NEW LOOK—This valley east of Hornbrook in Siskiyou county has taken on a new look since the completion of Pacific Power and Light's Iron Gate project late last year. What previously was farm and hillside grazing land is now a lake, created by the erection of Iron Gate dam. A road along one of the hills above the lake affords some eye-pleasing views, such as the above.

Regional Roundup

by Cleve Twitchell
Mail Tribune Regional Editor

A number of southern Oregonians apparently enjoy junking cars as a hobby. I can't remember any area in which I've seen more junked cars strewn about the countryside than I have in southern Oregon.

One finds them in most usual places, frequently way back in the woods on dirt roads. Usually just the body of the car is sitting there a little ways off the road, the tires and other valuable parts have since been stripped.

The majority of these wrecks appear to be sitting in the back woods of Josephine county, but last week I spotted two along the highway to Diamond Lake and one down an embankment in the northern part of Ashland.

Some of my friends theorize that these may be stolen cars that were taken off in the woods and junked after everything of value had been removed. But others think some of them are just old wrecks that residents of this area like to collect as a hobby.

Palm Disappears Again

That palmistry sign on the north side of Phoenix is gone again an a "For Sale" sign is up on the adjacent house. The palm was up last December, came down during the winter, then went up again in the spring. Perhaps the palmist has given up this territory.

It may well be that palmisty is suffering the same fate as science-fiction. Extra-sensory perception has graduated during recent years from the vaudeville stage to the college laboratory. It's being taken seriously now and is being put to many unpublicized usages in fields ranging from the business world to police detection.

Similarly, the science-fiction writer is in an unfortunate state today, because scientific fact is catching up to his imagination too quickly. The physical sciences are developing at such a terrific rate that it's getting more difficult to stay ahead of them.

Of Man and Mouse

"When a woman shrieks and climbs on a table because of a mouse," says Viola Rogers, our Tiller-Drew area correpsondent, "it's the kind of thing cartoons are made of."

"But when a big strong logger screams and tries so frantically to get out of a truck cab that he pulls the door handle off, that's news. And that is what happened up here the other day to Bud LeRoy while his partner Gilbert Bonney stood by looking on wondering what all the commotion was. There were mice in the cab of the water truck. The two men are partners in Hoot Owl Logging company."

44 EP Youngsters Read Book Quota

By DOTTIE HARBISON

Eagle Point — Forty - six youngsters attended the party at the Eagle Point Library Tuesday morning to celebrate another successful year of summer reading.

Large hats seemed to play an important part in the costumes youngsters wore to represent their "Around the World" reading theme for this year. However swimmers, football players, Cub Scouts, and other costumes were all on hand to receive their reading certificates.

Forty - four youngsters had completed their 10 required books by the time the party ended with a few bringing their last books in with them. Eighty-six children originally signed up with some of them being unable to read books due to having severe cases of the measles, according to the head librarian, Mrs. Jessie Tycer.

Mrs. Tycer and assistant librarian Mrs. June Kahl were hostesses for the party and along with the children, extended a vote of thanks to Dave Hannaford for getting their refreshments and to the city council for furnishing them.

Debbie McFall and Vickie Ragsdale remaind after the party to make sure the library grounds were left clean.

Valley Scouts Harbison, Kenyon Return From Rugged New Mexico Training Session

Arthur Harbison and Mikel Kenyon both returned from their junior leadership instructor training at Philmont Boy Scout Ranch in New Mexico among the top ten boys in their troop.

The boys were sent as delegates from the Crater Lake Council of Boy Scouts of America and will in turn train the junior leaders in the entire council this fall.

Eugene Doll, District Scout Executive from Spokane, Wash., was scoutmaster and Lloyd E. McElvain of Tumwater, Wash., was assistant scoutmaster to the 37 boys comprising the troop.

Boys representing 22 western councils from Alaska, Washington, Oregon, Idaho and Montana were sent as delegates to work, play, learn, and live together for two weeks of training under trained and professional Scout leadership.

Chartered Bus

Harbison of Eagle Point and Kenyon of Medford met the chartered bus and their troop in Bend, Ore., where the boys all traveled in uniforms. They had a two hour lay over in Salt Lake City where the bus took the boys on a sight seeing tour of the capital buildings, the Mormon Temple and other points of interest.

