

PGA Champion Gary Player To Seek 'Golfing Grand Slam'

By LEO H. PETERSEN
UPI Sports Editor

Newton Square, Pa. — (UPI)—Gary Player, the new PGA champion, had one more championship to go today to achieve his golfing ambition.

When the 26-year-old 5-foot 7-inch South African shot an even par 70 Sunday to win the PGA title it left him only one more crown to go for his own "golfing grand slam."

"When I started out in this business of being a golf professional nine years ago," Player said, "I had one goal. That was to win the four big ones. Now I've got three of them—the Masters, the British Open and the PGA."

"All I need now is the U.S. Open and I am going to go out and get it next year."

Wears Black Clothes
The black-clad Player, who chews raisins to keep his strength and wears black because it makes him feel "warm and strong," finished eighth in the U.S. Open this year in which Jack Nicklaus beat Arnold Palmer for the title in a playoff. His best showing in the biggest one of them all—the U.S. Open—was in Tulsa in 1958 when he finished second four strokes behind the winner, Tommy Bolt.

Player was the first foreigner to win this tournament since Australian Jim Ferrier won it in 1947.

"Now as a foreigner I have won them all except the U.S. Open. Last year I was the first foreigner to ever be your leading money winner. Now I want to win the four big ones."

He can't make it this year, for the $13,000 he picked up Sunday by winning the PGA gave him a total of $41,513.35—leaving him $30,000 behind Palmer.

Palmer Ties for 17th
Palmer picked up only $966 in finishing tied for 17th place—ten strokes behind the winning player.

It was a heartbreak for Palmer who was going for a "three-quarter slam." He had won the Masters and the British Open this year and his golfing ambition is to win all the four big ones in one year. That would be the U.S. Open and the PGA in addition to the titles he now holds.

"I've been hearing ever since I won the Masters in 1961 'What's happened to Gary Player.'"

"Well, I let them know yesterday I was still around." His 36-34-70 over the 7,045 Aronimink course with its par of 35-35-70 was good enough to give him the PGA championship by one stroke over Bob Goalby, a former University of Illinois football player.

Goalby started out the day four strokes behind Player and one stroke behind Doug Ford, the second round leader.

He made a good run on it finishing up with a 35-32-67 for a 279 which was just one shot away from Player and gave him second place money of $6,700.

Next came U.S. Open champion Jack Nicklaus and George Bayer, who were two strokes off with their totals of 281. Nicklaus had a final round of 69 and Bayer a one over par 71.

One stroke behind them came Ford, who slipped to a 71 for a total of 282 which was worth $2,900. Bobby Nichols was next in line with a 283 and at 284 were former U.S. Open champion Jack Fleck, long hitting Paul Harney and Dave Ragan. Jay Hebert, the 1960 champion, came in at 285 while at 286 were former PGA champions Dow Finsterwald and Chick Herbert, former U.S. Open champion Julius Boros and Bob McAllister.

Then at 287 came Gary Middlecoff and Doug Sanderson and in the group at 288 along with Palmer were Sam Snead, who has won this three times; Jackie Burke, another former champion; Frank Stranahan; Billy Farrell and Australian Bruce Crampton.

Player, who says he never likes to be in the lead, was only worried today at one time—when he three-putted the seventh and eighth holes.

"Then I decided I had to be Gary Player and not to worry about Goalby or anyone else," he said. "So I went out and played my own game."

It was good enough. Those two three-putters on the seventh and eighth gave him his only bogeys of the round. To match them he birdied in the fifth and thirteenth holes with putts of 30 and 40 feet.

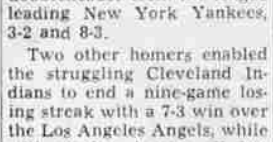

"That forty-footer on the thirteenth did it. Then I got thinking 'This is Gary Player, and I am going to play like him the rest of the day and not have people say I choked up.'"

From the thirteenth on he played even par. "I know how Goalby was doing because I was playing with him. Then when I found out that Bayer had bogeyed the 18th I figured I was in so I played the 18th safe but I still had a problem there."

