

Peruvian Workers Threaten Strike

Rogue Valley Edition

MEDFORD MALL TRIBUNE

20 PAGES Two Sections MEDFORD, OREGON, FRIDAY, JULY 20, 1962 No. 104

57th Year Price 10 Cents

The Beauties of Scenic Oregon

(Oregon State Highway Commission Photo)

Oregon's largest fresh water lake is Upper Klamath lake, shown here reflecting Mt. McLoughlin.

Settlement Believed Near In Iron Worker Negotiations

Washington—UPI—Amid predictions a settlement may be close, talks between contractors and iron workers continued until the early morning hours today and then resumed at 10 a.m.

Rep. Edith Green (D-Ore.) said she was advised by the Labor Department that a settlement could come today.

Mrs. Green said a member of the department who sat in on the talks told her the talks already have settled "all the issues except one—wages."

The sessions were held behind closed doors. But observers saw a hopeful sign in the fact the talks were continuing late into the night and resuming again in less than eight hours.

The sessions are aimed at ending an iron workers strike that started in the northwest nearly two months ago. The record Oregon construction dispute has stalled many projects. Construction also has slowed to a crawl in the Seattle and Spokane regions.

The talks here started Wednesday and ran until about 3:30 a.m. (EDT) Thursday. They resumed again Thursday morning, continued until 2:30 a.m. today, and started again at 10 a.m.

Special mediator John Dunlop, presiding over the talks, imposed a news blackout. The two sides were scheduled to have started tackling the major stumbling block to an agreement—wage and benefit increases.

Robinson Attacks School-Park Plan, New Senior High

Medford City Councilman Fred Robinson last night sharply criticized plans for the development of the proposed new Medford high school and warned members of the school board they may have "a real fight" on their hands if they attempt to go through with their proposals.

The attack was made during a meeting of the city council to which the school board had been invited in connection with a proposal to authorize the city manager to acquire appraisals and negotiate for property adjacent to the high school site on Roberts rd.

Offer to Participate As part of its school-park program, the city had offered to participate in development of the site by purchasing, if possible, about 7 1/2 acres of land, which would be integrated with the school district property to effect a coordinated design.

The proposal to allow the city manager to obtain appraisals and negotiate for the property was finally passed unanimously after an attempt by Robinson to amend it failed by a 5 to 2 vote.

Robinson called the coordinated plan "unrealistic" and said a group was already formed to fight the proposal. School Board Chairman Keith Hockersmith said he was puzzled by Robinson's statements and that he had understood the council was solidly in favor of the school-park program.

"It was a member of your administration, City Planner Ned Langford, who first came to us to suggest the cooperative venture," he said.

Support Program Mayor John W. Snider assured Hockersmith he was correct, that the council and administration had supported the school-park program all along.

But Robinson continued to disagree with the whole plan. He said the taxpayers would not support such a proposal. The millage rate keeps going up year after year," he said, "and we've got to draw the line some place."

Dr. David Boles, member of the school board, denied Robinson's accusation that the board was "unrealistic." "We're very realistic," he said. "We have children to educate. We know it is expensive. But we've got to do the job, and we hope the city will cooperate with us."

Foreign Aid Authorization Bill Approved

Washington—UPI—The Senate today approved 56-27 a compromise $4.67 billion foreign aid authorization bill stripped of three foreign policy restrictions opposed by the Kennedy administration.

The measure now goes to the House for final congressional action.

It was worked out Wednesday night by House-Senate conferees. They dumped two administration-opposed restrictions written into the original legislation and took the more flexible House approach toward aid to Communist nations.

The vote came after a brief final flurry of debate, in which Senate Democratic Whip Hubert H. Humphrey (Minn.) assured Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.) that the objective of a Senate restriction on aid to India would be carried out by the administration although it was not spelled out in the compromise bill.

There also were last-hour complaints about the provision which lets the President continue aid to such countries as Yugoslavia and Poland and if he finds it to be in the national interest.