The boys slept on the bus with the exception of an overnight stop at Gunnerson, Colo., where they were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Chapman and Boy Scout Troop 75. While there they enjoyed a potluck banquet, complete with dancing to records with members of the Girl Scouts before they retired to the hay loft, the bus or just rolled their sleeping bags on the ground to sleep.

The troop arrived at Philmont on Sunday afternoon where they were given a second physical examination and registered for camp before boarding the Philmont bus for their camp, the Carson-Maxwell camp, located on the Santa Fe Trail. This was the former Kit Carson and later the home of Lucien B. Maxwell which was reconverted into its natural condition by Boy Scouts and is now a museum.

Their camp director outlined the history of the Boy Scout Ranch dating back to 1537 to its presentation as a gift in 1938 and 1941 by Waite Phillips without rights of management reserved by the donor. A total of 127,000 acres of Philmont complete with water, mineral and timber rights and, as an endowment, the 23-story Philtower Building in Tulsa to help develop and maintain Philmont comprise the largest Boy Scout Ranch in the world.

All equipment and livestock was included in the gift with the idea that diversified ranch operations would add educational benefits to the Boy Scouts and add to the endowment income. Buffalo steaks were enjoyed by the boys their last night in camp.

Breakfast was served to the boys their first morning in camp followed by a three-hour horse ride of the immediate camp area. All meals from then on were cooked by the boys at their camp grounds. Dehydrated trail food was used to teach the boys proper cooking methods. The boys camped out in the open by patrols in their own tents.

Since this was an instructor training course, three classes a day were held besides actual everyday camping experiences.

Many Courses

A class following breakfast, lunch and dinner was held in the following scout training courses; axemanship; important leadership points; cooking, first aid, new methods and how to teach it; conservation; scout organization and its background; scout spirit and team work; fire making; nature lore and survival; compass work, map making, etc.; night orientation; pioneer housekeeping in camp sites; rope work and knot tying; signaling; camp and trail lore; outpost camp log; patrol leadership, meetings and activities; how to develop plans for a troop meeting and teach them; group leadership in all types of scout skills and activities; campfire course complete with planning, conducting and presentation; patrol oroganization of camping; preparation and carrying out of patrol hikes.

The group put on a scoutcraft skills event similar to what we know as a Scout-O-Rama. Each patrol made its own patrol flag of leather which will remain on display in the meeting room at Philmont. Each boy was given a log book upon registering at camp in which all lectures, and activities were to be recorded to aid his presentation to other leaders upon his return to his home council.

The first week the boys were in camp they went on a one-day hike to Toothache Springs and the second week of camp they went on a two-day hike to Beaubiem and on to Porcupine Rim. The evening before they left Philmont, a large campfire followed their buffalo steak banquet in which awards were presented to the boys.

Each boy in attendance received a Region XI neckerchief slide and neckerchief and their Philmont patch to wear on their uniforms. They will also receive their Nor-Wester and J L I T Badges.

At the completion of their training their Philmont instructors evaluated the boys on their scout spirit, participation, log books, and leadership abilities with both Rogue Valley boys ranking within the top ten boys of the troop. The boys were in camp two weeks and one week traveling to and from New Mexico.

Harbison was on the staff at Boy Scout Camp at Lake of the Woods the week they returned and Kenyon is attending Boy Scout camp this week with his troop.

Both boys will be available to aid junior leaders in troops throughout the council this fall, according to Boy Scout executives. Dates for this training will be announced later.

Letters to Jacksonville Mayor Indicate City's Fame Has Spread Abroad

Jacksonville – Jacksonville Mayer E. O. Graham recently received two interesting letters which would seem to prove that the historic fame of this area is spreading to far-off places.

Lee Rice of the Jackson County Sheriff's office, criminal division investigator, has donated a Jackson County Deputy Sheriff's badge to be sent in answer to one of the requests in the letters.

These are the two letters:

June 15, 1962

Mayor of Jacksonville,
Jacksonville, Oregon,
U S A

Dear Sir,

I am a German amateur historian and study the law and the life of famous Peace Officers of the old American days.

I have a large collection of books, photos and other authentic material about American history but I want for my collection a new or old Marshal, Deputy Marshal, Reserve or regular Police badge. I will be very thankful if you can send me a badge from your Police Office and I can send you money for it.

