Jury Finds Bonbon Guilty of Charge

Dunsmuir, Calif.—Bonbon, pet of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Adams, Dunsmuir, has been named guilty of invading the privacy and damaging Boots, pet of next door neighbors Mr. and Mrs. Jay Smith. The verdict was returned by a jury on violation of the dog ordinance which states a dog must be fenced or on a leash at all times. Boots was tethered in the Smith's back yard. Bonbon trespassed and committed the damaging act. Adams paid a fine of $26.25, and was also given a 10-day suspended jail sentence.

Youth Admits To Prowling Three Cars

A 13-year-old Medford boy was lodged in Jackson county juvenile detention home Monday after he admitted to city police he had prowled several cars parked near the Catholic church, 326 South Dakota ave., Sunday morning.

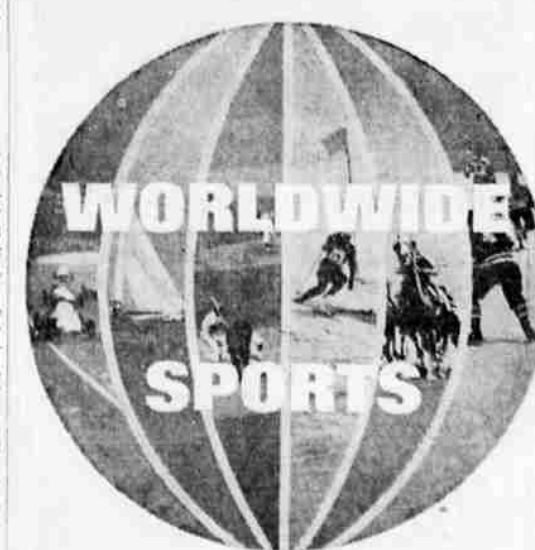

At least three persons who attended service Sunday morning told officers the cars had been rifled. Nothing, however, was reported missing.

Persons reporting their cars had been entered included Judy Ann Paup, 721 Holly st., Edward Clemens Nave, 987 South Oakdale ave., and Shirley Frances Lowry, 201 Valley View dr.

Small Worlds Around Us

By LYNN M. WATKINS

(Register and Tribune Syndicate 1962)

Cuckoo, Once Kew Kew, Signals Coming of Rain.
Very few of the neighbors knew what manner of creature made the call. None had seen it; only the harsh voice was coming from the forest, and very often just before a storm.

In those days the people were apprehensive of all things they couldn't see or didn't understand. The strange voice from the forest that repeated over and over the harsh "caw-uh, caw-uh" was heavy with the mysterious and the unknown.

because the call came more often on cloudy days or just before a rain storm, it became a rain omen. When the mournful cry came from the surrounding forest, the housewife hurried to close the windows and fill the woodbox with dry wood, preparing for a rainy spell.

One day the owner of the voice was located—a slender, gray bird with a long tail and short, rounded wings and a black bill. The discoverer noticed, too, that the bird flew with a quick, gliding flight. Perhaps he was the one that named the bird "kaw kaw."

National Council Official To Visit

A senior consultant of the National Safety Council from Chicago, Ill., is scheduled to meet Thursday, Aug. 16, with members of the Medford Safety Council to discuss Medford's home safety inventory program, according to Clyde Fichtner, chairman of the Medford Safety Council.

Doris E. Mersdorf, senior consultant in the home department of the National Safety Council, will spend the day with local council members and representatives from the city health, fire and building departments.

They will discuss the Home Inventory program, a "tool" designed to assist communities in evaluating their current home safety programming efforts and to assist them in developing more effective programs for the future, Fichtner said.

The inventory is sponsored every two years by the Home department of the National Safety Council under the guidance and direction of the Home Conference's Inventory committee, Fichtner added.

probably from the peculiar call.

But considering the bird does look something like a dove and if so often heard before a rain, he renamed it the "rain dove." Today we know this bird as the cuckoo, of which at least two varieties inhabit most of the United States—the yellow-billed and the black-billed.

The yellow-billed cuckoo is found abundantly in the South, while more of the black-billed cuckoos frequent the northern states.

The long tail of the yellow-billed cuckoo has a black edging on the outer tail feathers. And sure enough, its northern cousin has the lower mandible of the bill a jet black.

Most of the cuckoo's habits have now been observed and recorded, enough in fact to discredit the supposition that this graceful, shy bird is a bird of mystery. In fact it is a bird of considerable value, as one of its favorite foods is tent caterpillars. In areas where the cuckoo is in good supply there is little damage to trees due to tent caterpillars.

We have to admit there is some sense to the "rain business," so much so in fact that "rain-crow" has become a common name for this bird, and it still is listened to and obeyed when it calls for rain. It may be discouraging to some to know that this cuckoo does not sound at all like the funny little object that pops out of a clock and yells "cuckoo, cuckoo."
