

Randy Costello and John Reid, the two Junior Red Cross delegates from the Jackson County chapter to the 1962 camp training session for youth, are pictured here with Granville Thomas, San Francisco, a volunteer water safety instructor for the session. Miss Costello attended Rogue River High school and young Reid, Ashland High school. The camp training took place in the Mt. Hood area.

Red Cross Delegates At Center

Miss Randy Costello, Rogue River High school, and John Reid, Ashland High school, returned this week after spending some time at the Red Cross Leadership Training center near Mt. Scott, Portland. Last year, students from different county high schools in the county are sent by the Jackson county chapter to the training center. This year approximately 80 delegates from Red Cross chapters in Oregon, California, Washington, Idaho, Canada and Alaska attended.

The first leadership center was in 1944, and since that time 63,400 students have participated in planning and sent students to 80 centers throughout the country. The American Red Cross also sponsors annual leadership centers for young American dependents as well as for native students in the Far East and Europe.

The purposes of these leadership development centers for youth are: To provide an opportunity for development and growth under conditions conducive to the understanding, development and appreciation of those personal attitudes and ideals upon which our democratic heritage is based.

To provide an opportunity for the development of skills so that, given the opportunity to learn by doing, the young person may function effectively in his role as leader.

To provide an opportunity to obtain knowledge of Red Cross and the world community that will equip the young leader to serve his fellow man with wisdom and understanding.

Both Jackson county delegates attended the Youth Aquatic school sponsored by the Jackson county chapter last June at which time they demonstrated their ability, skills, and interest in learning more about Red Cross and furthering the youth program in their schools. John is the son of Dr. and Mrs. John Reid, Ashland, and Randy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Costello, Gold Hill.

District Convention Set for Soroptimists

Ashland - Soroptimist club members are anticipating a busy fall schedule, the highlight of which will be the October 13 and 14 district convention. The two-day meeting in Ashland will be attended by representatives from 26 clubs in the district. Soroptimist clubs in Oregon and in Camas and Washougal, Wash. belong to the district. Preliminary arrangements were made Monday noon when Mrs. June McManus, La Grande, the district director, met with Ashland Soroptimist club chairman and Mrs. Mabel Winston, president. General cochairmen for the October sessions are Mrs. Frances Worth and Mrs. Mildred Klum.

Summertime activities were reviewed at a meeting held Friday evening in the garden of Mrs. Klum's home on Granite street, and reports from the biennial convention of the Soroptimist Federation of the Americas held July 8-13 in San Francisco were given by four members who attended.

The Ashland club was represented by the president, Mrs. Winston, and by Mrs. Worth, Mrs. Klum and Mrs. Adelaide Clary, who showed colored slides of the convention as well as sidelights of their San Francisco trip.

"Leadership with New Dimensions" was the convention theme keynoteed by the radio and television commentator Pauline Frederick, who emphasized leadership in world affairs. Stirring music, exotic decorations and impressive ceremonies combined with long and serious business sessions made the five-day strenuous but profitable, declared the club members.

Couple Returns From Canadian Trip, Fair

Mr. and Mrs. Loren Scheel, Route 3, Box 169 Medford, have returned home, after attending a church convention in Portland, touring the World's Fair and fishing at Paul and Pillar lakes, in Kamloops, B. C., Canada.

They were also at the town of Revel Stoke, on the Columbia river, where they attended the opening of the Transcontinental-Canada Jasper.

They toured Jasper National park and the Columbia ice fields and Lake Louise.

En route home, they visited Mr. Scheel's sister, Mrs. Fred Green, a former Medford resident. They camped at Culp lake and went deep sea fishing at Winchester bay before returning home.

Family Group Visits Seattle World Fair

Hornbrook - Making up a family group to attend the World's Fair in Seattle last week were Mrs. Bertha Bradley, her brother-in-law, Will Rogers of Grenada, and his sister and her husband and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Glidden and Carol Ann, all of Mt. Shasta. Joining them in Portland, were another brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Richardson, of Portland. Besides attending the fair, the travelers also visited the Portland zoo.

