

CP CANDIDATES—Leslie J. Bigham (right) and Donald J. Braund are two of the 16 candidates who have filed for the four city offices in Central Point. Bigham, who is running for mayor, has been a councilman for 14 years and was chairman of the planning commission for two years and is now a police commissioner for the CP police department. He was born and raised in Jackson county, and has lived in Central Point for 17 years. He has been employed by the county road department for 36 years, and at present is a maintenance superintendent. Braund, who has entered the race for city recorder, first came here in 1945 when he was serving in the Armed Forces. He moved here permanently in 1949 and opened the store now known as Pauline's Dress shop, and also worked for a lumber company in Medford. From 1951 until 1960 he worked in the office for a sawmill and logging company as bookkeeper and office manager. For the past year he has worked for Central Point school District 6.

Mail Tribune Table Rock Correspondent

Table Rock—A man who has been using our one-way road to go fishing became indignant when we told him this was a one-way road and our renter was moving farm equipment back and forth over it, we would have to stop other traffic on it. He was a resident of Medford and seemed to think that since he paid taxes and didn't tear down our fences and gates, like some do, we owed him the privilege of going through our land to get to the river. We would remind him that we too pay taxes, not only on property but each time we go to Medford to shop, we have to cram a few Indian head pennies down the throat of a hungry meter, which we are told is used to help pay the salaries of those who keep Medford ticking.

Sam Lettinkins of the Grants Pass area was a caller here Sunday. Some 70 years ago he had a farm in the Beagle district, near what was then the Watt Beebe farm. He was going to show some relatives the old farm, but things have changed so much in the last 70 years that he couldn't find it and we were unable to be of much help.

Finds Substance 'Apparently from Sky'
We received a telephone call recently from Mrs. Hazel Hollifield of Kanes Creek, who had found in her yard a substance that had apparently fallen from the sky. She said the Civil Defense director told her we could probably tell what it was. We went to her place and found a substance some had called owl droppings, while others had called it mold, but we don't believe it is either one. It is white on the outside, but when you take it in your hands, and crush it, it is black inside somewhat like carbon and undoubtedly has been burned and leaves smut on your hands like that in a stove pipe. Where larger specimens have lain on the ground for a few days it looks as if the ground had been burned.

We have read the editorial's relative to Medford's downtown merchants, which according to Wednesday's editorial by E. A. are in a state of ferment which Webster's says means a state of excitement or agitation. We expected something like this when shopping centers began to build up on the outskirts of Medford. This seems to be the trend to build a shopping center with plenty of free parking just across the creek or road from some thriving, but not too alert town and to take pages of advertising in local papers showing in many cases prices lower than downtown stores have been paying at wholesale. We went into one of these stores to see if we could sell some farm produce which he had on his shelves at eight cents per pound. He promptly told us that from a profit standpoint he couldn't buy the local produce, as he got it from Portland for two cents a pound. We countered with the statement that from the profit standpoint we couldn't buy from those who didn't buy from us. Personally we like to deal with those we have known for these many years, and whose products are good or they make them good, if there is a complaint.

'Keep Oregon Green'
On the side of a car we saw these words: Keep Oregon Green. Inside the car was a pack of cigarettes and a book of matches—two items that have blackened more of Oregon's acres than any other thing.

Recent visitors at the J. S. Richardson home were Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Jones, from Sacramento, Calif. Mr. and Mrs. Jones are former residents of the Beagle community. Mrs. Jones taught in several Jackson county schools.

Mr. and Mrs. Fredrick Rode and children David and Mary, from Redwood City, Calif., were week end guests at the J. S. Richardson home, and with Mrs. George Gardner of Medford. Rode is a grandson of Mrs. Gardner. They were returning from Seattle where they visited the fair.

Another former school teacher who visited the Richardson's last Friday was Mrs. Eva McCoy of Sacramento, Calif. She was a member of the G. P. Hall family who resided here several years ago on what is now the Orville Hamilton farm and was active in social and religious activities in the community.

Grandma Doran reports the arrival of Bruce Ray, a seven pound, six ounce boy, Aug. 23, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Shultz of Same Valley. This is Mr. and Mrs. Doran's seventh grandson.

Dennis Richardson, who has spent his vacation here with his grandparents at the J. S. Richardson home, left for Portland by plane Thursday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Edgcomb, and son Jerry, of Redding, Calif., were recent visitors here at the R. E. Nealon home. Mrs. Edgcomb, the former Gwendolyn Houston, a former resident of this valley, teaches in California.

CD SHELTERS CERTIFIED

Civil Defense officials announced this week that the buildings would be appropriately marked, but that they would not be stocked with supplies.

8 Attend Kerby High Reunion

O'Brien—Kerby Union High school students, faculty and school board members of 1935 to 1942 participated in the first reunion ever held by this group, Sunday in Grants Pass city park.

