Dutch Military Forces Attack Indonesians

Bombers Strafe Paratroopers

Hollandia, Dutch New Guinea — (UPI) — Dutch military forces struck on the ground and in the air today against freshly landed Indonesian paratroopers in the flat grasslands 15 miles from the Australian half of New Guinea. Military spokesmen reported that Dutch air force Neptune patrol bombers strafed the invaders who air-dropped north of Merauke in a pre-dawn operation Sunday. Dutch marines and army troops moved in to engage the invaders.

There was no immediate report on casualties.

In Defense Positions

Reconnaissance pilots reported an estimated 200 paratroopers were air-dropped from American-built Hercules troop transports. They said the invaders were concentrated in defense positions north of Merauke, which lies on the south coast.

Discarded parachutes indicated that the new air drop included artillery and Jeeps, the pilots reported.

Merauke was the operations center in the search for New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller's son, Michael, who was lost off New Guinea last year.

The town in which Rockefeller stayed during the unsuccessful search is now the temporary military headquarters.

In The Hague, the Dutch government instructed Ambassador J. H. Van Royen in Washington to ask urgent advice from the State Department on how to handle the Indonesian attack. The cabinet also debated whether to bring the situation before the UN Security Council.

Man Jailed for Theft; Clerk Hurt

Central Point — Central Point police jailed a Medford man Saturday night in connection with the theft of a lawnmower from a Central Point market, and before the night was over a clerk at the market was cut on the head by an ash tray, and fixtures at the city jail were considerably damaged.

The series of incidents began when Martin Gates of Thrift Market, 126 East Pine st., spotted Clarence Edward Self, 38, of 1730 1/2 North Riverside ave., Medford, in the market at 7:20 p.m. Saturday.

Gates believed Self was responsible for taking a lawnmower, valued at $129.95, from the store 20 minutes earlier, and he ordered his employees to apprehend the man.

Before Self was subdued, a clerk at the market, Clayton R. Brown, 1746 Upton rd., was struck on the head by an ash tray, which severely cut him, police said. Brown was treated at Crater Osteopathic hospital.

Police arrested Self on a charge of assault and battery and lodged him in the city jail. Later Central Point officers said he caused considerable damage to jail plumbing fixtures and bedding.

In addition to the assault and battery charge, police said that Gates is expected to sign a larceny complaint against Self.

The missing lawnmower was recovered at another Central Point residence.

Terrorist Bombs Level Storage Tanks in Oran

'Scorched Earth' Policy Continues Despite Talks

Flames Spread To Warehouses

Algiers, Algeria — (UPI) — The European Secret Army Organization blew up a string of fuel tanks on the Oran waterfront today, starting a mammoth fire that threatened the rest of the western port city. At least seven big storage tanks blew up with a roar early this evening as fires from 30 earlier OAS bomb attacks were still raging in some places.

The bombings, part of a last-ditch "scorched earth" campaign of OAS sabotage in the Oran area, continued despite reports of negotiations between the OAS command and Algerian Nationalist representatives.

Flames Spread Quickly

Panic started in the European city and hundreds of persons rushed into the streets as the storage tanks went up in bursts of flames and black smoke that belched as high as the 1,000-foot Santa Cruz Mountain dominating the city.

The flames spread quickly to warehouses near the tanks, which belonged to petroleum companies exploiting Sahara oil.

Dockworkers in the northeast section of the port were evacuated from the scene and ships tied up in the immediate region scrambled to get out farther in the harbor.

Earlier OAS terrorists blasted a school in Oran while in Algiers, the first plastic bomb explosions in 10 days rocked the city.

County Tractor Contract Objected To By Low Bidder

A tractor for Jackson county is expected to be delivered today by Crater Lake Machinery, according to County Engineer Robert Carstensen.

Crater Lake Machinery had been awarded the contract by the county court, although the firm's bid was not the lowest received.

It was explained that time of delivery was the chief factor in awarding the contract since the lowest bidder, Hauptert Tractor, did not promise delivery in five days as required in the county's bid specifications. Carstensen said.

Crater Lake Machinery's net bid was $45,500 and the Hauptert bid was $42,625.

Earlier, the Hauptert company, represented by Medford Lawyer Brian Mullen, had indicated that they might contest the bid transaction. They had charged that Carstensen used operation cost figures on which to base the tractor contract and that the figures cited were not for the particular model in question.

County officials noted today that the Hauptert firm bid called for a 24-inch track shoe, while the county's specifications asked for a 22-inch shoe.