Get Rid of Summer Trash By Family Clean-Up Day

Getting ready to switch back to indoor living? Now's a good time to hold a family clean-up day to dispose of summer trash and make the house and grounds ready for fall and safe from fire and accidents.

An easy way to organize the work is to make out a written list of tasks for each member of the family, suggests Jean Kinkead, woman's consultant for The Travelers Insurance companies. Here's a checklist of clean-up jobs you can assign to members of the family according to age and muscle power.

Start in Attic
Starting with the room at the top, the attic, throw away old papers, boxes and cartons that have accumulated. It will save time if you go through things first yourself, mark everything that is to go and then let junior supply the brawn for carting it out.

Another good job for a teenager is a thorough check of the wiring in the house. Baseboard plugs, lamps and appliances should all be examined carefully for fraying or looseness. Make sure there are no wires running under carpets and that every member of the household has a lamp handy to his bed.

Do Yourself
A job you should do yourself is the locking away of drugs and poisons. Remember that some of your cleaning materials are potentially dangerous, too, and should be out of reach of small children.

The children's toys are apt to be found all over the house and a baseball bat on the stairs invites an accident. An assignment for each child might be the collection of his own toys and belongings, put away in his own toybox or bookcase.

The cellar is all too handy a place for storing things and junk is apt to pile up quickly, making a real fire hazard. Papers, half empty paint cans, old rags and worn rugs should be removed. Your husband might also check the furnace for cleaning and make sure there are a couple of buckets of sand or fire extinguisher handy. Also, the basement stairs should be well lighted, in good repair and have sturdy handrails.

Clear Yard
Files of autumn leaves and dead brush should be cleared out of the yard. If there's no pick-up service in your neighborhood, have "dad" burn the trash in an incinerator or near the center of a clear field. Burn only a little at a time and have a hose handy. Never burn on a windy day and be sure you know your local fire ordinances.

Put summer gardening tools in an out-of-the-way corner. Drain the power mower of gasoline and hang up sharp instruments such as sickles and pruning shears out of the children's reach. If you've done a lot of painting and furniture refinishing during the summer, be sure cans and bottles are tightly closed and that no soaked rags are left in corners.

Check Policies
Take a minute to check out your insurance policies to see that you are fully protected from fire, liability and theft.

Leave
Ashland - Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Hughes, their son William and daughter, Linda, left early this week for their new home in Fullerton, Calif., where they will open a photography studio. They formerly lived in Fullerton before moving to Oregon more than ten years ago. Mr. Hughes owned a camera and photographic service in Ashland on the Plaza for several years and later was located at 240 East Main street.

A homeowner's policy offers these, plus extras, all in one. You're protected against fire on house, garage, personal property and household goods, either on or off the property. If you need new quarters due to such damage, it provides an amount to cover costs of temporary shelter. In addition, such a package protects against theft and against liability in case some visitor or youngster is hurt on the premises.

In addition to such a review, you'll find it's also a good idea to keep your agent posted on any structural changes you make, such as adding a new room.

Bridge Game Is Benefit For Club

A benefit bridge game, with funds going to the Girls Community club, was sponsored Sunday afternoon by the Medford unit of the American Contract Bridge league. This is an annual event given to show the players' appreciation for the use of the girls' club for the weekly sessions of the Medford Duplicate Bridge club and for other bridge events.

Twelve tables participated. North-South winners were Mr. and Mrs. Paul A. Hatton, first, 192; Mrs. Glen Harrison and Mrs. W. W. Stevenson, second, 191½; Mrs. Sam Van Dyke and Mrs. John Dougherty, third, 185½; John Shortridge and Walter Ensminger, Grants Pass, fourth, 176½.

East-west winners were Mrs. R. T. Jones and Mrs. Dale Forncrook, first, 192; Mrs. Dolph Phipps and Roy Pruitt, second, 185; the B. L. Sanders, third, 178; Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Merrill, Grants Pass, fourth, 176.

