Definitions Given By Vegetable Growers

New York-If you can't tell a leek from a shallot, listen to definitions from the United Fresh Fruit and Vegetable association.

Green onions are regular onions harvested when their bulbs have reached a diameter of about 1/4 inch. Leeks resemble scallions but have fat leaves and are larger. Shallots have distinctive bulbs like garlic but unlike garlic, individual cloves aren't encircled by a membrane.

TRUCK HITS COW

A truck owned and operated by Thomas Vern Carter, 60, of 23 Wilson rd., Ashland, had to be towed away after striking a cow, which ran in front of the vehicle Tuesday morning on Highway 66 near Mountain View camp. The cow, owned by Max DeSave do, Box D ranch, had to be destroyed, state police said.

Prices effective: Thursday, July 5 through Sunday, July 8 at Safeway in Medford. We reserve the right to limit.
