FHA Group Home After Meeting

Miss Georgia Mitchell, district president of the Future Homemakers of America, has returned from Delake, Ore., where August 9 she attended a meeting of Oregon Future Homemakers of America officers. She participated in a workshop for district officers. She is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Budd Mitchell, 720 West Thirteenth street.

Miss Mitchell, who will be a senior student at Medford High school this fall, also will be chairman of the school's FHA chapter for the next school term.

She was accompanied on the recent trip by one of the high school's FHA advisers, Mrs. Margaret Harrang. Also attending from this area was Miss Linda Sommer, a senior student at Phoenix High school, who is district secretary.

Miss Sommer also participated in the workshop and Mrs. Harrang was a counselor.

Make Plans

During the workshop the district officers made plans for a district meeting to be held Saturday, October 27 in Medford High school, when FHA members from all of Jackson county schools and most of the schools in Klamath and Josephine counties will attend. Miss Mitchell will preside for the meeting.

State officers planned the 18th annual state meeting to be held in Corvallis next March.

The state FHA organization is made up of 10 districts with 110 chapters and 4,089 members.

Houseguests

Ashland — Houseguests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Roberson, 692 B street, are their granddaughters, Wendy and Debby Roberson, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Winfield Roberson, San Jose, Calif., and Joanne and Roberta Burdick of Ontario, Ore., whose parents are Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Burdick. They are also visiting their other grandparents, Dr. and Mrs. R. L. Burdick, 122 High street, and other relatives in Ashland.

Miss Cathy Watson, who sometimes earns a bit of money by baby sitting, was one of those who "sat" with this mounted deer displayed over the week end in the town Medford branch of the United States National bank. The deer will be sent soon to the Oregon State School for the Blind at Salem where it will be added to the school's equipment for teaching sightless children. Providing the animal for the school has been a special project of Rogue Valley Delta Gamma Alumnae association, having been started about a year ago as the result of a visit to the state school. Miss Watson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Archer Watson Jr., 402 O'Gara avenue; her mother is a member of the alumnae group.

Deer Stuffing Completed, Doe Given to Blind School

If there is a worthy cause, Rogue valley women will undertake it — no matter how unusual. Any doubters should be silenced when they learn that Rogue valley alumnae members of Delta Gamma, national collegiate sorority, have been engaged in stuffing a deer for the past year. True, the women did not do the actual work, but through their efforts children of the Oregon School for the Blind will soon have a beautiful mounted deer which they may "see" with their inquiring hands.

The deer-stuffing adventure began last summer when a group of Delta Gamma members from Medford and other Rogue valley towns visited the Oregon School for the Blind. They went to see a boy which the women had "adopted", for sight conservation and aid to the blind is the national project of this organization.

While at the school they were shown the equipment and teaching tools which are needed especially for the blind, including such objects as stuffed animals and fowls. By handling these objects, the children learn something about them. The school had owned a mounted deer for several years, but the hundreds of little, exploring hands had worn the animal's fur to practically nothing and he was in a deplorable state.

Proposes Project

When the local women reported to the group on the visit Mrs. Charles Martin of the Oregon School for the Blind, a teacher, proposed that members in this area make it their special project to supply the school with a new stuffed deer.

The plan was adopted and the women enlisted the aid of James Martin (he is not related to the Delta Gamma member) a valley taxidermist also living in the Eagle Point district. Permission was granted by state game officers, and in the fall Mr. Martin went hunting for just the right deer for the school. After three or four week ends of hunting, he shot a doe and the considerable task of mounting the animal began.

The taxidermist had worked primarily on fowls and animal heads, and had never mounted a large, whole animal before. He had agreed to donate his labor if the women would pay for materials. The funds for this were raised by means of a benefit bridge party given last winter at the Red Cross building.

Takes Much Time

Working largely in spare time, James Martin completed the mounting a few weeks ago and last week end the deer was displayed in the downtown Medford branch of the United States National bank. Mrs. Archer H. Watson Jr., publicity chairman for the alumnae chapter of Delta Gamma, reported yesterday that the animal had created a great deal of interest. Members and their young daughters took turns "sitting" with the deer and heard it referred to as both a donkey and a cow during the four days it was on display. Some wondered if it was for sale.

