Gardeners And Club Win Honors

Several members of the Medford Garden club and the Siskiyou district of the Oregon State Federation of Garden clubs received honors and awards during the annual state convention of the federation recently held in Salem.

Mrs. C. L. Miller and Mrs. Clifton Green attended as delegates from the Medford club, and Mrs. A. O. Floyd and Mrs. O. V. Poe, Phoenix, represented Siskiyou district.

Mrs. Floyd was presented a life membership in honor of her years of service in the state federation. She is a past president of the state group and has served in many other executive positions and on committees. She also is a member of both the Medford and Central Point Garden clubs.

Mrs. Poe was ratified as director of the Siskiyou district of the federation. The Siskiyou district also received an award of $225 from the Sears Foundation for the planting of an arboretum. This is the second such award they have received for this purpose.

At the 35th annual convention of the Oregon Federation of Garden clubs, the Richfield Award for Civic Beautification was presented to Mrs. Olin V. Poe, (at left), Phoenix, director of Siskiyou district, for the Prospect Garden club. Presenting the award of a redwood plaque and prize specimen tree was Miss Margo Gildea, representative of Richfield Oil corporation, San Francisco. The award luncheon was held at the Marion Motor hotel in Salem and was attended by 400 women from all over Oregon.

Illinois Valley Graduates Hold Dinner and Reunion

Illinois Valley - A reunion of the 1952 graduating class from the Illinois Valley High school was held in mid-June in the school library. Mock orange blossoms decorated the banquet tables.

Women of the Community church prepared the dinner which was served by young people of the church.

Wesley Peters, Illinois Valley High school principal, welcomed the group. Mr. Peters came to Cave Junction as principal the year the 1962 class entered as freshmen. He is the only faculty member left at the high school who was here when the class attended school.

Don Preston, 1962 student body president, was master of ceremonies. He read a letter from Clarence Hagen who was principal the year the class entered the old Kerby High school as freshmen.

After the dinner, Mrs. Phyllis (Dick) Saffer was introduced. She had been senior class president. Clarence Lewis, who had been senior vice president, and Mrs. Virginia (Fuller) Martin, senior secretary, recalled events and activities of the year 1952. Mrs. Kathy (Phillips) Foster read the class prophecy as it was written in 1952. The graduates present introduced their husbands and wives and gave a brief sketch of their lives since graduation.

Most of the arrangements were made by Mrs. Saffer and Mrs. Foster. Friday a number of the class made a trip through the Oregon caves. During the afternoon Mrs. Saffer held open house, and a barbecue was held. On Saturday approximately 75 graduates with their families met at Lake Selmae for a picnic.

Former Residents To Arrive Today

Mr. and Mrs. William Neely and children, Billie, Susan and Polly, are scheduled to arrive from Portland today to visit Mr. Neely's parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Neely, 49 Eastwood drive. They are former residents. Mrs. William Neely is the former Miss Carolyn Driscoll and while here they will visit other relatives including her sister, Mrs. Jens Jensen, 508 Park avenue, the former Miss Sue Driscoll.

The visitors also plan to vacation at Diamond lake during their stay.

Visit Parents

Ashland - Mrs. Richard Chambers of West Covina, Calif., is a guest at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Pickell, 357 Liberty street. She is accompanied by her three children, Julie, Keven and Kenneth. When Mrs. Chambers returns to California this week she will leave Julie for a summer visit, which will include several weeks at the Pickell's home at Blue River, B. C., Canada.

Reunion Slated for Saturday

About 100 reservations have been made for the reunion of the 1947 class of Medford High school. Mrs. Richard Riggs, reservations chairman has announced. The reunion is scheduled for Saturday, June 30 in the Rogue Valley Country club. There were approximately 165 graduates in 1947.

A cocktail hour will be conducted at 6:30 p.m., and a program will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Persons who have not made their reservations may do so by telephoning Mrs. Riggs at 772-6067, or tickets for the dinner may be purchased at the door Saturday evening.

Class members are expected to arrive from various parts of the country, and a number will be unable to be here because of serving in the Armed forces.

William Singler will act as master of ceremonies for the evening.

On Sunday, July 1 a picnic will be held in Hawthorne park to which the class members and their families are invited.

Economists List Ways To Save on Food Bills

Looking for ways to save money and not feel pinched? As much as $250 can be trimmed from your family's yearly food bill by shopping more wisely for food which is one of the more flexible items in the budget, say extension specialists at Oregon State University.

"Your family will still eat well-not a depression diet of beans, dried peas and salt pork," assured Jean Shipman and Barbara McCandless, OSU food marketing specialists. They offer eight ways a family can save on food.

Figure cost per serving when buying meats. A quarter out of every food dollar is spent on meat. Shoppers can afford to pay for twice as much boneless fully cooked ham than bone-in uncooked ham. Fully cooked ham has less waste and more servings.

Figure cost per unit on other foods. These include rice, cereal, mayonnaise, peanut butter and dried fruit. A pound loaf of enriched white bread that sells for 20 cents costs half as much per pound as an 8 ounce package of enriched white rolls.

Money-savers under private labels. Canned and frozen foods labeled with less well-known names usually are priced under similar nationally advertised brands. Try various brands to learn quality firsthand.

Buy in-season foods. Specialists offer two OSU leaflets "Fresh Fruits and Vegetables, Availability in Oregon" and "Retail Meat Prices, Monthly Variation on Oregon Markets." Both are free on request at county extension offices.

Match quality for use. Buy ripe nectarines, plums, pineapples and bananas at reduced prices for immediate use. Fresh peaches need not be perfect for cobbler and salads, remind home economists. Canned broken pieces cost less than perfect halves or whole fruit. Although canned tuna is available in fancy or solid pack, chunk, flaked or grated, the solid pack is most expensive. Solid white meat makes a dressier salad; grated tuna is an inexpensive choice for casseroles, souffles and fish cakes.

Save Money

Enjoy convenience foods but know that you pay for some. Specials on any of these create more favorable prices. Choose those that really save money, reduce waste, preparation or cooking time. Ingredients added at home boost prices on some. Some save time; others don't. Ready-to-eat cereals may cost 4 times as much as oatmeal per serving, potatoes in their various forms may cost anywhere from 2 to 29 cents a serving, whipped cream in aerosol cans costs more than regular whipping cream.

Money saving foods include nonfat dry milk, cake mixes, frozen orange juice, and white sauc, biscuit and bread mixes made at home. Shoppers who squeeze avocados show they know little about signs of quality, note specialists. Bruised produce in the long run forces retailers to raise prices to cover losses and all shoppers pay in the end. If you have to throw out half of the "bargain" produce, you're paying twice as much for what you buy, remind specialists.

Protect Food

Protect food quality at home. Store frozen foods at zero F until used. Use leftovers. Food thrown out can easily add $100 a year to food costs.

Read labels and follow instructions. Buy fresh yeast and use before expiration date. Don't add extras to cake mixes. Chemists have spent millions developing mix recipes, say home economists, and it's folly to tamper with them. Armchair shop with food ads and a grocery list at home. Impulse buying adds to the food bill.

For the Kids

For a flavor surprise, stir a few drops of vanilla extract into a bowl of oatmeal. Top with brown sugar and lots of milk or cream.

LPN Course Now Open

Applications are being accepted for the Southern Oregon School of Practical Nursing course which will begin in October.