Sen. William Proxmire (D-Wis.) said the administration is cracking down roughly on a new military dictatorship in Peru but is going ahead with aid to a "Communist dictatorship" in Yugoslavia.

Other plays are "Henry IV, Part II," directed by Edward Brubaker, which starts Sunday night; "As You Like It," directed by Jerry Turner, which starts Monday night; and "Coriolanus," also directed by Turner, which starts Tuesday night.

Festival officials said good seating, remains for all performances, but immediate reservations are recommended.

Other plays are "Henry IV, Part II," directed by Edward Brubaker, which starts Sunday night; "As You Like It," directed by Jerry Turner, which starts Monday night; and "Coriolanus," also directed by Turner, which starts Tuesday night.

Festival officials said good seating, remains for all performances, but immediate reservations are recommended.

Other plays are "Henry IV, Part II," directed by Edward Brubaker, which starts Sunday night; "As You Like It," directed by Jerry Turner, which starts Monday night; and "Coriolanus," also directed by Turner, which starts Tuesday night.

Festival officials said good seating, remains for all performances, but immediate reservations are recommended.

Other plays are "Henry IV, Part II," directed by Edward Brubaker, which starts Sunday night; "As You Like It," directed by Jerry Turner, which starts Monday night; and "Coriolanus," also directed by Turner, which starts Tuesday night.

Festival officials said good seating, remains for all performances, but immediate reservations are recommended.

Other plays are "Henry IV, Part II," directed by Edward Brubaker, which starts Sunday night; "As You Like It," directed by Jerry Turner, which starts Monday night; and "Coriolanus," also directed by Turner, which starts Tuesday night.

Festival officials said good seating, remains for all performances, but immediate reservations are recommended.

Other plays are "Henry IV, Part II," directed by Edward Brubaker, which starts Sunday night; "As You Like It," directed by Jerry Turner, which starts Monday night; and "Coriolanus," also directed by Turner, which starts Tuesday night.

Festival officials said good seating, remains for all performances, but immediate reservations are recommended.

Other plays are "Henry IV, Part II," directed by Edward Brubaker, which starts Sunday night; "As You Like It," directed by Jerry Turner, which starts Monday night; and "Coriolanus," also directed by Turner, which starts Tuesday night.

Festival officials said good seating, remains for all performances, but immediate reservations are recommended.

Other plays are "Henry IV, Part II," directed by Edward Brubaker, which starts Sunday night; "As You Like It," directed by Jerry Turner, which starts Monday night; and "Coriolanus," also directed by Turner, which starts Tuesday night.

Festival officials said good seating, remains for all performances, but immediate reservations are recommended.

Other plays are "Henry IV, Part II," directed by Edward Brubaker, which starts Sunday night; "As You Like It," directed by Jerry Turner, which starts Monday night; and "Coriolanus," also directed by Turner, which starts Tuesday night.

Festival officials said good seating, remains for all performances, but immediate reservations are recommended.

Other plays are "Henry IV, Part II," directed by Edward Brubaker, which starts Sunday night; "As You Like It," directed by Jerry Turner, which starts Monday night; and "Coriolanus," also directed by Turner, which starts Tuesday night.

Festival officials said good seating, remains for all performances, but immediate reservations are recommended.

Other plays are "Henry IV, Part II," directed by Edward Brubaker, which starts Sunday night; "As You Like It," directed by Jerry Turner, which starts Monday night; and "Coriolanus," also directed by Turner, which starts Tuesday night.

Festival officials said good seating, remains for all performances, but immediate reservations are recommended.

Other plays are "Henry IV, Part II," directed by Edward Brubaker, which starts Sunday night; "As You Like It," directed by Jerry Turner, which starts Monday night; and "Coriolanus," also directed by Turner, which starts Tuesday night.

Festival officials said good seating, remains for all performances, but immediate reservations are recommended.

Fiscal Year Budget Deficit $6.3 Billion

Washington—UPI—The federal government closed out its fiscal year June 30 with a budget deficit of $6.3 billion, a bit smaller than the administration had estimated.

