

APPLICATION DENIED
Des Moines, Iowa - (UPI) - Mrs. Loretta Mae Walker's application for a beer permit was turned down Tuesday when neighbors objected that their children love the pizza sold in Mrs. Walker's restaurant and should not have to eat it where beer is sold.

TO ATTEND MEET
Salem - (UPI) - J. Al Head, assistant traffic engineer for the Oregon State Highway Department, will be sent by the Institute of Traffic Engineers to the Sixth International Study Week in Salzburg, Austria. Head was recently elected president of ITE.

Forester Appeals to Tree Cone-Pickers
Salem - (UPI) - An appeal has been issued by State Forester Dwight L. Phipps for persons who harvest forest cones to be careful. He said many trees have been damaged in the past by careless cone-pickers. Phipps said permits would be needed for those who work in the cone harvest which will begin early in September.

Eugene - (UPI) - The University of Oregon has received a $250,000 grant to activate a $500,000 "Project English" center. "Project English" is a national program for the improvement of the study of English.

Undersecretary to Testify About His Role in Estes Case

Washington - (UPI) - Undersecretary of Agriculture Charles S. Murphy is scheduled to testify before House investigators today on charges he was too soft on Billie Sol Estes.

The No. 2 man in the Agriculture Department, Murphy goes before the Senate investigations sub-committee with support from his boss Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman, top Democratic leader and former President Harry S. Truman.

Freeman has said that Murphy made a mistake in clearing Estes for an appointment to the National Cotton Advisory committee, but he said it was an honest mistake.

In Senate speeches Tuesday, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.) was Wayne Morse (D-Ore.) showered Murphy with praise. Former President Truman said he knows Murphy to be "an honest man."

But Republican Karl E. Mundt (R-S.D.) said Murphy's decision gave Estes needed prestige to "carry out his swindles."

Other congressional news: Taxes - Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey said he felt chances were good that the Senate would tighten up business entertainment and legislative lobbying allowances in the administration's tax revision bill.

The Democratic whip said the Senate Finance committee went "far beyond" what was necessary in easing the impact of the House passed provisions in the measure. A showdown on the issue is expected today.

Seminar - Rep. William E. Miller said today the Republicans will hold a seminar today at the Capitol to counteract what he termed "brainwashing" by Democrats of college students holding summer jobs in government offices. The Republican national chairman said the Democrats were indoctrinating the college students on a partisan basis at White House seminars.

Washington - (UPI) - A bill to grant tax exemption for settlements under the Japanese-American Evacuation Claims Act of 1948 may be called up for house action early next week, Rep. Al Ullman (D-Ore.) reported today.

Teamsters Lend Funds to Flight Engineers Union

Washington - (UPI) - James Hoffa's Teamsters Union was reported Tuesday night to have lent the Flight Engineers International Association (FEIA) $100,000 to help sustain its long strike against Eastern Air Lines.

At the same time, the flight engineers were reported to be talking of a possible merger with Hoffa's giant transportation union.

Eastern, which was hit by an engineers' walkout June 23 and totally grounded for a month, had no comment on either report.

Worked Out
Informed sources reported the $100,000 loan had been worked out with the Teamsters here last week. It was the second time within four years the FEIA has received financial support from Hoffa's union in a strike against Eastern.

The teamsters, guaranteed a $250,000 loan, since repaid, during the FEIA's 1958 strike against the nation's fourth largest domestic air carrier.

Don Byrne, a spokesman for the flight engineers, disclosed that Ronald Brown, FEIA president, had conferred in New York this week with both the Teamsters and the International Longshoremen's Association.

Possibility of Merger
He said he was sure "the possibility of a merger had come up in their discussions." Brown, who left New York for Boston Tuesday, could not be contacted for comment.

Neither could Jack Robertson, president of the FEIA's Eastern chapter, be reached immediately at his home in Miami.

A merger of the flight engineers with the teamsters could put Hoffa's union into airliner cockpits and take him a step further toward his announced goal of a single union representing all realms of transportation.

The $100,000 loan had been of the AFL-CIO, from which the Teamsters Union was expelled.

Businesses Behind US Foreign Travel

By JESSE BOGUE
UPI Financial Editor
New York - (UPI) - If you were trying to reach a traveler with a message he would think about, wouldn't it be a good idea to deliver it when he has some time for reflection?

A time for this would be not when he was on the road, but most likely at a time when he was reading. Even then, only the best obtainable words might be the only ones to register.

If you could use the work of E. B. White, Pete Martin, Hodding Carter, William S. Roy, William Faulkner, all writing about the thing you are working at, few critics would argue that you could do better.

This, in part, is the idea behind a project launched by the Ford Motor company and the American Hotel association in what Ford has hailed as one of the first efforts by an industrial firm to get some individual enterprise behind the "Visit the U.S.A." program.

This program was designed to bring travelers from beyond our shores to the United States. But if it stirs up some activity for the road by those who dwell within these shores, that's a good thing too.

Ford came up with a unique collection of travel lore presented so it would have appeal not only to the citizen of the United States, but to the person overseas who might be pondering travel here.

C. H. Dykeman, Ford publications manager, went back into the files of what most persons would call a "company magazine," the "Ford Times," which has a monthly circulation of 1.3 million, and made a selection of the descriptive articles by some of the nation's best known writers.

There were collected into a book, "Travel in U.S.A." It has been published in two simultaneous editions, one for persons already here, one for persons abroad; publication was in cooperation with the AHA.

The AHA furnishes the means for reaching the traveler; member inns make the book available for bedside reading.

Not Guide
This is not a "travel guide," in the ordinary sense of the word. Not a road map shows between the paper covers. There are some outstanding illustrations, which furnish a show in themselves. But the principal thing the book does is to tell the traveler a little of what there is to see in Atlantic City (in the winter, as seen by Pete Martin) and how it differs from what one could look for in San Francisco (Jackson Square, by Grace Macouillard and China town by Charles L. Leong). From Mississippi's William Faulkner comes a tale - of what he saw in New England. The taste of Washington, designed by Major Pierre Charles L'Enfant, is found through the eyes of a writer from abroad: Louis Deroche.

However, the literature is not uninterrupted. There are insets in both the American edition and the international edition. One tells the overseas visitor what to do when you visit the United States, how to get an automobile, what to expect at hotels and inns, where to get detailed information.

The other is for the United States traveler: how to pack for the long trip, how to travel light, suggestions on shopping. All in all, either the presentations seem designed to get over the idea; the United States of America is a good place to see.

Market Bid Sign Of Strengthening Spanish Economy
Madrid - (UPI) - Spain's application for association in the Common Market of the European Economic Community is a practical indicator of the nation's strengthening economy and of Spain's desire for an increasing part in international affairs, the Marques de Nerva told United Press International here.

"Our nation is solvent and our reserves are increasing at a rate substantially in excess of the estimates of the team sent to Spain by the World Bank last year," the Marques, whose name is Xavier Elorza and whose responsibility is that of director general of international organization, said. "The international experts calculated an increase of 100 million dollars in our national reserves for the entire current year. However, that figure was reached in the first 90 days of 1962, including our deposit of 15 million dollars in the International Monetary fund."

"Our accumulated reserves including this year's additions now approach one billion dollars." Claims Superior Backing
The Spanish treasury now claims for the peseta a backing superior to that of the U.S. dollar as far as fiduciary circulation is concerned. The Spanish figure is 70 per cent, asserted to be one of the highest in the world, in comparison to 50 per cent for the United States.
