100 to $1,600.

Members of the budget committee, in addition to the chairman, Brian B. Mullen, include Robert J. Carlensen, William S. Cobb, Douglas F. Gordonier, Robert D. Hefferman, Robert S. Hinman, Lawrence S. Horton, Jack W. Mitchell, Paul R. Moore, Richard D. Nelson and William E. Offord.

Writing Career Halted

Ashland Novelist Dies of Heart Attack in Boise

Ashland—Novelist and magazine writer Verne Athanas, 44, Ashland, suffered a fatal heart attack Thursday night while serving as master of ceremonies at the Western Writers of America conference in Boise, Idaho.

Mr. Athanas was taken to a hospital after he was stricken, according to United Press International, but was dead on arrival.

The awards banquet, at which he was presiding when he collapsed, was cut short and association officials said awards would be distributed by mail.

Mr. Athanas and his wife, the former Alice Spencer, were members of the Ashland High school class of 1936 and were married that year. They have two sons, Michael and David, both Ashland.

The author of more than 100 short stories, novelettes and serials, three novels, and several motion pictures and television programs, Mr. Athanas wrote about the things he knew. Work in the Weyerhaeuser forests, life in the mountains of Oregon and an interest in pioneer history all contributed topics for his stories.

The Ashland writer, a native of Cleft, Idaho, started writing in 1946 and had articles published in such magazines as the Saturday Evening Post, Colliers, Country Gentleman, Argosy, and others. His books were "The Proud Ones," published in 1952 by Simon and Shuster; "Rogue Valley," and "Maverick."

His hobbies were hunting and fishing, and he was active in the Ashland Junior Gun club.

Hatfield Urged To Ask Thornton's Aid To Probe Shortage

Salem—State Rep. Richard Eymann (D-Mohawk) demanded today that Gov. Mark Hatfield call in Atty. Gen. Robert Y. Thornton to investigate the disappearance of an estimated $6,000 worth of property at the Oregon Military Department's Camp Wythcombe.

Eymann, in a news release, said that to do otherwise would amount to a "whitewash."

Hatfield and Thornton are the Republican and Democratic nominees for governor, respectively.

Eymann said that if Hatfield is "sincere in wanting to expose the whole truth in this scandal" he should direct Thornton to "carry out a full and proper investigation."

Under state law, the attorney general has no power to conduct a major investigation unless ordered to do so by the governor.

Thornton said he would be glad to undertake a probe if the governor requested one but said he had not talked to Hatfield about the matter.

Thornton said he had read news accounts of the Camp Wythcombe shortage but said "I have no knowledge of any of the facts surrounding it" on a first hand basis.

Thornton said that if he were ordered by the governor to investigate he would "do an impartial job."

The governor's press secretary, Travis Cross, said "the people of Oregon rest assured that the combined investigative forces of the state police and the Clackamas

Boy Friend Says Marriage Refusal Cause of Killing

Both Students From Bangkok

Corvallis—An Oregon State University coed from Thailand was slain early today and police were holding her boy friend.

The body of Suvana Pakasuta, 26, Bangkok, was found in her bed. Police said she had been stabbed to death with an eight-inch butcher knife.

Held in the city jail was Damrongrak Sirimungkla, also 26. Police said he admitted killing her because she refused to marry him.

The body was found sprawled on the blood-soaked double bed. Police said there were a dozen slashes in her body, from her leg to her neck.

Police said Sirimungkla called a friend of the girl and told her to call police. They said he was waiting for officers in the five-room apartment and showed them the body when they arrived.

Sirimungkla was quoted by police as saying the young woman was his fiancée and that they had been sweethearts in Thailand before she came to Oregon State University six months ago. He arrived here a week ago to attend school and had registered for summer classes.

The victim was a graduate student in plant physiology. Both she and Sirimungkla were graduates of Chulalongkorn University in Bangkok.

Friends said families of the two had arranged their marriage but when he arrived she refused to marry him.

Dist. Atty. Alfred Joiner said a murder charge would be filed.

Police said Sirimungkla called a friend of the girl and told her to call police. They said he was waiting for officers in the five-room apartment and showed them the body when they arrived.

Brokerage House Claims Financier Skipped Country

New York—Financier Jacques Sarlie, patron of the arts, member of cafe society and reputed associate of exiled Wall Street wizard Edward M. Gilbert, fled to Paris after a $754,770 stock market loss, it was charged Thursday.

A New York Stock brokerage house, McDonnell and company, charged in a suit filed in state Supreme court that Sarlie, 47, skipped the country June 9 or 10 to avoid payment of stock purchased in Celotex Corp. and E. L. Bruce company.

Resigns, Flees
Gilbert, president of Bruce, fled to Rio de Janeiro June 13 after resigning as the company's chief executive. He admitted to the board of directors unauthorized withdrawals of almost $2 million.

McDonnell and company attorney John E. Hoffman charged in papers filed in Supreme court that Sarlie "was an associate of Edward M. Gilbert in trying to acquire control of the Celotex corporation."

Hoffman said he was told by a doorman at Sarlie's Park ave. apartment the Dutch-born bachelor playboy had left for the airport during the week end of June 9 with "a large amount of luggage."

The court suit said Sarlie had not paid for 17,800 shares of E. L. Bruce stock and 11,700 shares of Celotex stock.

$167,683 Goal Set For United Crusade In Jackson County

A goal of $167,683 has been set for the full United Crusade campaign, according to Douglas F. Gordonier, Crusade president.

This year's goal is $9,558 higher than last year's goal of $158,125, a 6 per cent increase. Last year's goal was over-subscribed by 2 per cent. Crusade officials noted.