The government announced Thursday that spending for fiscal 1962 totaled $87.7 billion. Tax revenues were $81.4 billion.

The deficit was the 10th in 18 fiscal years since World War II. Former Presidents Harry S. Truman and Dwight D. Eisenhower each had three of the six surplus years.

The $6.3 billion deficit for last year was about $700 million, or 10 per cent less than the administration's advance estimate.

Council Postpones Action on Revised Fire Code in City

Action on a proposal to adopt a revised Medford fire code was postponed until at least the middle of August after a Medford attorney told the city council last night he felt parts of the proposed code moved into "new territory."

Edward Branchfield, representing a group of downtown businessmen, said the revised code needed more study and clarification before adoption.

The attorney's remarks came after Councilman Stan Stark had proposed adoption of the code after deletion of the section on sprinkler systems, which he conceded was "controversial."

Branchfield reminded the council that the court had enjoined the city from enforcing the sprinkler system sections in the present code, which provides the systems be installed in basements of certain sized buildings.

Sections Vaguely Stated Further, he said, there are sections in the revised code, particularly the one dealing with explosives, which are vaguely stated or which move into unprecedented areas of fire prevention.

Branchfield suggested that if the code were adopted, property owners would need a period of time to familiarize themselves with it and effect compliance. Without such a grace period, he said, it would be possible some businesses might be forced to close.

At the suggestion of Councilman Donald Hansen, Branchfield agreed to meet with the city administration in the near future to discuss problem areas in the revised code.

City Manager Robert Duff today, however, expressed confidence in the revised fire code as it now stands.

"The city has strengthened certain sections of the code," he said, "and we profited from the court's decision in the suit over enforcement of the sprinkler system provisions."

The old code stipulated that buildings with a basement of 3,500 square feet must have a sprinkler system. The revised code has reduced the square footage to 2,500 feet, Duff said.

Both buzzings occurred Tuesday. The U.S. mission said it had protested both to the Russian representative at Berlin's four-power air safety center.

Another Russian jet made a pass at a U.S. Federal Aviation Agency transport flying to Berlin to test radar and navigational aids. The pass was said to have been clearly deliberate.

Western officials were not sure the second buzz was deliberate, but they said the Russian plane had no right to be at the same altitude and place at the same time as a Western craft.

USSR Overruled In UN Fee Dispute

The Hague—UPI—The International Court of Justice today said Congo and Gaza United Nations military intervention costs are "regular dues" to be paid by all UN members.

Nine judges voted in favor of this advisory opinion asked for by the General Assembly in its Dec. 20, 1961, resolution. The court, giving its advisory opinion on Article 17, Paragraph two, of the UN Charter which regulates payment of dues by UN members, rejected Soviet claims that payment of these costs was not prescribed by the UN Charter.

Five judges of the total of 14 which dealt with this case dissented. The court's opinion is not binding, but merely advisory.

Approval Urged For Wildlife Bill

Washington—UPI—A House interior subcommittee was urged today to approve a Senate-passed bill calling for ducks and farmers to share the marshlands of the Tulelake, Lower Klamath and Upper Klamath wildlife refuges in California and Oregon.

Assistant Interior Secretary Frank P. Briggs told the reclamation subcommittee that the bill would go far toward reconciling "differences that have been plaguing us for years."

Daniel H. Janzen, director of the Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife, termed the legislation "extremely important" to the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service's waterfowl conservation program.

Armed Forces Leaders Appear In Solid Control

Lima, Peru—UPI—Peru's labor unions rallied the country's workers today for a general strike to protest the military seizure of the government.

Two days after their coup d'etat, the armed forces leaders appeared in solid control despite the strike threats, student demonstrations and hemispheric opposition to their takeover.

Thursday night armed troops and police broke up mobs of screaming youths defying the ruling military junta. The security forces shot over the heads of the youths who surged through Lima's downtown streets crying "Freedom, freedom."