Oregon known as the BEAVER STATE is rich in history and I have much about this state in my books.

I am hopeful you can help me to get a badge and will be glad soon to hear from you again. Thank you.

Best wishes to you and your Police Office.

Sincerely,

Dear Mr. Mayor

While searching through my Atlas for a place called Anaheim in California, which incidentally I couldn't find. I discovered a small township called Jacksonville; I wanted to write to someone in Anaheim whose name I saw in the paper referring to our "City of Lights" but the address is not sufficient to guarantee the letter getting there. Instead I'm writing to you and I will tell you why, how as a small girl I was proud possessor of an old phonograph complete with some tubular recordings. One of these, my favorite, was called "I'm going back again to Jacksonville!" It was an Edison Bell record and I loved that song. Could your Jacksonville be the same one I wonder? Over the years like all children, or most anyway, I grew up in the world of the cinema, Famous faces and famous name places have stayed with me. Places like, Cimarron Falls, Illinois, Carson City, Grants Pass, Salem, Washington, Wichita and so many more I could never name them all. All making up the historical United States of America and so Mr. Mayor could you find me, some middleaged mother who would be kind enough to write to me and tell me about herself and her country. At the moment for the umpteenth time, I'm reading Huckleberry Finn, to my young boys. I've three sons, and a very hard-working husband.

Here's wishing good luck to Jacksonville!

Yours Truly
Mrs. Irene Marshall

Jacksonville Library Will Close 1 Week For Ceiling Repairs

Jacksonville – The Jacksonville library will be closed for one week starting today in order that a new ceiling may be constructed.

The city council sought bids on the job recently in order to cut down loss of heat through the old roof and thereby reduce fuel bills in winter. Jack Long, local contractor, last week was awarded the job.

A reading club party, set for Thursday at 1:30 p.m. at the library, will meet in front of the building and then proceed to the city park, Mrs. Arthur Roberts, librarian, said.

Forty-four certificates for completing the reading program this summer will be presented, but all children who participated are invited to attend the annual party. Eighty-five children registered this year. Mrs. Roberts is on vacation, but is not planning to leave town. Mrs. Lewis Applebaker is taking her place at the Library for two weeks.

National Rural Letter Carrier Convention Held at Grants Pass

By LAURAINE LAWS

The National Rural Letter Carrier convention held July 13, 14 and 15 in Grants Pass was termed a very successful one. Approximately 110 attended the banquet held in the Rogue Valley Grange hall, west G street. Registration and all business meetings were held at the Old Library.

Hugh Simpson, public relations man from Southern Oregon college, was guest speaker for the convention.

John Crocker of route 3, box 55 A, Medford was chosen carrier of the year by the State Board of the N.R.L.C. for the State of Oregon.

The N.L.R.C. carrier of the United States will be chosen at the convention to be held in Los Angeles during the first week in August.

Guidance Chairman D. Wayne Stoltz of Grants Pass, who was president for District No. 12, is now replaced by the naw president-elect, Fred Steinmetz of Brookings, Oregon.

Max Jordan of Biloxi, Mississippi, N.R.L.C. carrier in that area, who is national vice president of the N.R.L.C., was in attendance at the convention.

Marie Rial Rainwater of Cushing, Okla., national officer of the Auxiliary of the N.R.L.C. was in attendance.

The annual N.R.L.C. convention has become an outstanding occasion for all the family of the members as many plan ahead to take vacations at this time in order to enjoy camping facilities in the area where they stay. Sixteen youngsters were cared for at one home while the parents attended the business meetings and banquet.

Mr. and Mrs. F. F. James of Rogue River attended. James is secretary-treasurer of District 12 which includes a wide area in Oregon.

Trash Pickups To Start in Gold Hill

Gold Hill – Starting Wednesday, August 1, workmen in the city of Gold Hill will pickup all burnable trash such as shrub and gress trimmings.

This courtesy by the city will be offered residents here the first Wednesday of each month thereafter until fire season is ended. This service each year helps residents to eliminate the accumulation of trash piles which are unsightly as well as combustable fire hazards during the dry summer months.

It was stressed by Ernest Kell, maintenance man, that no material longer than four foot lengths will be picked up. This pick-up service dose not include discarded cartons, papers, etc.

