

McClellan Says Payoff Solicited To Settle Groton Strike

All-Night Sessions in Prospect for Communications Satellite Measure

Washington—UPI—The prospect of all-night sessions loomed today as Senate leaders tried again to bring up the administration supported communications satellite bill.

The leadership indicated it was willing and ready to call the around-the-clock sessions if that was the only way to tumble the roadblock preventing consideration of the bill.

The object of all-night sessions would be to wear down the small band of Democratic liberals who are opposed to the measure. They claim that the bill's plan to set up a privately owned and government regulated space communications corporation would amount to a giveaway of public resources.

The current filibuster, part of which stalled the Senate in a 10-hour and 12-minute Saturday session, is aimed at a motion by Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield (Mont.) to bring the bill up for action. Virtually unlimited debate could still follow on the bill itself and proposed amendments.

Assistant Democratic Leader Hubert Humphrey (Minn.) said that some of the Democratic liberals "may have done irreparable damage" to the cause of civil rights by filibustering against the bill.

In other Congressional action, the Agency for International Development said today some of its press officers were mistaken in their comments about a subject under investigation by a congressional subcommittee. The agency's chief information officer said in a letter to Chairman John E. Moss (D-Calif.)

Sen. Morse Halts Subcommittee's Bid for Hearing

Washington—UPI—Sen. John L. McClellan said today that a former union official solicited a payoff in connection with the strike which has delayed U.S. nuclear submarine construction.

The Arkansas Democrat, chairman of the Senate investigations subcommittee, made the statement in a short Senate speech. He requested that the subcommittee be allowed to meet and take testimony on the matter today.

However, Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore.) blocked the necessary unanimous consent in a parliamentary skirmish resulting from the Senate filibuster against the administration's communications satellite bill.

McClellan named no names. But he said the subcommittee wanted to hold hearings on the "serious strike" in progress at the Groton, Conn., yard of the Electric Boat division of General Dynamics Corp.

He noted that the yard is building nuclear submarines, Polaris missile types.

Management and union negotiators agreed Friday on settlement terms in the strike which had idled 8,500 workers. It was the third such settlement formula approved by union and management negotiators.

McClellan told the Senate the subcommittee has information indicating that the two previous settlements were "obstructed by a former president of a local." He said the official was expelled from the union but still wields tremendous influence.

"We are advised that he has offered, for a sum of money and other considerations, to withdraw his opposition and permit this settlement to go through," McClellan said.

The Senator said rank-and-file members of the unions involved will vote on the new settlement formula Tuesday night. Rejection, he said, would cause "further delay in construction and production of these vital weapons."

Under these circumstances, said McClellan, the reported solicitation of a payoff "ought to be exposed or the rumor of it ought to be exploded."

McClellan said the Polaris submarine is "one of the vital links in the chain of national security" and production should not be halted "because somebody won't pay off somebody to get a strike settled."

The strike halted work on 11 nuclear submarines—seven of them of the missile-firing Polaris type. It began July 19 and involved a number of unions whose members are employed by the Electric Boat Division of General Dynamics.

Georgia Officials Ask Judge To Prohibit Demonstrations

Albany, Ga.—UPI—City officials went before a federal judge today to ask him to prohibit Negroes from staging demonstrations protesting segregation in this south Georgia city.

U. S. District Judge Robert Elliott issued a restraining order July 21 to halt the demonstrations, but it was vacated four days later by appeals Judge Elbert Tuttle who ruled it unconstitutional on technical grounds.

City officials also will ask Elliott to cite Negro leader Martin Luther King Jr., and others for contempt of court on the grounds that demonstrations were staged several hours after the restraining order was issued.

State Atty. Gen. Eugene Cook, here to help the city prepare its case, said a contempt citation could be handed down because the restraining order was still in effect when a demonstration was staged the night of July 21.

King, arrested Friday along with 28 other demonstrators, was still in jail.

The president of the pro-integration Albany Movement, Dr. W. G. Anderson, was arrested with King but was released on bond Saturday. He appeared on a national television program Sunday and said Albany faces "a potential Little Rock situation."

Anderson said violence could erupt again, as it did last Tuesday when a Negro crowd threw rocks and bottles at officers, if whites and Negroes do not reach agreement soon.

There was one demonstration Sunday. Three Negroes knelt and prayed in front of city hall for 10 minutes. Police Chief Laurie Pritchett watched but did not arrest them.

Saturday, a Negro attorney was struck by a sheriff and a white integrationist was beaten by other prisoners in the county jail.

Pritchett said a blow William Hansen, 23, of Cincinnati, received while in jail was a result of a "conflict of personalities between two individuals."

Anderson charged Hansen was placed in a cell with white prisoners who were told by the jailer: "Here is a nigger lover."

C. B. King, a Negro attorney, said he was not involved.

Delegates To Youth Festival Targets

Helmski—UPI—Mounted police Sunday night broke up a crowd of demonstrators estimated at 5,000 who tossed rocks at vehicles carrying delegates to the Communist-backed World Youth Festival.

Bus windows were shattered and store windows broken by the anti-Communist demonstrators in downtown Helsinki. It was the second incident of violence in as many nights connected with the conference.

Soviet newspapers charged that the United States and West Germany were behind the demonstrations and said the loyalty of anti-festival rioters had been purchased by the Central Intelligence Agency and the State Department.

Several persons were reported injured. Police made some arrests. Exact figures were not immediately available.

Police stopped a crowd of several hundred youths from storming a park where festival slogans are displayed and which houses a Soviet cultural exhibit. The exhibit was attacked by demonstrators Saturday night.

Reliable sources said at least seven of the 500-member delegation from East Germany fled to Sweden Saturday night and asked for political asylum. There was no confirmation of the report.

About 10,000 delegates are attending the festival at Olympic Stadium.