Textile workers and students at the University of San Marcos announced they will join 12,000 sugar workers in the north who went on strike Thursday. A telephone strike has been in progress for several days.

The sugar area in the north has a strong following for Victor Raul Haya de la Torre, leader of the American Popular Revolutionary Alliance, whose feud with the armed forces was an underlying cause of the coup.

Observers did not regard the strikes and demonstrations so far as any serious threat to the four-man ruling junta which overthrew President Manuel Prado in a bloodless coup Wednesday.

Mariano Ignacio Prado, a relative of the ousted President, was released Thursday night by the junta after two days of detention. He said he was held with Manuel Prado aboard the navy ship Callao.

Mariano Prado said the former president was in "perfect health," and would be freed "very soon, probably tomorrow."

Harassment Seen in Berlin Corridors Berlin—UPI—The Soviet Union today appeared to have opened a new campaign of harassment against Allied air traffic in the Berlin corridors.

Soviet jet fighters have buzzed Western Allied transports at least twice this week—the first such action since March when the Russians ended a two-month attempt to restrict the airlines between West Germany and West Berlin.

Both buzzings occurred Tuesday. The U.S. mission said it had protested both to the Russian representative at Berlin's four-power air safety center.

Another Russian jet made a pass at a U.S. Federal Aviation Agency transport flying to Berlin to test radar and navigational aids. The pass was said to have been clearly deliberate.

Western officials were not sure the second buzz was deliberate, but they said the Russian plane had no right to be at the same altitude and place at the same time as a Western craft.

Another Russian jet made a pass at a U.S. Federal Aviation Agency transport flying to Berlin to test radar and navigational aids. The pass was said to have been clearly deliberate.

Western officials were not sure the second buzz was deliberate, but they said the Russian plane had no right to be at the same altitude and place at the same time as a Western craft.

Another Russian jet made a pass at a U.S. Federal Aviation Agency transport flying to Berlin to test radar and navigational aids. The pass was said to have been clearly deliberate.

Western officials were not sure the second buzz was deliberate, but they said the Russian plane had no right to be at the same altitude and place at the same time as a Western craft.

Another Russian jet made a pass at a U.S. Federal Aviation Agency transport flying to Berlin to test radar and navigational aids. The pass was said to have been clearly deliberate.

Western officials were not sure the second buzz was deliberate, but they said the Russian plane had no right to be at the same altitude and place at the same time as a Western craft.

Another Russian jet made a pass at a U.S. Federal Aviation Agency transport flying to Berlin to test radar and navigational aids. The pass was said to have been clearly deliberate.

Western officials were not sure the second buzz was deliberate, but they said the Russian plane had no right to be at the same altitude and place at the same time as a Western craft.

Another Russian jet made a pass at a U.S. Federal Aviation Agency transport flying to Berlin to test radar and navigational aids. The pass was said to have been clearly deliberate.

Western officials were not sure the second buzz was deliberate, but they said the Russian plane had no right to be at the same altitude and place at the same time as a Western craft.

Another Russian jet made a pass at a U.S. Federal Aviation Agency transport flying to Berlin to test radar and navigational aids. The pass was said to have been clearly deliberate.

Western officials were not sure the second buzz was deliberate, but they said the Russian plane had no right to be at the same altitude and place at the same time as a Western craft.

Another Russian jet made a pass at a U.S. Federal Aviation Agency transport flying to Berlin to test radar and navigational aids. The pass was said to have been clearly deliberate.

GEN. LAURIS NORSTAD Receives Praise From President

Norstad Resigns As Chief of NATO

Washington—UPI—Gen. Lauris Norstad, 55, today resigned as supreme commander of the NATO Allied forces in Europe, effective Nov. 1. President Kennedy accepted his decision "with deep regret."

Norstad wrote the President that he wanted to retire after 36 years of military service. The White House indicated Norstad's successor as U.S. commander in Europe may be announced later today.

Observers did not regard the strikes and demonstrations so far as any serious threat to the four-man ruling junta which overthrew President Manuel Prado in a bloodless coup Wednesday.