Still in effect is the restriction on burning because of the fire danger. Until further notice no permits for open burning will be issued according to city officials.

Burning is permitted only in approved incinerators or screened barrels befort 10 a.m. Persons are cautioned that they are responsible for any damage that might result to someone else's property whether or not they have a permit to burn. No night burning will be permitted at any time.

Gold Hill Lions Plan Coming Activities

Gold Hill – Summer and fall activities of Gold Hill Lions club were discussed by directors during a meeting at the home of Jerry Bowen July 18.

The first activity planned by the group is a ladies night "cook out" that will be held in Lampman State park on Thursday, July 26 from 5 until 10 p.m.

The evening will include swimming, baseball, horseshoes and a weiner roast. Lions are requested to bring either a potato, fruit or vegetable salad. All other foods, drinks and supplies will be provided by the club.

Other activities planned by the directors include a car wash, light bulb sale, and a promotion to accumulate funds through donations so that the club will be able to send a boy and a girl to Boys State and Girls State in the spring of 1963.

Matthiesens' Son Recovering Well

Central Point–Dennis Matthiesen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Matthiesen, of 705 South Fourth st., and a patient in the Shriner's hospital in Portland, is recovering nicely from a recent operation.

The family is looking forward to having him home by the end of August.

Derby — Laurence Cothrin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Amon Cothrin, Box 140, Butte Falls highway, Eagle Point, was recently treated at Sacred Heart hospital for a broken ankle following an accident at his home last week while changing implements on a farm tractor.

Garden Club Picnics In Rogue River Area

Rogue River – The annual picnic of the Laurel Garden club of Rogue River was held July 15 on the spacious lawn at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rowlison of West Evans creek.

Picnic tables were set under trees, and a total of 28 people, which included members, husbands and guests, enjoyed the food and fellowship.

Scouts Give Funds For EP Building

Eagle Point – A check for $95.45 was turned over to the Eagle Point Scout Community Building fund at a recent meeting of the executive board by the Boy Scouts of Troop and Post No. 48.

This represented the proceeds of a chicken and noodle dinner given in May by the Scouts as a benefit for this purpose. Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Clifford furnished the chicken with local merchants contributing the remainder of the dinner.

All of the Boy Scouts helped with the table and chair arrangements and cleaning up of the premises after the dinner. Mothers planned and prepared the dinner with the Explorer Scouts cranking the home made ice cream.

In other action taken by the executive board, it accepted the recommendation of the building committee that it be incorporated into the executive board.

The next meeting of the executive board will be held in the dining room of the building Wednesday, Aug. 1 at 8 p.m.

Central Point—The Central Point Lions club met at the Lions Club Hall for a regular board meeting Tuesday evening, E. J. Christie presiding.

New officers installed from the June meeting were Christie, president; Warren Holbrook, first vice president; Ben Mushaney, second vice president; Lyle Paull, secretary and treasurer. Board members are Francis A. Ayres and Dr. Max Flowers.

The candidate selected to compete for queen of Jacksonville Gold Rush Jubilee was Miss Judy Gebhard of 5098 Gebhard rd. The next meeting will be July 24.

Two Houses Being Moved in Prospect

Prospect – Clarence Hedgpeth, who was successful bidder on two houses at the Olson-Lawyer Saw mill, is busy moving them to his property by Wildwood store.

The houses had to be moved to make way for the new Crater Lake highway.

VISITING DAUGHTER

Phoenix – Mrs. Georgia Smith, her daughter Georgia Ann, granddaughter Rosa Rae Hite and niece Karen Kay Richey left Monday for about a month's vacation. She will visit her daughter Mrs. Aurrey Lytle and family at Moose Lake, Wash., and also plans to take in the world's fair.

Jubilee Club Being Sold to Californians

Jacksonville – The Jubilee club at 200 E. California st. will soon change hands. Frank A. Roberts and Ann M. Roberts of Hornbrook, Calif., applied for and were granted a business license to do business at the Jubille Club and Restaurant at last week's city council meeting.

The license is currently being held by Les Watts who plans to sell the building and business to Roberts. The Robertses plan to sell their present business, the Burbell Tavern on the Klamath River, and move to Jacksonville. Sid Ainsworth, Ashland attorney, represented the Robertses at the meeting.