Peel Funeral home provided safety zone markers which were used to mark off the display area and Hoppe's greenhouse donated a quantity of ribbon in the sorority colors. Also aiding the cause is Eads Transfer and Furniture company, which will crate the deer for shipment, and it will be sent to Salem by Pierce Auto Freight company, the group reports. Western Oil and Burner company, for which Archer Watson works, has supplied a truck to transport the mounted deer around the city.

Mrs. T. J. Tinsley, president of Rogue Valley Delta Gamma Alumnae association, is making plans for a group of members to visit the school soon for a formal presentation ceremony. Pleased by the success of the "deer stuffing" project, Delta Gammas are planning to provide other mounted objects for the school. The superintendent has indicated that a flock of chickens—papa rooster, mama hen and some baby chicks, would be a fine addition to the school's educational equipment. After all, these should be comparatively easy as compared to a doe.—O.S.

Appointment Announced

White City — Mrs. John Scott Hall, Ashland, has been named Veterans' Administration Volunteer Services representative of the American Legion auxiliary for the VA domiciliary at White City. She replaces Mrs. Ethel Polly Offutt, Medford, who has held the post for the past five years.

Mrs. Hall was appointed by Mrs. Jack Larson, Springfield, department president of the American Legion auxiliary for Oregon, on August 1. She served as alternate prior to her appointment. Mrs. Hall is also a volunteer for the auxiliary at Legion General hospital.

Mrs. C. L. McBeth, Jacksonville, will assist Mrs. Hall as alternate at Legion headquarters at White City.

Parents Are Guests At Hornbrook Home

Hornbrook — Guests during the past month at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Fitzpatrick have been her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Preston, Blythe, Calif. Also at the Fitzpatrick home for a week were Mrs. Fitzpatrick's sister, Mrs. Margaret Smith and two children, Blythe, and Mr. and Mrs. Lee Morris of Sacramento, a daughter and son-in-law of the Fitzpatricks.

Mrs. Luis Fitzpatrick of Quannah, Texas, arrived here about three weeks ago for a visit with her son and daughter-in-law and plans to remain for several weeks more.

Safety Tips for Outings Given Parents, Children

"Alone, spurred by curiosity and unprepared for the perils that may lie ahead, a small child wanders in nature's playground."

"With luck, he will return safely. With thorough parental guidance and supervision his security need not depend on luck," according to Dr. Albert H. Domm, leading child safety spokesman and medical director for the Prudential Insurance company in the western United States.

He pointed out that many local families this month will take outings in the mountains, at the seashore, in the country and elsewhere close to nature. Other families in suburban and rural areas live near natural terrain.

"Curiosity will lead youngsters of these families to explore and stray from the path of safety. Exploration can be beneficial only if parents teach their offsprings common rules of safety and instill in them a sense of danger," the doctor said.

It takes only a moment for a child to wander off, he warned, adding that younger children must be watched constantly.

He endorsed the "buddy system" for older boys and girls — that there should always be at least two on any excursion so one could come to the aid of the other. He also pointed out that lessons learned in early youth may continue to offer protection as youngsters pass through their teens.

Supporting the important role played by the Scouts, YMCA, Red Cross and church and community youth centers and organizations, Dr. Domm suggested utilization of their programs and services in teaching children water safety, woodcraft and other lessons which can lead to a happier, healthier and safer life.

"When a child asks why he is not permitted to do something, explain — and be sure he understands and will remember — why he shouldn't engage in certain potentially dangerous activities," the child safety spokesman advised.

Offers Tips

Dr. Domm offered the following tips for parents of small boys and girls:

Stress the importance of staying on safe trails and avoiding short cuts.

Teach children to be careful near strange animals.

Train youngsters to go near or enter water only with parental permission.

Insist on shoes in areas where there might be broken glass, bits of metal, sharp stones or animals.

Explain why they should not climb trees or boulders or cross over or under fences where they might be shocked, cut or scratched.

Condition them to walk, not run, on ground which is slippery, pitted or littered.

with stones. Discuss and enforce safety precautions pertaining to play with matches and sharp objects. Identify poisonous plants and other open areas.

life and warn children about touching or eating them. Teach respect for the rules and laws of parks and other open areas.