Mariano Ignacio Prado, a relative of the ousted President, was released Thursday night by the junta after two days of detention. He said he was held with Manuel Prado aboard the navy ship Callao.

Mariano Prado said the former president was in "perfect health," and would be freed "very soon, probably tomorrow."

Harassment Seen in Berlin Corridors Berlin—UPI—The Soviet Union today appeared to have opened a new campaign of harassment against Allied air traffic in the Berlin corridors.

Soviet jet fighters have buzzed Western Allied transports at least twice this week—the first such action since March when the Russians ended a two-month attempt to restrict the airlines between West Germany and West Berlin.

Both buzzings occurred Tuesday. The U.S. mission said it had protested both to the Russian representative at Berlin's four-power air safety center.

Another Russian jet made a pass at a U.S. Federal Aviation Agency transport flying to Berlin to test radar and navigational aids. The pass was said to have been clearly deliberate.

Western officials were not sure the second buzz was deliberate, but they said the Russian plane had no right to be at the same altitude and place at the same time as a Western craft.

Another Russian jet made a pass at a U.S. Federal Aviation Agency transport flying to Berlin to test radar and navigational aids. The pass was said to have been clearly deliberate.

Western officials were not sure the second buzz was deliberate, but they said the Russian plane had no right to be at the same altitude and place at the same time as a Western craft.

Another Russian jet made a pass at a U.S. Federal Aviation Agency transport flying to Berlin to test radar and navigational aids. The pass was said to have been clearly deliberate.

Western officials were not sure the second buzz was deliberate, but they said the Russian plane had no right to be at the same altitude and place at the same time as a Western craft.

Another Russian jet made a pass at a U.S. Federal Aviation Agency transport flying to Berlin to test radar and navigational aids. The pass was said to have been clearly deliberate.

Western officials were not sure the second buzz was deliberate, but they said the Russian plane had no right to be at the same altitude and place at the same time as a Western craft.

Another Russian jet made a pass at a U.S. Federal Aviation Agency transport flying to Berlin to test radar and navigational aids. The pass was said to have been clearly deliberate.

Western officials were not sure the second buzz was deliberate, but they said the Russian plane had no right to be at the same altitude and place at the same time as a Western craft.

Another Russian jet made a pass at a U.S. Federal Aviation Agency transport flying to Berlin to test radar and navigational aids. The pass was said to have been clearly deliberate.

Western officials were not sure the second buzz was deliberate, but they said the Russian plane had no right to be at the same altitude and place at the same time as a Western craft.

NEWS BRIEFS

ARAB AIRLINER CRASHES IN THAILAND Bangkok, Thailand—UPI—Rescuers hacked through dense teak forests today toward the wreckage of a United Arab Airlines jetliner that crashed with 26 persons, including three Americans, minutes from a landing at Bangkok airport Thursday night.

BERLIN TAKES AIR OF TENSION Berlin—UPI—Berlin took on a new air of tension today as Communist and Western foreign ministers gathered to discuss it in Geneva. The Russians appeared to have started a new harassment campaign against Allied air traffic and both sides of the border seethed with military activity.

RUSK READY TO TALK WITH GROMYKO Geneva—UPI—Secretary of State Dean Rusk flew here today for key East-West talks with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, but he carefully skirted the crucial Berlin issue in his arrival statement.

Free Swim Lessons Will Be Available Free swimming instruction will be available in the afternoons now at Jackson Hot Springs, south of Talent, according to Mrs. Wallace Smith, pool operator.

A small charge will be made for use of the pool, she said. The afternoon instruction will start Monday.

Mrs. Smith said that an instructor will be available to give help to anyone who wants it, but will not conduct formal classes. Instruction will be available only in the afternoons during week days, she said. The pool is open week days from 12 noon to 10 p.m.

FEWEST PATIENTS Salem—UPI—The State hospital here has 2,572 patients, Superintendent Dean Brooks said Thursday, the smallest number during the past 13 years.