"I was on the green 85 feet away and Goalby was on only 25 feet away. I wanted to make sure to get my first putt close for them even if Bob sank his long one I still would tie. But Bob went past the cup, just like I did and we both sank our putts coming back. And believe me, that two and one half foot putt looked awful big."

Which is a real success story. And yet, John Barnum, the giant from Michigan who shot a course record of 66 in the first round, had to settle for success in reverse. He finished with an 81—dead last.

36 Homers Hit in Sunday Games

By MILTON RICHMAN
Who says never on Sunday?

No matter who does, most major league hitters vigorously disagree because that's the day they generally pick to break out in a wild flurry of home runs.

Maybe it has something to do with displaying that old Sunday punch, but a total of 36 homers were hit in the national league and 17 in the American—with some of those blows bringing joy, and others sheer despair.

Four of those homers, for example, made it a wonderful day for the tenth-place Washington Senators, who swept a doubleheader from the league leading New York Yankees, 3-2 and 8-3.

Two other homers enabled the struggling Cleveland Indians to end a nine-game losing streak with a 7-3 win over the Los Angeles Angels, while still another homer all but broke Casey Stengel's heart and gave the Cincinnati Reds an 11-4 and 4-3 sweep over the New York Mets.

Home runs figured prominently in the majority of Sunday's games.

Giants Blast Four

A pair of them helped the Los Angeles Dodgers retain their two-game lead in the NL with a 13-6 victory over the Chicago Cubs, while the San Francisco Giants hammered four homers in a 5-4 decision over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Seven homers were hit as Milwaukee took two from Philadelphia 11-10 and 5-2, and St. Louis beat Houston, 3-1, in the only major league contest that was homerless.

Baltimore snapped Minnesota's six-game winning streak, 8-6, the Chicago White Sox humped the Boston Red Sox, 7-3, and the Kansas City A's routed the Detroit Tigers, 11-3.

Harry Bright's three-run homer in the first inning plus the four-hit pitching of rookie Dave Stenhouse gave the Senators their opening game victory over the Yankees. The loss halted a nine-game Yankee winning streak and the Senators saw to it that the Yanks didn't get another one started by beating them in the nightcap on homers by Jim King, Chuck Hinton and pitcher Bennie Daniels.

Two-run homers by Willie Kirkland and Jerry Kindall off Don Lee of the Angels provided the Indians with their first victory in 19 games. Jim Perry (8-7) was the winner although he needed Gary Bell's help after Billy Moran homered in the seventh.

In Pacific Coast league doubleheaders Sunday night, the first place San Diego Padres squashed Portland, 6-4 and 13-3, and the Tacoma Giants split with Spokane winning the first, 8-1 and losing the second, 5-2.

Seattle's Billy MacLeod held the Salt Lake City Bees

scoreless in the first and second innings and hitting a two-run double.

The blow that hurt Casey most, though, was a pinch homer by Mary Keough in the ninth inning of the nightcap. It came off reliever Roger Craig, snapped a 3-all tie and ran the Reds' winning streak to five games. Vada Pinson also homered for Cincinnati.

Frank Howard and Larry Burright hit homers for the Dodgers against the Cubs and Willie Davis helped matters along by driving in four runs with a pair of triples. Reliever Ed Roebuck was the winner in a game cut short by rain in the seventh. Ernie Banks and George Altman homered for the Cubs.

Juan Marichal scored his 13th victory for the Giants with a seven-hitter over the Pirates. Felipe Alou hit his 17th homer and also doubled home the winning run in the fifth. Willie Mays hit his 28th homer and Jim Davenport and Jose Pagan also connected.

The Braves rallied for seven runs in the fourth inning of the opener to beat the Phillies, who led, 8-1 after two innings. Then, rookie Denny Lemaster scored his first major league victory in the nightcap with the aid of Joe Adcock's 16th homer. Tony Gonzalez hit a homer for the Phils in each contest.

Bob Gibson gained his 13th victory for the Cardinals although Lindy McDaniel had to nail down the final out of the game when the Colts put two men on base in the ninth. The Cards scored all three of their runs off Bob Bruce in the second on doubles by Ken Boyer and Charlie James, a walk and singles by Gibson and Julian Javier.