Public Hearing on On Development Pattern June 27

Central Point — A public hearing on the development pattern for the North Central Point area now an interim zoned area, will be held Wednesday, June 27, at 8 p.m. in the Crater High school gymnasium.

The hearing is the next step under Oregon law in the process of an area, which is interim zoned, becoming permanently zoned.

The development pattern was developed by the Jackson county planning staff and cannot be adopted by them until a public hearing has been held.

Prior to the Sept. 22 expiration date of the interim zoning ordinance, the planning commission must submit to the county court a draft of a zoning ordinance for the North Central Point area which carries out the development pattern. If the ordinance is approved by the court, it will be in effect for a period not to exceed three years.

During this three year period the county court must hold a public hearing on the ordinance, and may adopt permanent zoning for the area or call for an election if one is not petitioned for by 15 per cent of the legal voters in the area.

C. O. Lovejoy, president of the county planning commission, stressed the importance of residents within the zoned area attending the public hearing Wednesday which will be for the purpose of reviewing the development pattern.

Rusk May Talk With Gromyko on Berlin Situation

London — (UPI) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk today reached a tentative understanding with British leaders for a Western meeting with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko in Geneva next month to discuss Berlin.

The understanding was disclosed as the touring secretary of state completed a 24-hour policy review with top British leaders.

Chief U. S. spokesman Robert Manning told a news conference that Rusk had found considerable support from the Allies on his European tour that the Berlin probe be pursued, but not "to any degree of urgency."

Rusk might meet with Gromyko and other Western foreign ministers at Geneva later next month when he expects to attend the concluding stages of the Laos peace conference, he said.

British Foreign Secretary Lord Home also expects to attend the Geneva meeting. The Geneva talks are to be resumed July 2, but the ministers would go to Geneva only for the signing of the Laos accord, the U.S. spokesman said.

These developments coincided with delivery in Moscow today of Big Three Western notes reported to propose that the four commandants in Berlin meet to discuss how best to avoid further dangerous incidents in the divided city.

Rusk, who arrived here Sunday on his European tour after talks in Paris, Bonn, Berlin and Rome, conferred at length with Prime Minister Harold Macmillan Sunday night and met this morning with Home and top advisers.

In Moscow today, the Soviet Union threatened anew to sign an East German peace treaty without the West and warned it would protect its Communist partner "with all means."

The new warning came in a joint Soviet-Romanian communique marking the end of Premier Khrushchev's tour of Romania.

West Asks Russia To Stop Berlin Shooting Incidents

London — (UPI) — The United States, Britain and France called on Russia today to halt shooting incidents by Communist guards along the Berlin border. They proposed a meeting of four power representatives in Berlin to discuss how to avoid further dangerous incidents in the divided city.

The Western call was made in identical notes delivered in Moscow today. The British note was released by the foreign office in London.

The Big Three Western powers firmly rejected responsibility for recent incidents, in Berlin and said the present difficulties are due "exclusively to the illegal and inhuman action of East Berlin authorities."

The notes were handed to the Kremlin while Secretary of State Dean Rusk continued his discussions with British government leaders to align detailed strategy on Berlin, NATO, Southeast Asia and other East-West issues.

London was Rusk's fourth stop on his "fence-mending" mission to the capitals of America's Allies in Western Europe. He already has discussed strategy with the leaders of France, West Germany and Italy.

Of immediate concern to the West was the rash of Communist shooting incidents along the anti-refugee wall.

The Western powers urged Russia "to take the necessary steps to ensure that firing by East Berlin and East German guards is halted forthwith."

The notes of the three Western powers were in reply to Soviet notes of June 7 which blamed the West for the recent incidents in Berlin.

The West rejected a number of specific Soviet charges concerning the Berlin incidents. The notes said: "In all such cases the East Berlin guards fired first."

Iron Workers Reject Arbitration

Portland — (UPI) — A spokesman for striking iron workers in Oregon and Southwest Washington said today a proposal by contractors to submit the dispute to arbitration has been rejected.

John O'Halloran, secretary and business representative of Local 29 of the International Association of Bridge, Structural and Ornamental Iron Workers, said the decision to turn down the proposal was made at the executive level of the Northwest District council.

The proposal was made last Wednesday at the last negotiating session. Gov. Mark Hatfield urged the iron workers to accept the proposal, which would have brought them back to work while the board made a binding decision.

O'Halloran said the decision to reject the proposal was made because "it is impossible to take the case to the appeals board because there already has been a work stoppage and because the contractors have filed two unfair labor practice charges against us."