A family potluck picnic was attended by about 80 husbands, wives and children with 32 signing the guest book for former teachers and students.

From Illinois Valley
Representing Illinois valley were Donald Fulk, Peggy Monroe Fulk, Bert Elwood Equire and Vivian Pullen Tresham of Cave Junction; Charles Baird and Faye McLean Baird, Takilma; Sissie Hogue Wilson and F. C. Lytle, Fremita, Kerby; Lester Frost, Noma; Tyler Frost, Raymond Frost and Loretta McCracken Frost, Selma; and James Cooke of O'Brien.

Coming from Grants Pass were Edgar E. Brooks, a former teacher, Robert E. Stiemer, Virginia Thrasher Stiemer, Phyllis Jones Neely, Grace Thrasher Blanchard and Mrs. and Mrs. Walter (Roy) Perry. Perry was a teacher at Kerby Union High 25 years ago.

Carl Theurkauf and his wife Bernice Allen Theurkauf came from Crescent City; Ivan Haberman from Gilroy, Calif.; Lou Henry Schiro arrived from Port Orchard, Wash.; A. W. Wheeler, a former teacher, from Talent; Dolie Brannan Spancake, Roseburg; Mr. and Mrs. Ferd Jones, Gold Hill. Jones was a former principal at the school; R. O. Tucker, Langlois; and Les Henry Jr., Emmett, Ida.

Letter Read
A letter was read from Doris Jones Bickett, daughter of the principal Ferd Jones, who lives at Ft. Lauderdale, Fla. A telegram from Joe Walton in New York led to discussion revealing that his former home was the old Payne schoolhouse, now the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Williams near Holland and that his mother was a teacher at KUHS.

Many handshakes, recounting of life's events and introduction of families preceded and followed the picnic. Pictures of old classmates many of whom were present, stimulated tales of joy, hilarity and sadness.

Mrs. Ferd Jones, who once wrote for the Medford Mail Tribune, and her husband, the principal at Kerby Union High school, had a share in most of the recounted school escapades and experiences.

Bob Schumaker, whose father built the first grocery store in Cave City (now Cave Junction) on property purchased from Elwood Hussey at the site of the present Model grocery, told how it burned to the ground and with it Cave City, which was after all, only a grocery and a few other buildings at that time. Bob's father rebuilt the store and it now houses the present grocery and market. Bob and his mother came from Torrance, Calif., to attend the reunion.

Recall First Building
Recollections of the first log building which held the high school and grades, before it was moved into each of several other buildings in the same location and finally into the present main school building at Kerby, were related. Some teachers and students remembered taking their books in their arms and moving them over to this schoolhouse at mid-year. The year of the move remained controversial but was finally narrowed down to either 1933 or 1934.

It was decided to hold another reunion no longer than five years hence. Mrs. Robert Stiemer of Grants Pass has names and addresses of most of the students and teachers listed.

PEEK-POO—"Trixie," who belongs to Mr. and Mrs. Edward Glascock of Bandon, Ore., is a cross between a Pekingese and a poodle and is considered by some to be a new breed of dog. Medford dog breeders, however, fail to recognize the breed as registered, even though the dogs are becoming more and more popular. Trixie, who is six weeks old, is expected to weigh a total of three pounds at maturity. The cross of the Pekingese or lion dog of China dates back many years.

reports indicate. Some say that when white men first saw these dogs they were in the palace of the emperor of China, and during invasions an attempt was made by the Chinese to kill them so they wouldn't fall into strange hands. Genevieve Briggs, the Mail Tribune correspondent in Wilderville, says the dog can do outstanding tricks despite her small size. Note the dog's size compared to the antique iron.

Board Discusses Tax Rate, Prison

Yreka—A county tax rate and a new women's prison were discussed here earlier this week at a meeting of the Siskiyou county board of supervisors.

The supervisors adopted a county tax rate that is 25 cents lower than the 1961-62 figures. The rate will be $2.35 per 100 dollars assessed value. Ernest Johnson, county auditor, said the decrease is due in part to the revenue realized through the county sales tax and an increase of $6,620,395 in assessed value in the county.

In other action, the board requested that a telegram asking first consideration for Siskiyou county regarding a possible federal women's penal institution site be sent to Sen. Thomas Kuchel and Sen. Clair Engle, as well as to Congressman Harold Johnson.

The board acted on what has been termed "inside information," in requesting that the institution be located within the county.

Dr. Rand Agood of Yreka was appointed assistant county physician and health officer by the board. He replaces Dr. Donald Meamner, whose resignation was accepted at the same time.

Gordon Jacobs, Emory Parrish and Wayne Cummings were reappointed to the Henley-Hornbrook cemetery board at the meeting. At their first meeting in August the supervisors appointed to the Hornbrook fire district board Anthony Shelley, John Rosenberg and Alfred King.