Gordonier said the campaign goal does not meet agency requests by $23,602 this year. Last year's difference between agency requests and United Crusade allocations totaled $21,362.

It was pointed out that the needs, as seen by an agency, are almost always in advance of the public's willingness to support such services. Agency services, and therefore their needs, vary each year; it is an unusual agency executive who cannot foresee service needs that should be provided, Gordonier said.

Realistically, the goal is a compromise between the amounts that the agencies can spend wisely and the amount that the Crusade believes can be raised. The goal is set higher than might be comfortably raised, but not too high as to make it impossible of attainment, he said.

During the last nine years, the Crusade has increased its goal at an average of 6.6 per cent annually, or 59.4 per cent over the entire period. This compares with the 60.5 per cent average increase of all United Funds and Community Chests nationwide.

Brian B. Mullen, budget committee head, said allocations are Red Cross, $25,900; Arthritis and Rheumatism foundation, $1,300; Boy Scouts, $20,500; Camp Fire Girls, $5,100; Jackson County Family and Child Guidance clinic, $6,000; Girl Scouts, $12,270; Mental Health association, $1,200; Oregon Medi-

Restaurant Owner Is Found Innocent

Stanley Smith, owner of Cubby's Drive-In restaurant, 1273 South Riverside ave., was found innocent of a disorderly conduct charge in Medford municipal court this morning.

Smith also was charged with assault and battery. Municipal Court Judge Joseph Fliegel Jr., announced he "will take the evidence under consideration" on the assault charge and render judgment at a later date.

The restaurant proprietor had been accused of striking a 20-year-old Central Point youth, Charles B. LaCasse, during an argument at the drive-in May 24.

Witnesses this morning testified that Smith did strike LaCasse, but that the youth had first reached out and grabbed Smith's arm as he attempted to walk away in an effort to end the argument.

Smith was reportedly angered by LaCasse who, according to some witnesses, drove his car through the drive-in parking lot at an excessive speed and screeched his tires.

LaCasse had also charged that Smith used vile and obscene language toward him.

Order Places Fees In General Fund

The Jackson county court this morning signed an order placing all boat license fees and fines in the county's general fund.

The money will be used for enforcement of the Oregon marine boat law. County Judge Earl Miller pointed out. However, according to law, the county cannot use the money in budgetary form if it is kept in a special fund.

The order rescinds one of July 5, 1961, placing the license fees and fines in a special boating law enforcement fund.

The county budget committee budgeted anticipated funds from boat licenses and fines for hiring additional sheriff's deputies to enforce the boating laws in the 1962-63 fiscal year budget.

City Zone Changes Considered in GP

Grants Pass—Members of the Grants Pass city council will meet with planning commissioners next Wednesday to consider several possible changes in a proposed comprehensive zoning ordinance for the city.

Councilmen arranged to meet with the planning commission after listening to protests against the zoning ordinance from residents at a public hearing Wednesday.

Chief protest came from property owners along Sixth st. at the north end of the city. They presented petitions representing virtually 100 per cent of the owners involved protesting rezoning of the area as tourist-residential.

The area at present is zoned for commercial use. The council decided to ask planning commissioners to consider removing the term "residential" from the tourist-residential designation and subsequently broadening usage in the zone to include more commercial and recreational developments.

The tourist-residential zone as presently envisioned would restrict commercial developments to those directly connected with the tourist trade.

Maritime Unions Reach Agreement To End Dispute

San Francisco—The Pacific Maritime association and three seafaring unions reached an agreement Thursday night which averted the threat of a renewed West Coast maritime strike.

The agreement, subject to ratification by the union membership and the 12 shipping companies represented by the PMA, is retroactive to Oct. 1, 1961, and extends until June 15, 1963.

It climaxed nine months of stormy negotiations, a 26-day strike which paralyzed West Coast shipping, the declaration of a state of emergency in Hawaii, and the invocation of a Taft-Hartley act in injunction by President Kennedy.

The unexpected announcement was made jointly by chief union negotiator Morris Weisberger, PMA President Paul St. Sure, Deputy Federal Mediation Service Director Robert Moore, and special presidential emissary James Healy.

It called for a 2 per cent across-the-board wage increase and an extension of vacation allowances during the first year, an increase in pension allowances in the second year, and an extension of work rule provisions in the third year.

Grants Pass Tax Rate Will Go Down
Grants Pass—the tax rate in Grants Pass will go down somewhat next year.

The Grants Pass city council Wednesday night adopted a 1962-63 budget calling for a total tax levy of $236,923, about $45,000 less than last year's levy.

Reason for the reduction, City Manager Roy Eames explained, is the discontinuation of a levy for drainage improvements. The levy had been in effect for 10 years, but in a proposal to extend it was defeated by the voters here last week.

Adoption of the budget Wednesday followed a public hearing at which no protests were voiced.

District 6 Awards Bid for Lighting

Central Point—The district 6 school board awarded a bid for lighting the Crater High school stadium Thursday night, but deferred awarding the construction bid of the stadium itself pending negotiations with two firms.

Bids by two Central Point firms on the construction job were so close the board decided to meet with representatives of the respective companies at 8 p.m. Monday and negotiate with them further.

The two low bidding firms were Petrehn and Purdy Construction company and R and M Construction, both of Central Point. Also bidding on construction of the stadium was Ausland Construction of Grants Pass.

Low bidder on lighting was Enloe Electric of Talent. Other bidders were Steeck Electric and Trowbridge Electric, both of Medford.

The firms bid on two different types of fixtures. The school board has yet to decide which type it will order.