Jim Gentile drove in two runs with his 25th homer and Jackie Brandt collected four hits, including a homer, as the Orioles beat the Twins. Harmon Killebrew hit his 25th homer for the Twins and Bernie Allen also connected. Robin Roberts (6-3) was the winner and Camilo Pascual (14-6) was the loser.

Tie Record
White Sox outfielder Floyd Robinson tied a major league record with six straight singles against the Red Sox. Jim Paggiaroni's homer helped Boston to an early lead but the White Sox kayoed Bill Monbouquette with a three-run rally in the third and went ahead to stay in the fourth. Reliever Frank Baumann held the Red Sox scoreless over the last 2 2/3 innings for his third victory. Mike Fornieles was the losing pitcher.

Salem Dodgers Hold NL Lead Over Yakima

By United Press International

The Salem Dodgers continued to hold a three and one-half game lead over second-place Yakima in the Northwest league today after both teams split doubleheaders Sunday.

Tri-City downed Salem, 2-1 in the first game of a twin bill but the Dodgers came back to win the second contest, 6-5, in 15 innings.

Lewiston defeated Yakima, 5-1, in the second game after the Bears had won the opener.

In the other Sunday action, Eugene defeated Wenatchee, 2-1 and 3-4 in a double header.

Salem's second game marathon with Tri-City ended in the 15th when Tom Richards, who had walked, scored on a sacrifice fly by Ralph Plumlee. Ed Nottle and Lee Featherstone came up to pitch a three-hitter for the Braves in the opener, with Nottle picking up his sixth win in nine decisions. Loser Jim Churchill went the seven-inning distance and also gave up only three hits.

Yakima rallied for three runs in the seventh and final inning to take the first game from Lewiston. However, Lewiston was in command all the way in the second contest.

Eugene scored two runs in the fifth inning on two singles and two Wenatchee errors to win the opener. The Emeralds pushed across the winning tally in the seventh and final inning of the nightcap when Delfino Blanco doubled and Willy Cockerell drove him in with a single.

Hawaii, Vancouver End Game at 4-4

By United Press International

If anyone says the Hawaii Islanders belong to the jet set today they would probably get it—and deserve it—a clout over the left field fence.

The Islanders were 10 innings at Vancouver Sunday night before a pre-arranged curfew ended the game in a 4-4 tie. The deadline was set because the Hawaii team had to catch a plane back to the Islands.

Vancouver was leading 4-2 in the ninth inning when Hawaii's Stan Palys tied the score on a two-run homer. The game will have to be either replayed or resumed from the 10th in Hawaii because the schedule for the Islanders at Vancouver is completed.

The Islanders now hold a 2-1 record in their series with the Mounties—with the fourth game dangling. The Portland Beavers play at Honolulu tonight and the two teams won't have to worry about plane reservations until next Sunday.

In Pacific Coast league doubleheaders Sunday night, the first place San Diego Padres squashed Portland, 6-4 and 13-3, and the Tacoma Giants split with Spokane winning the first, 8-1 and losing the second, 5-2.
Seattle's Billy MacLeod held the Salt Lake City Bees

to four hits in a 6-0 shutout after the Bees sneaked through the opener, 10-9. MacLeod's record is now 7-6.

Floyd Weaver picked up his ninth win against five losses for Salt Lake in the opener.

At Portland, San Diego collected 17 hits in the second game. Hal Bevan highlighted the nightcap with three home runs — a solo in the sixth, a two-run homer in the eighth and another solo in the ninth.

In the opener, a double by Chico Ruiz and singles by Rog Alvarez and Jesse Gonder broke a 4-4 tie in the seventh inning to give San Diego the win.

At Spokane, catcher Rene Frieri drove in three runs on two singles to lead the Indians to a 5-2 victory over Tacoma in the second game of a doubleheader. The Giants downed Spokane 8-1 in the opener.

A six-run Tacoma seventh sparked the first game with a grand slam homer by John Weekly and a two-run homer by Dick Phillips. The Giants led Spokane 2-1 going into the final inning.
Spokane scored its only run in the third on singles by Lib Julian and Dick Tracewski.
