Center Program Listed; Orchestra Leader Lauded

Col. H. J. Meiring, 2460 Hillcrest road, will show colored slides Monday, August 20 at 1 p.m. in the Senior Activity center. The pictures will include scenes of one of this country's oldest forts, Fort Huachuca, Arizona, still an active army base but retaining many of the old buildings.

Colonel Meiring spent some time there last winter. The main group of travel slides will show the interior of Thailand and other parts of the Far East.

Preceding the pictures a member of the Senior Craftsman receiving committee will be at the center from 10 a.m. until 12 noon to register new articles and to take memberships of craftsmen who wish to sell their handiwork. A branch shop of the Senior Craftsman of Oregon is now sponsored by the Rogue Valley Council on Aging in the Ashland Art gallery, 31 Water street.

During July, despite the hot weather, over 300 seniors attended their classes in the center, used the library and enjoyed the travel pictures. The Center committee believes this is very encouraging sign of the interest in activities carried on at the center.

Visitors from other Senior Centers traveling through Medford have been noted.

The Center committee and the Executive Board of the Rogue Valley Council on Aging have expressed their "sincere sorrow and regret for the loss of one of the most faithful teachers and leaders at the center, Edward S. Root." He was the organizer, director, and leader of the Senior Center orchestra since it started in 1958. "Mr. Root gave of his time and interest unstintingly to the development of music for seniors, both former musicians and those who have learned to play under his careful teaching and leadership," a statement noted. "Not only did Mr. Root meet weekly with this loyal and enthusiastic group, but he spent hours of his time arranging and writing music for each member of the orchestra and directed them in over 18 outside concerts during one year."

Thursday, August 23, every member of the orchestra is asked to meet as usual at the Center at 10 a.m. to plan a memorial for their former leader and to choose a director to carry on the work.
