DIVORCED — Actress Janet Leigh is shown as she appeared in court at Santa Monica, Calif., to obtain a divorce from actor Tony Curtis. She received half of their community property and $1,000 a month token alimony. They have two children, Kelly, 6, and Jamie, 3. (UPI).

House Democrats Seek Votes for UN Money Bill

Washington — (UPI) — House Democratic leaders are counting on near-perfect attendance from administration supporters today in order to reverse an action that would prevent the United States from financially assisting the United Nations.

The leadership was confident that it had the votes to kill an amendment to the foreign aid bill amendment that was tentatively approved Wednesday.

The proposal by Rep. H. R. Gross (R-Iowa) would prohibit the government from taking part in the special $200 million UN bond issue until all member nations paid their debts to the world organization.

Caught Flatfooted

Gross' move caught the administration forces flatfooted. Many of their supporters were off the floor when the non-record 124 to 112 vote was taken. The leaders feel they will have enough members on the floor today when they ask for a formal roll call vote on the proposal.

Other congressional news: McCloskey — The Senate was scheduled today to take up the nomination of Matthew H. McCloskey as ambassador to Ireland. Sen. John J. Sparkman, acting chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said he was confident the Senate would overwhelmingly approve President Kennedy's appointment of the former Democratic party treasurer to the diplomatic post. Several Republicans are opposing the nomination.

Powell — The House Education and Labor Committee has distributed copies of a thesis written by a college junior in which the author reports that the committee has produced progressive and responsible legislation since Rep. Adam Clayton Powell (D-NY) became its chairman. The students said that Powell has become an effective and responsible legislator after "16 years of roughshod antics."

The other accident occurred on Riverside ave. near Liberty st. A vehicle operated by Jonorien Carlson Hornstein, 42, of San Francisco, struck a parked car, according to city police. The parked vehicle was registered to Harvey Stephen De Armond, 212 Bliss st., Medford.

CARRIAGE HID HEROIN

New York — (UPI) — A baby carriage was used by a young couple as a portable stand for peddling narcotics, police reported Wednesday. William Johnson, 24, and his wife Caroline, 23, hid their heroin supplies under their four-month-old son's mattress, detectives said. Basing their operations in a Manhattan park, the couple made about $300 a day from their sales, according to police.
