

Open House Honors Pair On Fiftieth Anniversary

Gold Hill — Mr. and Mrs. Alva A. Walker, 1030 Second avenue, Gold Hill, were honored recently on the occasion of their 50th wedding anniversary at an open house arranged by their two sons and daughters-in-law. Mr. and Mrs. John DeLos, Gold Hill, and Mr. and Mrs. William L. Walker of Santa Rosa, Calif. Approximately 15 friends called during the hours of 1 to 5 o'clock in the afternoon. The Walker home was decorated with arrangements of gladiolus and daisies, and gold streamers and bells.

For the occasion Mrs. Walker wore a gold lame sheath dress with gold accessories and her corsage was a white orchid. Mrs. Richard Walker served the wedding cake and Mrs. Wilmer Bailey presided at the punch bowl. Serving coffee was Mrs. Fred Baker and Miss Linda Walker took charge of the guest book. During the afternoon the Rev. and Mrs. D. E. Millard sang a duet.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. George Hamersley, Yreka, Calif., Mr. and Mrs. Roy Bailey, Portland; Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence

Wills, Fresno, Calif., and Mr. and Mrs. William L. Walker, Santa Rosa. The honored couple was married July 18, 1912 in Gold Hill. The late I. B. R. Morelock, justice of the peace and judge of the district court for north Jackson county, performed the ceremony.

Mr. Walker's parents are the late William R. and Mary Walker. He was born in Grants Pass in 1893 and moved to Gold Hill in 1900. His father was engaged in the livery stable business at that time when Gold Hill was a prosperous mining town. He attended Gold Hill schools which then included only the 10th grade.

Mrs. Walker is the former Miss Icie B. Bailey. Her parents are the late William P. and Katherine Bailey. She was born in 1894 at the Meadows ranch on Evans creek. Her father was a placer gold miner and timber worker. She attended school in Medford, Foothills Creek and Gold Hill.

During the couple's early married years, Mr. Walker worked for the county road department and the Gold Hill Cement plant and in 1923 he purchased a grocery business from W. H. Miller and Son. The store was located on Highway 99 which at that time had just been completed through Gold Hill.

They operated the store for 25 years, in the meantime erecting the present store buildings on Second avenue in 1945. In 1948 they sold the business to Fred H. Lester when they retired.

Mr. and Mrs. Walker have kept an active interest in community events and Mr. Walker still is an elected committee member of the Rogue Basin Flood Control and Water Resources association.

He is a past noble grand of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows lodge of Gold Hill and is a past master of the Gold Hill Grange. Mrs. Walker, a past noble grand of the Amethyst Rebekah lodge, at present is secretary of the Gold Hill Grange.

The couple has four grandchildren and one great-grandchild. Their third son, Asil A. Walker, is deceased.

Appetite Dull? Try Out Bliss or Moustalevria

By JEANNE LESEM
United Press International
New York — If something's always cooking in Grand Central Terminal, but not necessarily at the lunch counters and restaurants.

A recent food exhibit on the main concourse of the railroad station ranged from an Elizabethan English dessert, syllabub, to Turkish hors d'oeuvres and Finnish herring salad.

The food and folklore show was a joint effort of the European Travel commission and a camera and film manufacturer. It aimed the appetizing way to encourage travel to the 21 member nations of the commission.

Syllabub, prepared on the spot, lacked one touch of authenticity — a cow. The original method called for milking a cow directly into the bowl in which the milk, cream and wine dessert was made.

The Turkish appetizers were dolmas, grape leaves stuffed with seasoned meat and rice, and cold artichokes in seasoned oil and vinegar. The Finnish salad combined herring, beets, potatoes, carrots, dill pickles, eggs and apples. In addition to such national dishes, available throughout each country, Europe has hundreds of local and regional specialties.

They include partridge a la mode d'Ederra, a Spanish Basque game dish. The bird, stuffed with onion and garlic-flavored bread dressing, is roasted in a casserole, then served with a sauce of bacon, olive oil, sour apples and cream.

Pot-roasted plarmigan, a type of grouse, is served in Scandinavian countries with lingonberry sauce, somewhat like our cranberry sauce. Snipe, duck, coot, thrush, quail, partridge, woodcock, wild boar, venison, hare and mouton, or wild sheep, are eaten in two Italian provinces, Calabria and Sardinia.

Going to Holland? A Dutch dessert, zaligheid, is "bliss" in English. It is made with sherry-soaked ladyfingers filled with cooked dried apricots and topped with whipped cream.

Most of us know strudel as a dessert of paper-thin layers of pastry with sweet filling. In Austria, meat-filled strudel garnishes beef broth called lungenstrudelsuppe. A well-known Swiss dish is cheese fondue, the cheese melted in white wine and flavored with garlic and kirsch, a colorless cherry liqueur. Less familiar but equally delicious are a wide variety of sausages that are cantonal specialties. In Greece, moustalevria is a fringe benefit of the vintage season. This dessert is made from crushed grape pulp, molasses, soda, chopped walnuts or sesame seeds, and farina. Belgium's choux de Bruxelles veronique is another wine district dish, from the Moselle river area. It is Brussels sprouts and green Malaga grapes cooked in broth in a grape leaf-lined casserole.