Earlier this year local bridge fans sponsored a charity party with funds going to the national fund of the ACBL.

Refreshments for the event were also on hand for the weekly session of Medford Duplicate Bridge club Tuesday night. North-south winners were Mrs. Mary Trout and Paul A. Hatton, first, 153; Mrs. Richard Fennell and George Bratton, second, 151; Mrs. Jack Mitchell and Mrs. Frank Baker, third, 145; Mrs. Richard Milestone and Mrs. Paul McDuffee, fourth, 144½.

Winning east-west were Mrs. Leland Clark and Mrs. Glen Harrison, first, 156½; Mrs. Billy Blackstone and Mrs. Sam Richardson, second, 156; Mrs. John Dougherty and Roy Pruitt, third, 154½; Mrs. E. S. Robbins and Frank Christian, fourth, 152½.

Vacationers Home After Trip North

Returning home following a two week vacation, were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Grover, Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Schofield, all Medford.

Mrs. Grover and children went to the World's Fair, in Seattle and were joined by the group there. They then proceeded to Vancouver, B.C., and Pender harbor, took boats and cruised north to Georgia Strait and Princess Louisa inlet. They then went to Jarvis inlet where they camped for two weeks. They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. James Allen, Eagle Point, who have continued in their own boat into Alaskan waters. They plan to be gone about a month.

Soaps, Detergents Discussed in New Bulletin From OSU

A billion dollars a year "goes down the drain" as homes and industries use four and one-half million pounds of soap and detergents.

To aid shoppers in selecting the best soaps or detergents for household jobs, Oregon State university extension service offers a newly revised bulletin "Today's Soaps and Detergents."

Ninety-five per cent of today's washing products are detergents and five per cent soaps. This is an exact reversal of buyer habits of 12 years ago when only one in 10 used detergents, notes the bulletin author.

With more than 50 firms producing one or several of these cleaners, plus requirements of new types of fabrics, finishes and washers, the home laundress will appreciate the helps given in the bulletin.

Copies may be secured free at county extension offices.

Couples Make Mail Boat Trip to Agness

Hornbrook - Mr. and Mrs. Dwan Hamner drove to Cave Junction, Ore., on Thursday where they were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Collister. On Friday the two couples made the trip on the mail boat up the Rogue River from Wedderburn to Agness. The Hamners returned home on Saturday. Arriving on Saturday at the Hamner home were her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. David Holland of Corvallis, Ore. Over the week end, the Hollands visited their son and his family, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Holland and infant son at Oak Knoll Ranger station, down the Klamath river.

Medallions To Dangle From Socks

United Press International
Dangling medallions, worn around the leg at the top of knee or bobby socks, go back to school. They dangle from a colorful adjustable fabric garter. The garters invented by Joseph Tandler and Ted Noble, of New Haven, Conn., help girls to communicate about their love life. Worn on the left leg the garter means the girl is going steady; right leg, unattached.

The matchbox has sparked children's cost lines to a new fashion height. In what for them is a drastic deviation from the tried and true formula, coat makers have adapted the squared-off, well-seamed shape to both sporty and party styles.

More practical than a wood-surfaced desk, if the corner is to provide space for hobbies, too, are the many now surfaced with plastics such as formica or fiberlex. Paste, ink, paints, clay or scissors won't mar these washable surfaces.

Final Touch
For a final decorator touch, give the corner an area rug of its own. Consider a patterned rug if the rest of the living room is carpeted in a solid color, but keep the pattern small and simple not to detract from the main rug. Synthetic fiber rugs are the most practical for the purpose, since spilt ink or paints generally can be washed out readily.

Houseguests
Mr. and Mrs. Huse McKinney, of 422 South Fir street, have as their houseguests their daughter and grandson of Juneau, Alaska, Mrs. Robert Hoffield and son, Bradford. They plan to stay about three weeks. Mr. Hoffield is a sergeant with the state police of Alaska.
