Unusual Summer Exhibit Opens at Stump Gallery

Ashland - Pictures and books plus scattered tree stumps combine to make an unusual summer show at 25 North Main street which opened its doors to the public on Monday afternoon.

The Stump gallery walls are hung with paintings by a dozen artists who either live in Ashland and Medford or are spending the festival season in the area. Instigator of the unique exhibit is Mrs. Marilyn Briggs, who is an artist and who serves as its director-hostess.

Others displaying work are Mrs. Ann Reid and Mrs. Cynthia Lord, Ashland; William King and Fay Gustavson of the Shakespearean Festival company; Mrs. Pat Farthing, Mrs. Mary Koehler, Mrs. Joyce Grissom, Mrs. Evelyn Legacy and Mrs. Hazel Oswald, all of Medford, and Mrs. Olga Brill, Trail.

Sharing the spotlight during the daily exhibit on the Plaza are hundreds of books. Their sale is one of the most popular money-raising projects sponsored by the Tudor guild and from the proceeds festival scholarships are financed. Earlier this summer the Tudor guild book fair in the Mark Anthony hotel netted more than $200.

Leave Books
Anyone wishing to contribute to the sale may leave books at the gallery between 11 a.m. and 4 p.m., week days, or at the Tidings office, 52 East Main street, or they will be picked up by guild members Mrs. Elliott McCracken, Mrs. Edd Norstrom, Mrs. Sidney Ainsworth, or Frank Davis.

Book browsing is invited during the summer afternoons and there have been frequent discoveries of much-sought-after volumes or out-of-print books. A number of rare works were included among the guild's initial project. Many magazines of ancient vintage were snapped up by collectors and even a first edition was found.

The Stump gallery and Tudor guild book fair will be open to the public every day except Sunday from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m., from July 16 to Sept. 1.

Electronic Device

Used in Programming

Pittsburgh -UPI- There is a secret side to an electronic computer that University of Pittsburgh scientists use in "Project Talent" - to measure the brainpower of high school students nationwide. When they're not feeding the huge computer information about teenagers, the men who program the robot amuse themselves by teaching the machine to play games such as checkers and QUBIC - three dimensional tic-tac-toe. Pitt's experts also recently taught their versatile computer to whistle "Dixie."

"This isn't quite the tomfoolery it sounds like," said William B. Kehl, the university's director of the computation and data processing center. "When the programmers devise games for the machine, they have a serious problem in mind. It enables them to develop new forms of programming, to see what the machine can be made to do. The games are a form of brain research."

R. J. Nolan Is Speaker

Richard J. Nolan, western representative of the National Live Stock and Meat board, and Miss Evelyn Funk, state extension agent from Oregon State university, were featured speakers at the general council meeting of the Oregon Cow Belles held recently in Prineville.

Miss Funk expressed interest in the "Beef Education in the Schools" program of the Oregon Cow Belles. Consideration is being given to expansion of the program in future years.

Mrs. Hynd reported that a cooking school, sponsored by the Oregon Cow Belles and conducted by Mrs. Grace Phipps of Pacific Power and Light company, was held in Astoria during May.

The Cow Belles voted to have a committee investigate the feasibility of cooking schools in the Portland area. Upon a favorable report from the committee such schools will be planned for this fall.
