We have noticed many different creatures traveling our road lately, but a new one to these parts is a large bear sighted a few nights ago by Merlin Quackenbush as he was coming home from his job at Camp White. He didn't see the bear until he was so close that he had to skid his tires to avoid hitting it. Bruen, quite unconcerned, sat down in the road and later went on his way.

Mrs. Ray Doran, while moving some pipes on the lawn Wednesday, let one touch an electric wire overhead which gave her a severe shock. It might have been serious, as conditions could not have been better for a terrific jolt. She was barefooted and standing in water.

Frank Straus, the Sams Valley realtor, a brief visitor here recently says that since there are many Negroes moving up this way, a realtor must be very cautious about how he treats them as prospective buyers. According to Oregon law, they are to be treated as others, regardless of color.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald S. Richardson left by plane Wednesday. Donald was a delegate to the Federal judicial conference for the Ninth Circuit Court at San Francisco.

Since we are not overflowing with energy we are going to copy some items from the secretary's book of the Arrow Head Gazette, published by the Arrow Head Literary society back about 1915. During its lifetime it had about a dozen editors, according to a news item. We had locally a Suffragette Club of about a dozen members who were pledged to keep out of any marriage entanglements. Agate, our neighbor community, had a grange which some local people belonged to.

The Arrow Head Club was working to get electric lights in the school house where they met. For several years after our community got electricity, home owners paid 25 cents a month for each light. There was no restrictions on size of bulb, and they could be kept lighted all the time; meters were unheard of. Mostly there was a light fixture for each room. A four room house had four lights which cost $1.00 a month, which many thought was too high, and stayed with the kerosene lamps. This item was written in July 1915. "Binding and having are order of the day; some of the grain is so heavy that it has fallen down."

Among the many editors of the Arrow Head Gazette was a local man still around, so we will copy his editorial. "We are with Bryan heart and soul in his peace movement, and believe that no one should ever fight while he is able to run. We agree with our Arrow Head president that if you are struck on one cheek turn the other, but if you are struck on the nose that is different."

Street Lights Go On In Hornbrook; Candidates Picked For Fire District

By KATHERINE CHAPMAN

Hornbrook—Tuesday, July 24, was the "Night of the Lights" in this small community in the Siskiyou foothills. For on that night, street lights were turned on for the first time in the almost 80-year history of this historic old former gold-mining town.

At present there are eight lights, located at strategic spots downtown and in the outlying district of Henley. Additional lights may be added if more persons request them.

This is a project sponsored locally by members of Hornbrook Grange No. 391, and more information may be obtained by contacting the Master, Mrs. George Michels, or any Grange member.

Cost of each light is $2.00 per month, and in most instances is shared by those individuals requesting them and benefitting the most by them. All lights must be installed on poles already existing over public streets. Individual bills are paid each month to the Grange, which, in turn pays the total amount to the Pacific Power and Light Co.

FIRE DISTRICT

Hornbrook-Siskiyou County Supervisor Earl Ager of Tulelake, representing district one, attended a meeting Tuesday evening of the board of directors of the Hornbrook fire district.

Open to the public, the meeting was held in the dry kiln building of the Black Mountain Lumber Co. and was exceptionally well attended by interested local citizens. One purpose of the meeting was to propose names of persons to be appointed new fire commissioners to replace those whose terms have expired.

Suggested as new replacements were Al King, John Rosenberg and Tony Shelley. These names will be presented by Ager to the Board of Supervisors at their next meeting on Aug. 14, and the appointments will follow.

It was pointed out by various members of the board of directors the urgency of erecting a building as soon as possible to keep the fire truck in, and the methods of securing money for the building and the lot to put it on.

One source of revenue would be to expand the fire district so as to make it correspond essentially with the boundaries of the school district, thereby making more tax money available, and also making the services of the fire district available to more persons.

Ager advised the group that he would attend the first meeting called by the new board of directors, and will have District Attorney Albert Newton Jr., accompany him and they will discuss the legal aspects of enlarging the fire district, and the method of accomplishing this aim.

Additional fire fighting equipment is badly needed also, it was stated by Al King and others, and this problem, too, will be taken up with the new board.

At the conclusion of the meeting, Ager spoke briefly in opposition to the new reapportionment proposition that will appear on the November ballot in California. This proposition has been given a new number—23—and replaces No. 13 on a previous ballot which was defeated in all but Los Angeles county.

Passage of this bill would give five more state senators to Los Angeles county, and one each to a number of other counties in the central and southern part of the state.

At a meeting in Sacramento last Friday, which Ager attended, nine state senators and 82 supervisors pledged all-out support to trying to educate the people concerning "the treachery of this dastardly bill."

Happy Camp Library Fund Drive Near Goal

Happy Camp—The Board of Directors of the Happy Camp Memorial Library met with the finance committee of the library recently to hear the progress made on a fund drive for a new building to house the library.

Mrs. Dempsey Willis reported to the board that to date the finance committee has raised $767.27 which is all clear, obligations of the recent carnival having been paid.

In breaking down the figure as to how the money was raised, Mrs. Willis listed: carnival proceeds over the four day Fourth of July Celebration, $236.27; proceeds from another event sponsored by the committee, $220.00; and donations, $311.00.

The goal of the finance committee is to raise at least $1,000 which is estimated to be necessary to build a new building on property that is being acquired by the association for that purpose. The library is now temporarily housed in the R & R Building.

Other members of the committee helping Mrs. Willis in the booth at the carnival and on the donation drive were Mrs. Mel Erskine, Mrs. Albert Attebery, Mrs. Harold Kuehl, and Mrs. Steve Watkins.

Meeting with the committee were four of the six board members: Mrs. Walter Aubrey, Mrs. Curt Morey, Miss Maxine Kuehl, and Victor Duesenberry.

Candy Kiss Hunt Slated By Grange

Eagle Point—A rocket ship full of "love and candy kisses" for all of the youngsters attending the parades both Saturday and Sunday afternoons at the Jacksonville celebrations will be sponsored by the Eagle Point Grange.

According to a spokesman for the group, it will have an entry in the parade with pioneer granger Vernie Matthews leading the delegation. Matthews is the oldest known pioneer cowboy who still rides the range with his cattle.

Also being sponsored by the Eagle Point Grange will be a candy kiss hunt on the Jacksonville Museum lawn following the parade.

All youngsters 8 years and younger may participate with each youngster being asked to pick up only one piece of candy and take it to the special platform for identification.

Several prizes will be given for the lucky pieces of candy but only one to a child.
